LONDON, Nov. 22.—Mrs. Clare Sheridan, who has just returned to England from Russia, where she went with M. Kameneff (President of the Moscow Soviet and chief delegate in the trade negotiations with Great Britain) for the purpose of making busts of Lenin, Trotsky and other Bolshevist leaders, has a fascinating story to tell of the men whom she met in Moscow and of the impressions she formed of conditions in Bolshevist Russia.

Mrs. Sheridan is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moreton Frewen, and widow of Captain Wilfred Sheridan, who was killed in the war. She is a first cousin of Winston Churchill, and enjoyed the friendship of Henry James, who wrote some of his most beautiful letters to her. As a sculptor she is best known for her busts of Mr. Asquith for the Oxford Union and of Mr. Churchill. The first part of Mrs. Sheridan's diary follows:

"Sept. 11, 1920—This morning I left London with Kameneff for Russia at his invitation. I was told the Passport Office would refuse me a visé; that I should be shot as a spy; that relations with Russia were going to be so tense that as an Englishwoman my position would be impossible; that as Winston Churchill's cousin I might be held as a hostage. Heaps more things they said which increased one's sense of adventure and flattered one's self-importance, but made one afraid. It was too good to be true. I decided to start all the same and obtained a passport that was good to Stockholm, and Kameneff assured me he could do the rest.

Kameneff as an Atheist.

"Sept. 12, on board the S. S. Jupiter.—We have just this moment come along the quayside at Bergen. This evening Kameneff had a cigarette with me in my cabin. We discussed philosophy, religion and revolution. It surprises me that he does not believe in God. He says his idea of God is domination and that he resents it as he resents all other dominations. He talks, nevertheless, with great admiration of Christ, who demanded poverty and equality among men, and who said the rich man had no more chance in the Kingdom of Heaven than a camel of getting through a needle's eye.

"Sept. 13.—Wonderful journey from Bergen over mountains through eternal snows. At 10 P. M. we steamed into Christiania, where we were met by Litvinoff (former Soviet Ambassador to England). I had visualized a small, sharp-faced, alert man. Instead I found a big square, amiable, smiling man. Litvinoff accommodated me in a room of one of his secretaries.

"Sept. 14 — Christiania newspapers have come out with headlines and photographs of Kameneff. One describes him as having arrived with a lady, tall and elegant, who carried in one hand a 'kodak apparatus and in the other a box of sweets. She does not look Russian and was heard to speak French.' I was delighted to find that Mrs. Litvinoff was English, and that we had many mutual friends. Both the Litvinoffs were most hospitable. They treated me as one of themselves and did not inquire into my politics.

"All day we remained in Christiania and made an expedition to a wireless station on a hill, from which there is a wonderful view. Misha, the eldest child, a boy of 4, accompanied us. He is unruly, wild-eyed and most attractive, the embodiment of Donatello's 'Laughing Boy.' He says, 'What for is my father a Bolshevist?' and tells his mother to ring the bell for a maid and not do any of the work herself. Litvinoff adores him and throws him about and makes him stand on his head. Coming home we ran races down the hill. To my great humiliation, Litvinoff outran me. He is a heavy man and I run well, but he was not even out of breath.

Adventures in Stockholm.

"Sept. 16—Yesterday at 8:30 A. M. we arrived in Stockholm, and were met at the station by Frederic Stromhead of the Left Wing Socialist Party of Sweden. It was an interesting contrast to my arrival in former years when the Crown Prince himself used to meet me and take me in a royal car to the Women Organize Committee To Forward Bills in Congress

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22. — Six national organizations of women, through representatives meeting here today, agreed to organize the Women's Joint Congressional Committee for the purpose of forwarding legislative measures in which they are interested. Mrs. Maud Wood Park of the National League of Woman Voters was elected Chairman.

The general Federation of Women's Clubs, the National Council of Women, Women's Trade Union League, the W. C. T. U., the Congress of Mothers and Parent Teachers' Associations and the National Consumers League agreed to the association.

VANDERLIP DEALS AROUSE SKEPTICISM

"CONTRACT" WITH A STRING

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Some doubt has been expressed here as to whether Washington D. Vanderlip of California is returning from Russia with actually signed contracts with the Moscow Government.

This doubt is strengthened by advices received at the State Department today that the Bolshevist organ Krasnaya Gazeta declared as late as ten days ago—Nov. 12—that the negotiations between the Soviet Government and Mr. Vanderlip for granting important economic concessions in East Siberia to American promoters had not been completed.

It is believed probable in some well-informed quarters that there is a string attached to any understanding Mr. Vanderlip may have reached with the Soviet Government, in the form of a demand for recognition by the United States Government of the Soviet régime before ratification of any promised contract granting valuable concessions to the American interests represented.

It was pointed out today that, as a condition precedent to restoration of trade relations between England and Russia, the Soviet Government made stipulations which must be assented to by Great Britain before commerce could be re-established on the basis that Great Britain desired, and the negotiations involve de facto, and possibly soon thereafter de jure, recognition of the Moscow Government.

Contracts Not Recognized Here.

It was reiterated at the State Department today that this Government does not recognize the validity of contracts or concessions granted by a Government which has not proven its right to grant such contracts or concessions, although sometimes things were done by an unrecognized Government which seemed right and proper, and that the Government succeeding it with an unchallenged right, sometimes confirmed the concessions. Without some such action on the part of a legitimate Government in Russia, it was added, the United States would not recognize such concessions as valid.

It is understood that the State Department makes no discrimination as between American and British nationals' rights in Russia in this regard, and will refuse, so far as this administration is concerned, to recognize as valid concessions the Soviet Government may grant to British subjects unless such concessions are later confirmed by a regularly constituted and recognized representative Government in Russia.

The statement was added at the State Department that the American Government had nothing against Washington D. Vanderlip personally. It had informed Americans generally that the Government would not feel justified in giving diplomatic support to concessions obtained from the Bolshevist Government in Russia.

In answer to an inquiry today concerning the resumption of trade relations with Russia, Norman H. Davis, Under Secretary of State, stated that "subsequent developments have confirmed the department more strongly than ever in the soundness of its position as defined in its letter to the Italian Ambassador."

Under Secretary Davis had in mind the reply by Secretary Colby to the Italian Ambassador's inquiry as to the position of the United States regarding the Russian-Polish situation—the now famous note of Aug. 10. This was the note in which the United States took

VIVIANI SCORES VICTORY

But Plan Is Believed to Have Been Blocked by Balfour in Council Meeting.

WANT AMERICA TO SHARE

Delegates Cite Our Refusal of Mandate and Wilson's Ban on League Army.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Nov. 22 (By telephone to Paris)—The Assembly of the League of Nations today was the arena of a diplomatic battle between its strongest members, France and Great Britain. France, led by the silver tongued Viviani, scored a signal initial victory over Britain, led by the astute and skilled diplomatist Balfour. The result of the discussion opens the way for a revision of the Turkish treaty.

Armenia was the football in the struggle of the giants. It was decided that the Council should assign the duty to some power of negotiating with Mustapha Kemal to save Armenia.

In order to understand this, one must consider the situation in Asia Minor today. Kemal, nominally an outlaw, holds Anatolia, nearly all that the treaty left to Turkey. The French were anxious to negotiate with him as a de facto power. Britain held firm for the policy of crushing him. Owing to Venizelos, Lloyd George was able to have his way, but the Greek Premier has disapeared from the case and the French see a chance of restarting their policy.

Their attitude today implies that negotiations with Kemal, beginning over Armenia, may be followed by others on more important subjects. This is the hope of the French and the fear of the English.

Believe Plan Blocked in Council.

Under the terms of M. Viviani's resolution by which the League Council was to meet immediately to select a power to negotiate with Kemal about Armenia, the council assembled at 6 o'clock this evening in secret session. When it adjourned an hour later it was announced that Armenia had not been discussed owing to the absence of Signor Nittoni and M. Bourgeois.

As a matter of fact Tittoni was seen to leave the building fifteen minutes after the meeting began and as every one here knows Bourgeois has been hors de combat for three days owing to illness. So it is generally believed that Balfour has managed to block the French proposal.

On the other hand the Vice Presidents of the "Steering Committee" also met and chose six members for a commission to devise a solution on Armenia, in accordance with a resolution proposed by Lord Robert Cecil, this action to take effect in case Lord Robert's resolution is accepted as an alternative to that of M. Viviani.

It is expected that the Council's failure to carry out the resolution voted by the whole Assembly will precipitate a battle royal on the floor of the Assembly tomorrow.

It is a question whether today's developments helped or hurt the League. On the one hand it appears to have been made an instrument for the enterprise of one powerful member. On the other hand it was transformed from a debating society, where small powers expressed their unimportant views, to a real parliament of nations, in which the big powers fought for something real and material.

An additional feature of the discussion was the repeated applause that greeted references by the speakers to the plan of the League having an armed force. One speaker after another regretted the League's lack of strength and Viviani's lament on the subject brought forth applause, not only from the members but from the visitors' gallery.'

Balfour Presents British View.

This debate, the most important that has yet taken place in the Assembly, started on the resolution by Lord Robert Cecil, representing South Africa, amended by Henri La Fontaine of Belgium, that a commission of six members be chosen to consider "what steps

Mooney Bomb Throwing Case is Reopened; Grand Jury to Hear Charges of Fraud in Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—District Attorney Matthew Brady tonight asked the San Francisco Grand Jury to investigate the statements of Police Officer Hand and others that Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings were convicted of participation in the Preparedness Day bomb murders of 1916 through fraud.

Hand and others, Brady said, would be called before the Grand Jury to testify in order to determine the veracity of Hand's statements. Hand was one of the chief investigating officers of the Police Department in obtaining and offering evidence against Mooney and Billings.

"If the Mooney trial was 'framed,' as Hand alleges," said Brady, "I want the facts before the Grand Jury. If there is no foundation to Hand's story, I also want the facts brought before the public."

Brady said he was powerless to cause a retrial of the cases against Mooney and Billings, but that the jury's findings would be sent to Governor Stephens.

It was said the jury tonight received a letter which purported to show one witness against Mooney had admitted he gave false testimony.

Guatemalan Ex-President Asks Wilson's Aid to Obtain Release

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Estrada Cabrera, deposed President of Guatemala, in a communication received at the State Department and forwarded to the White House, asks the good offices of President Wilson to obtain his release from prison, where he has been since the revolution which resulted in his overthrow.

The appeal of the former Guatemalan President is based on the ground that for the more than twenty years of his Presidency of Guatemala he was consistently the friend of the United States and that his imprisonment is affecting his health.

WILL NOT ASK ROOT TO ENTER CABINET

Harding Said to Have Decided So Because of New Yorker's Support of League.

KNOX HIS LIKELY CHOICE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Elimination of Elihu Root from consideration in connection with the appointment of Secretary of State in the Harding Cabinet is now accepted. Senator Harding, it is understood, has decided that he will not ask Mr. Root to enter his official family.

There is reason to believe that Senator Harding is inclined to favor Senator Knox of Pennsylvania for the place. According to information reaching Washington, Mr. Harding has intimated to Mr. Knox that he might ask him to accept office under his Administration, which means that he has the Senator in mind for the Secretaryship of State.

Ever since it became known that while Mr. Root was in Europe as a member of the committee of jurists who drafted the plan for the international court of justice at the instance of the Council of the League of Nations, he sent a cable message for Mr. Harding's information which expressed sympathy with the present League organization, Mr. Root has been opposed by the "treaty irreconcilables."

Many of these men are friendly to Mr. Root and admire his ability, but they object to having at the head of the Department of Foreign Affairs in the Harding Cabinet a man who does not share their opposition to the League. So an effort was begun to persuade Mr. Harding not to ask Mr. Root to become Secretary of State. That the effort has been successful now appears assured.

In the cable message which Mr. Root sent a man in this country in response to an inquiry in behalf of Harding, the ex-Secretary, while urging the elimination of Article X. and the "Americanization" of the League covenant, indicated that the League was about to become a going concern and that he felt that it would not be wise to try to "scrap" it because such a course would threaten world chaos. He took the position that it would be well to keep the present league organization, but modify it to suit the views of the United States Government.

When Senator Harding received Mr. Root's expression of views on the League of Nations, there was a report from Marion that he was provoked by Mr. Root's observations. Later it was said that he was extremely angry that Mr. Root had given him the advice he did. When the text of the message was published, this report was revived and there was an inclination to accept it as having some foundation.

Mr. Knox is more in accord with the Johnson-Borah group of irreconcilables than any other member of the Senate who has been thought to have a chance of being asked to become Secretary of State. Some of the irreconcilables, however, prefer Dr. David Jayne Hill, former Ambassador to Germany, and there are indications that he will be urged upon Mr. Harding by some of the "bitter-enders."

Charles Evans Hughes is also mentioned for the position, but there has been no apparent effort to have Mr. Harding consider his name, possibly because of the belief that he would not be inclined to accept.

It has been predicted that whenever he took up the League problem, Senator Harding would have to cross swords with Johnson, Borah and other Senators who are opposed to any international organization that would bind the United States to follow any other than its own course in the event of danger to the peace of the world.

In deciding not to ask Mr. Root to enter his Cabinet, Mr. Harding has avoided one danger that confronted him in his desire to preserve party harmony. His difficulty will be to find a Secretary of State who will have the confidence of the country to the degree that Mr. Root would inspire.

It became known here today that the President-elect would begin Dec. 10 in Marion to confer with "leading minds" on the country's foreign relations. These conferences, which will continue until the latter part of February, will discuss chiefly plans for a substitute for the League of Nations, which Republican leaders say will not be considered by the Senate.

Men representing all sides of the treaty dispute have been invited and it is

NEW STATE INQUIRY LOOMING FOR ALL CITY DEPARTMENTS

Sweeping Legislative Investigation Next Spring Said to Be Considered.

UNTERMYER WIRES TAPPED

Committee's Counsel Also "Shadowed" by City Detectives, Representative Says.

SLEUTHS IN TURN TRAILED

Court Again Upholds Committee in Subpoenaing Employe of Builders' Supply Bureau.

The possibility of a sweeping legislative inquiry into city departments next Spring, with Samuel Untermyer at the helm, loomed up yesterday. The powers of the Lockwood Committee may be extended to embrace the investigation into city affairs, or another committee may be named for that purpose by the Legislature.

A State investigating committee looking into the work of city departments would spend considerable time in an examination of the Dock Department and the system surrounding the letting of piers by the city, it was said. In this way the relations of certain favored contractors with politicians high in the councils of Tammany Hall would be bared.

The possibility of another investigation has been rumored since pressure was brought to bear several weeks ago on Republican members of the Lockwood Committee to have the present inquiry delve into the work of city departments. Mr. Untermyer set his foot flatly down on the proposition, and it was reported that he threatened to resign as counsel to the committee if that intention were carried out. He said that the Lockwood Committee was appointed for the purpose of making a thorough investigation into the housing situation, and that to divert it to an inquiry into city departments would subordinate it for partisan political purposes. It was suggested, however, that if the present inquiry developed facts that might warrant another investigation, next Spring would be the best time for the new inquiry to begin, as Mr. Untermyer would then have finished his report.

The present inquiry is expected to end about the middle of January, after which Mr. Untermyer will draw up his report and then go South for a rest. On his return, if the Legislature is still desirous of pursuing another inquiry, Mr. Untermyer may accede to a request that he act as counsel.

Would Go Into School Contracts.

The city's contracts for public schools made by the Hylan Administration would come in for severe scrutiny in a new inquiry. Evidence already adduced before the Lockwood Committee has convinced Mr. Untermyer that in some cases the city was paying 350 per cent. above a fair price for school buildings, and that sub-contractors in many instances acted in collusion, particularly in the heating and ventilating, plumbing and limestone contracts.

The proponents of another State investigation look with amusement on the Hylan Administration delving into its own contracts, and feel that the city investigation, in the words of Mr. Untermyer, would be generally considered a "whitewashing" operation.

It was pointed out yesterday that the city has little power to conduct such an investigation, and that the Board of Estimate's power to issue subpoenas was questionable.

The report that Mayor Hylan's removal would be demanded in the event an investigating committee made a report adverse to the Mayor was pronounced unlikely by politicians yesterday. Such a move, it was said, would undoubtedly result in a great sweep of popularity in favor of Mayor Hylan, whose friends would interpret it as another move of those in favor of an eight cent fare. The only result that could follow, it was said, would be the renomination of Mayor Hylan next year on the "eight cent fare" issue, and his return to power by an enormous vote.

It was learned yesterday that Mr. Untermyer has broken completely with the city administration on the matter of the city's investigation of its contracts. Mr. Untermyer was to have had a conference last Saturday at his country home, Greystone, near Yonkers, with Grover Whalen, Commissioner of Plant and Structures, and Corporation Counsel O'Brien, but canceled it.

Thinks Administration Broke Faith.

Mr. Untermyer feels that the suggestions he gave the Board of Estimate last week were sufficient to safeguard the city as well as honest contractors and their employes, and that the city in ordering another investigation has broken faith with him. He urged that the city turn over to the Lockwood committee the names of all contractors and sub-contractors, and that when the committee came upon any of these names it would turn over to the city all the facts in its possession for further investigation.

A representative of Mr. Untermyer said yesterday that Mr. Untermyer's telephone wires had been tapped for several weeks and that he had been shadowed by Central Office detectives. He said that Mr. Untermyer had complained to the Police Department, but that the tapping of his wires and the trailing still continued. Mr. Untermyer's "shadows," it was said, are trailed by detectives en-

Report Girls Led Irish Bands to Kill Officers; Lord Mayor of Dublin Asks Police Protection

LONDON, Nov. 22 (Associated Press).—Girls played a prominent part in yesterday's scenes in Ireland, according to reports reaching London this afternoon. A motor car driven by a nurse, Linda Kerins, which was proceeding toward Dublin late on Saturday night, was held up near Sligo and found to contain ten rifles, four pistols and much ammunition.

Another report said the men who did the shooting on Sunday morning evidently were strangers in Dublin, and some of the squads were led to "spotted" houses by girls.

The Lord Mayor of Dublin applied for police protection last evening, it was stated officially today. The Viceroy gave permission for a guard's being sent, but no regular military or police being available a party of "Black and Tans" was sent to guard the Lord Mayor.

GENERAL MOTORS CONTROL IS SOLD

MARKET PRICE $47,250,000

Deal Embraces Move to Stabilize the Nation's Entire Automobile Industry.

Pierre S. du Pont, through the medium of the newly formed du Pont Securities Corporation of Wilmington, yesterday took over from William C. Durant, President of the General Motors Corporation, a block of slightly more than 3,000,000 shares of General Motors stock. J. P. Morgan & Co. were the bankers in the transaction, the consummation of which gives to Mr. du Pont and the Morgan interests something more than 51 per cent. of the outstanding General Motors shares and complete control of the company.

The amount of money involved in this operation, which was said to be probably the largest that has been completed in some time, was not stated. At the market's closing price for General Motors 3,000,000 shares would be worth $47,250,000, but it was explained that not all of the payment to Mr. Durant had been made in cash; part had been made in the shares of the du Pont Securities Corporation, and for this reason no positive amount of money could be mentioned.

The passing of absolute control of the General Motors Corporation into the hands of Mr. du Pont and his associates and J. P. Morgan & Co. is a further step in the establishment of this company in the same relation to its field that the United States Steel Corporation occupies with regard to the steel industry. Those who now dominate the concern have for some time past been aiming at a great company which will have sufficient power to stabilize the automobile business just as the Steel Corporation has been able to do this in the steel and iron market, and the Durant shares which have now been acquired are expected to accomplish this purpose.

Market Price Advances.

The first word that Mr. Durant had parted with a considerable block of his stock in General Motors was contained in a brief statement which he issued yesterday. This statement said:

"I have sold a substantial block of stock of the General Motors Corporation to the du Pont Securities Corporation of Wilmington, which has been formed by Pierre S. du Pont and his associates, and in the stock of which I will have a large interest."

Negotiations for the acquisition of the 3,000,000 shares held by Mr. Durant by the du Ponts were begun last Thursday, it was said yesterday, and were completed yesterday morning. It had been supposed for some days that a large block of the stock was overhanging the market, and the announcement served to allay all market fears and the stock promptly advanced, going from 14 to 15¾. On last Friday it had sold at 12⅞, the lowest for the present year, as compared with 42, the year's high, on March 26.

The taking over of the Durant stock does not mean the elimination of Mr. Durant as an active force in the affairs of the company. He is said still to retain a large stock interest in the company, variously estimated at as much as 1,500,000 shares. According to information available yesterday, he will in all probability continue for the time being as President, but may ultimately become Chairman of the Board of Directors.

Adding the 3,000,000 or more shares which Mr. du Pont will get as a result of this operation, to his known former holdings, will give a total of approximately 7,500,000 shares in his hands. There are outstanding about 20,000,000 shares of the common stock, so that Mr. du Pont now will have ownership of approximately 37½ per cent. of the company's common shares. The Morgan holdings have not been stated, but it was said yesterday that they held enough additional stock to give to the du Pont-Morgan group more than 51 per cent. of the stock.

The Morgans came into active identification with General Motors last June

FIGHT IN COMMONS SUSPENDS SESSION

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Joseph Devlin, Irish Nationalist leader, this afternoon was the centre of a struggle on the floor of the House of Commons. For two or three minutes a group of members sitting near the Irish members took part in a rough and tumble scramble, which was brought to a close only by the Speaker declaring the sitting suspended. On its resumption a quarter of an hour later apologies were exchanged. The Speaker was at pains not to take serious note of the incident, and steered the House into smoother waters on the Agricultural bill.

The trouble arose at the end of the question hour. Sir Hamar Greenwood, Chief Secretary for Ireland, was asked for particulars of the outbreak of assassination on Sunday at Dublin. He read out the details of what he described as "the most awful tragedy in British history." At first, as he mentioned the capture of a few prisoners, there was a cheer, but as he went through the long list of murders, briefly describing each, the House became absolutely still. The sordidness of the outrages seemed to grip the House and appall it.

"A woman resident," said Sir Hamar, "went from room to room seeking help, and found only dead, dying and wounded," and the members gazed at each other in gloom.

Without any attempt at rhetoric, and with hardly a word to express his own feelings, the Chief Secretary read his record, and as he sat down there was silence throughout the House. Then Mr. Devlin arose and members did not wait to hear him. "Sit down, shut up," came from all parts of the House, but for a time he persisted, shouting back angrily. The Speaker told him he would have his chance later, and he gave way to Sir William Davison, a Unionist member, who wanted to know if the Prime Minister would not take greater powers to put down assassinations.

Mr. Lloyd George replied that the Government certainly would if it thought them necessary to cope with this "cleverly organized and highly subsidized conspiracy," and then, amid renewed interruptions, Mr. Devlin asked Sir Hamar Greenwood why he had said nothing about the killing of ten spectators at Croke Park football match.

"Because I was not asked that question," replied the Chief Secretary. "I am prepared to do so now."

Mr. Devlin sprang up again and began shouting at the House. Members hurled back his jibes and pandemonium reigned. The Speaker was on his feet, but no one paid any attention to him. Major Molson, Unionist, sitting in front of Mr. Devlin tried to force him into his seat. Devlin squared up at him and members nearby grabbed at him to restrain him. From all the benches near men sprang into the scrimmage, some to end it, some to attack the protagonists. Jack Johnson, a brawny Labor member from a London dock constituency, was heard bellowing as he came plunging through the throng to the aid of Devlin, and Lady Astor hung on the skirts of the struggle begging and beseeching every one to "behave yourselves."

For two or three minutes it lasted, and then the Speaker made himself heard above the din, suspending the sitting. Members stayed in the House, arguing and trying to soothe the combatants, and when the Speaker resumed the chair a quarter of an hour later, Major Molson arose and apologized to Mr. Devlin and the House. Mr. Devlin made similar apologies, and when Jeremiah McVeagh, another Nationalist member, complained that the honorable member opposite had called him a liar, the Speaker raised a laugh by saying, "I am sorry I was speaking myself at the time and did not catch the honorable

DUBLIN, Nov. 22.—Bloody Sunday, as yesterday is described, has resulted in a casualty list of more than one hundred. All train services have been suspended and Curfew Hour has been put forward from midnight to 10 o'clock, and a system of permits for private motorcars is to be reinstituted on Dec. 1.

The entire city is in a state of nervous tension. Shootings of policemen and ambushing in the country districts continue, and there have been burnings at Swords and Skerries.

Full details are lacking of the occurrence at Croke Park, when spectators at a football match were fired upon by troops and police. Dublin Castle says the presence of Sinn Fein gunmen is proved by the capture of motor parties on the way to Dublin. They were carrying arms, and it is believed that a large number must have got through. In one instance a car was held up and in it were found ten rifles, some of which have been identified as belonging to murdered policemen, four revolvers, several hundred rounds of ammunition and equipment.

Altogether about twenty men were arrested on Saturday. Ten were taken into custody on the previous day, and, as already reported, four were captured in connection with Sunday's murders.

It was known, a Dublin Castle official states, that parties had come to Dublin by motor and it is estimated that 200 men were engaged in outrages. Knowing that legal gatherings are used as pretexts for assembling, the authorities decided that they ought to search the spectators at the football match for arms.

DUBLIN, Nov. 22.—Dublin tonight is in the grip of the military. Its main roads are held by armed cordons. Motor traffic has been stopped and the cordon gradually is closing in and raids from house to house are proceeding.

The City Hall has been commandeered for the accommodation of the military, which will take possession tomorrow. Dublin's hotels also have been commandeered.

The City Halls of Cork, Kilkenny, Waterford and other Irish cities and towns were raided by the military today. Books and letters were seized and numerous arrests were made in Cork.

There were many pitiable scenes outside of the hospitals today, and many women and children were seen weeping when hearses arrived to remove the bodies of victims.

The football park was visited by crowds today, including William Clarke of Toledo, Ohio, International President of The American Glassworkers' Union, and Thomas McCreary, Superintendent of the Phoenix glass works of Pennsylvania.

Cartridges found in the park were given to the visitors as souvenirs. The ground resembled a shambles.

Military Surround Dublin.

DUBLIN, Nov. 22 (Associated Press).—There has been tremendous police and military activity in all parts of the country today. Raids, searches and arrests have occurred in all directions. This evening the City of Dublin is surrounded, and apparently is being combed by the military and the police. There was incessant firing early in the evening.

There also was much firing in Cork tonight, but no fatalities have been reported. Raids by men in lorries were made at the Cork and Queenstown town halls and the residences of the town Clerks of these cities. Many documents were seized. Thirty-six arrests were made at Queenstown.

Other places raided included Fermoy, Carrick-on-Shannon, Galway, Listowel and Clonmel. In nearly all these places documents belonging to the local Councils were taken. At Galway those taken into custody included Professor O'Brian and many students of the college. Some houses in the vicinity of Galway were burned. These included the residence of Mrs. Delia O'Connor, who recently returned to Ireland after a long residence in the United States.

Constable Ryan, who was kidnepped in Cork on Sunday, has been released.

Discuss Sending More Troops.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The sending of additional troops to Ireland is being seriously considered, it was stated at the War Office this afternoon.

Reports to the Irish Office from Dublin which were in hand by noon today said three or four unidentified persons had been killed in that city late last night. Several policemen had been killed in other parts of Ireland, the Irish Office announced.

A brief telephonic message at 8 o'clock this morning had reported the city at least temporarily quiet. Then came a gap in the reports up to the noon hour, but whether this indicated a censorship was not known.

Meagre reports during the night stated that shooting was going on as a sequel to Sunday's assassinations and the subsequent clash between the military and a crowd at Croke Park.

A dispatch to the Press Association from Dublin early this afternoon placed the number of dead resulting from the Croke Park shooting at twelve.

Official announcement was made this afternoon that the assassinations of officers in Dublin totaled fourteen, while six persons, including Sinn Feiners, were injured during the attacks. Four prisoners were taken. These figures do not include the casualties at Croke Park.

Because of the perfection with which the attack upon the officers was planned, says an official report, the troops and police in Dublin made very few arrests of suspects in connection with Sunday's shootings.

Murders Alienate Labor Leaders.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Members of the Parliamentary Labor Party tonight discussed the question of the departure of the Labor Commission on Reprisals to Ireland in the light of events of the week end, and decided that the departure of the commission should be postponed. A resolution was passed expressing deep horror of the brutal assassinatio nof British subjects, civilians, and military, and condemning such acts as embittering British public opinion and providing the Government "with apparent justification for their policy of reprisals."

An appeal was made to both sides for an immediate truce and leaders of the Sinn Fein movement were called upon to repudiate the outrages committed in the name of Irish Nationalism and to take every possible step to bring them to an end.

"Outrages and reprisals by whomsoever committed," the resolution said, "have thrust into the background the real problems, and until they are terminated there can be no progress made towards inauguration of an era of peace and freedom in Ireland."

OTHER SUNDAY CASUALTIES.

Five Dead and Many Wounded in Several Irish Districts.

NEWRY, Ireland, Nov. 22.—Head Constable Kearney was shot and probably mortally wounded here last evening by unknown persons. Subsequently the house of Former Sergeant Curran of the constabulary was set on fire.

CORK, Ireland, Nov. 22.—The body of an unidentified military officer, dressed in civilian clothing, was discovered this morning in a feld two miles outside Cork. His death was reported to have been due to bullet wounds.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SKIBBEREEN, Nov. 22.—One constable was killed and another wounded in ambush last night at Leap, near here. Two at least of the assailants are believed to have been killed and their bodies taken away by their companions.

As five constables emerged from a hotel a few minutes after 9 o'clock they were immediately fired on by a party of men numbering about fifty, concealed behind a low wall ten yards from the door of the hotel. Constable Jays was killed early in a fierce engagement which lasted half an hour and Constable Mills was wounded in the arm, but continued to fire on his assailants who in the end dispersed in disorder. His condition is grave.

During the battle twenty policemen in barracks only thirty yards away remained at their post, fearing an attack from 200 armed men who occupied the surrounding hills. Military and police are scouring the district today but no arrests so far are reported.

ASSAILS CROKE PARK PLAN.

The Daily News Says Authorities' Scheme Was Crazy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Tuesday, Nov. 23.—The Daily News, a radical organ, in an editorial article entitled "The Man With the Megaphone," says:

"The most ominous fact about this Irish tragedy is the way in which the scene at Croke Park football ground is being allowed to be passed over with the most off hand notice. What is the official explanation of this incredible performance? The only account so far given is that the authorities, believing armed desperadoes to be present in the crowd, sent a force of soldiers and police and auxiliaries to surround it. The official intention was that an officer with a megaphone should then walk on to the ground and proclaim the Government's intention, upon which the armed desperadoes were apparently to surrender like lambs.

"If this story is true, it explains a great deal of what has happened in Ireland. Did ever anybody charged with responsible administrative duties conceive a more crazy scheme or one more certain to lead straight to an appalling catastrophe? As a matter of fact, if the official account is true, the police were fired upon the moment they appeared. But if they had not been, if the man with the megaphone had gon onto the ground and delivered his message, what did they suppose would have happened? Then, when the first shot was fired, as it was obviously quite certain to be fired by armed men resisting arrest, what were the soldiers and armed police to do then and what was to happen to the vast crowd, including hundreds of women and children?

Certainly there are criminals in Ireland, if this account is true. There are criminal lunatics too, and some of them are in charge of its government."

The Daily Chronicle says that the scene in the House of Commons "was regrettable but scarcely surprising. Everybody likes Devlin personally, but when Sir Hamar Greenwood had finished his appalling narative of the Dublin murders the members might be pardoned for feeling that after a recital so unspeakably shameful for Ireland the least thing that an Irishman could do was to hold his tongue.

DEAD OFFICER BORN AMERICAN

Lieut. Ames, Killed in Dublin, Lived at Morristown, N. J.

Mrs. Eleanor G. Ames of Morristown, N. J., received a cable message from Dublin Castle yesterday announcing that her son, Lieutenant Peter Ashun Ames, of the Grenadier Guards, formerly of Morristown, had been killed on Sunday while on special duty in Dublin. Mrs. Ames said that her son had been on service in Ireland since last June.

Lieutenant Ames was 31 years old. He was born in Titusville, Pa., a son of E. H. Ames. His mother before her marriage was Miss Eleanor G. Bushnell of Morristown. Peter Ames attended school in Morristown. Eight years ago he went to England on business and decided to remain there. He took a position, and soon after the World War commenced went to the front with the British forces, having become a British subject. He took part in several engagements with the Germans, was gassed once and invalided home with trench fever on another occasion.

DE VALERA ASSERTS KILLINGS ARE JUST

"British Soldiers Are Spies in Ireland and Deserve Their Fate," He Says.

SEES PEACE IF THEY LEAVE

Only By Withdrawal of All Armed Forces Can Britain Win Ireland, He Declares.

In a long statement yesterday on the situation in Dublin, Eamon de Valera, "President of the Irish Republic," condoned the killing of members of the Royal Irish Constabulary by Sinn Feiners. His statement follows:

"When armed soldiers attack an unarmed populace, it is a massacre. There is no comparison between the guilt of the British soldiers, who from tanks and armored cars in full war outfit, with machine guns and rifles mow down unoffending civilians as they walk the streets intent upon their ordinary business, or attend a football match—or murder prominent Irishmen in the bosoms of their families—and the Irishmen who kill these British soldiers engaged in an armed campaign of violent aggression against the Irish people's rights.

"No British soldier has a right to be in Ireland. Those who are there are guilty of making war, not a civilized war, but a barbarous war on people who are guilty of no act of aggression against England.

"If the British withdraw their forces from Ireland, every individual of those forces will be unmolested so far as Irishmen are concerned. As long as the British forces remain in Ireland no Irishman is safe, either in his person or in his property. The aggression of the British and their invasion by force of Ireland's rights is the root-cause of all the bloodshed.

"Perfect peace between Ireland and Britain can be brought about within twenty-four hours by the withdrawal of these troops, and it is this that all peace-loving people should raise their voices for.

"Ireland is doing Britain no wrong, for Ireland is only claiming that which is hers by right. The conduct of the British troops in swooping down and firing their machine guns on an unarmed people, attending a football match in Dublin, is simply a repetition of the Armritar massacre in India, and whatever British officer was in charge in Dublin will be commended for it and rewarded as Dyer was, and later when that officer is made to feel by Irish republicans that, although he may commit these crimes with impunity so far as his own Government is concerned, he may not do it with impunity so far as Irishmen can secure it, his death will be classed by a British-controlled press as 'another murder by the Sinn Felers.'

"While the spokesmen of Ireland have been appealing almost in vain to moral forces, the British Government has been goading the Irish people to the limit of human endurance. When it was announced that Mrs. MacCurtain, widow of the former Lord Mayor of Cork, was to come to America to give evidence of the brutal murder of her husband by the British, she was shot at.

"Today the body of a priest who was about to come here to give evidence of the murders he saw committed by the British in Galway was recovered from a bog where he had been taken and shot by 'Black and Tans'—Lloyd George's Own.

"Ireland does not fear but invites investigation of her case by the whole world. England seeks the dark to cover up her crimes and her hypocrisy. Following America's entry into the war and hoping that they would be given the benefit of the principle of self-determination, the Irish people relied on the peaceful method of the ballot. The English on their side met that civilized appeal with brutal force.

"English policemen in Ireland, long before one of their number was killed, shot down unoffending civilians and verdicts of willful murder were returned by Coroner's juries against them. Instead of being punished they were commended and promoted by the British Government, and the world looked callously on.

"Those that were appealed to turned a deaf ear to Ireland's right and to her peaceful demands—even mocked her peaceful methods. It is not in human nature, or at least in the nature of spirited people, to go on enduring forever.

"The Irish people have learned again the old lesson that as long as the patient will suffer the cruel will kick, and having no other avenue of redress they naturally pursue the individuals of those forces who are responsible for outrages and are as enemy spies among them, rightly deserving death if any human beings deserve death, for they provide the alien Government with the knowledge and the strength to persecute and inflict endless misery upon a whole nation."

LEAGUE TO RESIST POGROMS

Accepts Proposals of British Jews—Report New Ukraine Exodus.

LONDON, Nov. 22 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The Jewish Board of Deputies, at its meeting here yesterday, was informed by Lucien Wolf, Secretary of the Joint Foreign Committee of Organized Anglo-Jewry, that the League of Nations had accepted the committee's proposals with regard to pogroms, and would in future take effective measures against them. In this connection, the meeting was informed, Mr. Wolf will proceed to Geneva tomorrow.

The committee heard reports of fresh pogroms in the Ukraine, and discussed at length the best methods to combat anti-Semitism. At the suggestion of Lord Rothschild it was decided to found a special committee, representative of the Jewish Board of Deputies, the Anglo-Jewish Association and the League of British Jews, which should devote itself to combating the work of anti-Semitic elements.

WARSAW, Nov. 22 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Local Jews are seriously alarmed over the latest developments in the Ukraine, which are driving hundreds of thousands of Jewish families from their homes in order to save their lives. These new refugees are fleeing to Poland, Galicia and Rumania, into districts already overcrowded with pogrom victims.

Leading Jews are organizing to render immediate help, but the task is declared to be far too great for any single community. The condition of the fleeing Ukrainians is described as appalling.

Anarchist Gets a Lecture.

For two hours yesterday in the Supreme Court Justice Bartow S. Weeks lectured Elias Marks, cloakmaker, of 75 Orchard Street, on this country and what it means to be an American. Then he suspended sentence on the cloakmaker, who had pleaded guilty to the charge of criminal anarchy.

SAW CRIMEA SHIPS AS FLOATING HELLS

WITHOUT WATER 11 DAYS

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 22 (Associated Press).—The condition of the refugees aboard the ninety or more ships strung along the Bosporus is appalling and a terrible catastrophe is feared unless the promptest measures are taken to land the thousands who are writhing in misery and in pain.

The correspondent visited several of these "floating hospitals and madhouses" today and returned to shore with forebodings of impending calamity. None of the refugees has as yet been taken ashore, excepting the sick, diseased and insane, the latter of whom have been extremely numerous.

As the correspondent sailed across the Bosporous an unpleasant small from the ships was wafted to him despite a strong, cold sea breeze. An American relief officer accompanied him. As soon as the pair boarded the ships the clothing of both was virtually torn off by half-maddened refugees begging to be taken to land on the open hills which border the Bosporus.

Men, women and children, regardless of age or sex, are herded together promiscuously on the ships day and night in a state of appalling filth and misery. Many women of distinguished demeanor and appearance, despite their bedraggled condition, offered to barter their valuables, jewels and furs for a crust of bread or a glass of water. In some cases the refugees have been without water for eleven days.

The fear was expressed by the ships' officers that cases of cannibalism would occur unless food supplies were received promptly. In many cases they had to fight off maddenel men from slaying children, they declared.

The correspondent heard that there had been numerous suicides of desperate refugees going insane during the night hours. They spoke of ghostly temptation and the sobbing call of the sea at night when they were dying with thirst. Many of the refugees were restrained from jumping overboard, while many succeeded.

The American Navy is assisting in transporting sick women to hospitals and the Near East Relief also has been prominent in the work. War-hardened relief nurses were moved to tears by maddened mothers offering their children to visitors, and the scenes of separation have been beyond description.

The death rate has been abnormal as the result of the biting cold and the lack of food. The American Red Cross is offering 36,000 rations daily and several Americans are offering donations and subscriptions.

The French Government, which is in full charge of the relief work, is incapable of dealing with the situation and is appealing to the Near East Relief, whose funds are limited. The American hospital in Stamboul is crowded to suffocation and the American Red Cross is giving all its available medical supplies.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—The Greek Government has agreed to receive and care for 30,000 Crimean refugees, according to an Athens dispatch to the Greek Legation here today.

Two hundred children of the officers of General Wrangel's staff, who were crowded aboard the refugee ships, have found shelter in the Near East Relief Trachoma Hospital at Constantinople, according to a cable message received by that relief organization yesterday.

POLISH-RED PARLEY RESUMED AT RIGA

Joffe Advised by Moscow That Warsaw Has Withdrawn Troops to Armistice Line.

RIGA, Nov. 22.—The Russo-Polish peace negotiations were resumed today.

M. Joffe, head of the Soviet delegation, notified the Polish Peace Mission Chairman, M. Dombski, that a telegram had been received from Moscow confirming the withdrawal of the Polish troops to the Polish State frontier.

M. Dombski yesterday declared the withdrawal had been effected, but M. Joffe awaited word from Moscow before resuming negotiations with the Poles.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The Poles, complying with the conditions of the preliminary peace treaty with Soviet Russia, have abandoned the town of Letichev, twenty-five miles east of Proskurcv, and the Soviet forces have occupied the town, says Sunday's Soviet official statement, received here today by wireless. The occupation of Mozyr, seventy-two miles southwest of Bobruisk, also is recorded in the statement. The communiqué reads:

"We occupied Mozyr Saturday and repulsed the enemy's counterattacks. Southwest of Retchitsa (fifty miles southeast of Bobruisk) fighting continues. In the direction of Korosten-Mozyr our advance continues.

"The town of Letichev has been abandoned by the Poles and occupied by us in accordance with the conditions of the peace treaty. In the direction of Volochysk our forces are driving back General Petlura's Ukarainian troops toward the Polish frontier.

"In the Crimean sector, supplementary information shows that we captured thirty-four enemy vessels of various kinds."

COPENHAGEN Nov. 22.—The situation in Poland caused by the epidemic of spotted typhus and cholera is terrible and has been made worse by the great number of prisoners in internment camps, Dr. Thorvald Madsen a member of the commission appointed by the League of Nations to investigate health conditions in Poland, said today before leaving for Geneva to present his report to the League.

Dr. Madsen asserted that he had found 200 cases of cholera in one camp for Russian Soviet prisoners, and declared that the lack of sanitation, poor housing conditions, hunger and overcrowding were creating a fertile soil for epidemics.

STEAMER SINKS TUGBOAT.

Department of Correction Vessel Rams Ticeline—Fireamn Missing.

As the tugboat Ticeline owned by the Tice Towing Company of 17 Battery Place was towing a barge through Hell Gate yesterday afternoon and buffeting a strong wind and tide off Eighty-sixth Street East River she was rammed and sunk by the steamer Correction of the Department of Correction. The collision was said to have been due to a mistake in signals.

Five of the crew were below asleep and the impact threw them from their bunks. They ran on deck, and jumped upon the other vessel as did the captain, John Whidden, while others of the crew, who had been on deck, sprang overboard in life belts. All were rescued except Percy Snyder, a fireman, who is believed to have been picked up by a launch.

So he declined to take the row too seriously, and with a breath of relief the members heard themselves summoned to discuss the agricultural tenures and hurried into the lobby.

May Ask More Powers of Commons.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—A scramble in the House of Commons occurred this afternoon when, following a statement by Sir Hamar Greenwood on the Sunday tragedies in Dublin, the Speaker called on Sir William Henry Davidson, who had given notice of an emergency question, when Mr. Devlin rose and was heard to say: "May I ask ——?"

There immediately rose a chorus of angry cries of "No, sit down."

Mr. Devlin did resume his seat, but apparently under a misapprehension, as directly upon Sir William rising to put his question the Nationalist member also rose. He was received with renewed cries of "Sit down!" and was the object of a hostile demonstration. Mr. Devlin ignored the Speaker's request to resume his seat, although he was assured he would have another opportunity of speaking, as another question on Ireland was among the approved question papers.

The Speaker called on Sir William again, and the member asked as his question "whether the Premier was aware that the House was prepared at a single sitting to give him whatever power was necessary to stamp out the atrocious murder campaign in Ireland, and whether he would introduce the necessary legislation to enable persons found in possession of arms and ammunition, without a permit, in any of the disturbed areas of Ireland, to be shot?"

Mr. Lloyd George, rising, said he shared with the last speaker the horror all felt at the cold-blooded murder of unarmed British officers. The Government, continued Mr. Lloyd George, had resolved to suppress murder and conspiracy in Ireland. It was realized by all that to suppress such carefully-organized, highly-subsidized plots would take time, but the Government was convinced that despite the recent happenings the Irish authorities were succeeding in breaking up the "gangs of assassins."

The Premier said, however, that, should experience show that the powers possessed by the Irish Government had proved insufficient for that purpose, the Government would have no hesitation in asking the Parliament for such further authority as might be necessary to achieve that end.

Following a brief suspension of the session owing to the disturbance, and when apologies had been made and accepted, Sir Hamar Greenwood, answering a question by Mr. Devlin on the shooting of civilians at an athletic park, said:

"The authorities have reason to believe that Sinn Fein gunmen came to Dublin Sunday under the guise of attending the match in order to carry out the murders. Consequently a mixed force surrounded the grounds. This force was fired on, and in firing back killed ten and wounded others."

Sir Hamar also gave details of the finding of revolvers and the crushing to death of a man and a woman, which latter he regretted.

The statement made by the Secretary for Ireland earlier in the session, in reply to a question regarding Sunday's events, was that he hoped "that this series of coldblooded, carefully-planned atrocities would bring vividly before the House and the public the cruel reality of the Irish situation. We are fighting," he said, "an organized band of paid assassins, whose plans, recently discovered, included destruction of life and property in this country as well as in Ireland."

After Mr. Devlin had made his concluding statement there was a passage at arms between Jeremiah MacVeagh, Nationalist member for South Down, and Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader, during which Sir Edward called the Nationalist member a "liar" for saying Sir Edward had "begun the use of rifles" in Ireland. Mr. Bonar Law, the Government leader, brought about peace among the members at this point by announcing that Wednesday will be given over for a discussion of the Irish question in the House of Commons.

its stand against recognition of the Bolshevist regime and in favor of respecting the territorial integrity and true boundaries of Russia by declaration of the allied and associated powers.

There is every indication that the policy of the State Department as stated in the note will be maintained strictly by President Wilson until March 4, regardless of whatever conclusions Moscow and London may reach as a result of the pending negotiations. The belief is growing here that consular and diplomatic relations will follow the ratification of the proposed trade agreement between England and Soviet Russia, as the preliminary exchanges of views by the Soviet envoys at London and the British Cabinet contemplated the framing of a peace compact after the drafting of the commercial agreement.

Speculate on Harding's Attitude.

Russian Soviet organs are speculating whether President-elect Harding, when inaugurated, will try to crush the Bolshevist Government according to cable advices received today from Scandinavia. On Nov. 11, the Pravda of Petrograd, declared that Senator Harding would probably do his best to prevent Russia from falling into "economic and political ruin."

This Bolshevist organ intimated that Mr. Harding appreciated the necessity of having a strong power to meet emergencies with Japan. The Pravda also maintained that Senator Harding's election to be President would mean the "absolute liquidation" of President Wilson's foreign policy. The dispatch received today says that the Russian Soviet press is printing statements made by Senator Harding during the American Presidential campaign and construin gthem as meaning that he favors the reestablishement of friendly trade relations with the Soviet regime.

It is also alleging that Senator Harding "inspired" certain Americans to go to Moscow. The Pravda, however, urges caution in regard to possible optimistic expectations on the part of the Bolsheviki with respect to prospective benefits for Soviet Russia under the Harding Administration, and asserts that pre-election statements on the part of candidates in this country are often made for vote-getting purposes rather than laying down a policy to be scrupulously adhered to after election, and that in many instances candidates after inauguration have not seen fit to live up to all their campaign promises.

In any event, it is asserted by the Pravda, conditions now prevailing in the United States afford an assurance of an early resumption of peaceful relations between Soviet Russia and the United States on the theory that this would result in the political and economic strengthening of the United States."

American officials feel that these assumptions are wide of the mark as to what will really happen respecting this country's attitude.

Britain Seeks Information.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Steps are being taken by the British Government to obtain information on the reported acquisition by an American syndicate, headed by Washington D. Vanderlip, from the Soviet Government of Russia of territory in Siberia, Sir Robert Horne, President of the Board of Trade, said in the House of Commons today in answer to a question.

The Government also is endeavoring to procure information regarding the terms of any arrangement which might have been made, Sir Robert added.

Contract Ignored by France.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—The Foreign Office announced today that the French Government was not interested in the concessions recently reported to have been granted by the Russian Soviet Government at Moscow to Washington D. Vanderlip, because, so far as France is concerned, the Bolshevist Government is non-existent. It is strictly a matter between Mr. Vanderlip and Nikolai Lenin, the Soviet Premier, Foreign Office officials said.

France, however, they declared, must safeguard its interests and its citizens' property in Russia, and should the Vanderlip concessions at some future time, when a legal government has been installed in Russia, conflict with French interests, it will be time then to take necessary measures, but for the moment the French have nothing to say.

Vanderlip Clain Stirs Japan.

Copyright 1920 by Chicago Tribune Co.

TOKIO, Nov. 22.—The Kokumin reports that the Japanese Government has decided to make formal inquiry to Washington regarding the reported concession in Siberia made to Washington D. Vanderlip.

Should the reply confirm the press statements that the concession conflicts with Japanese holdings, Japan will take the necessary steps.

TELLS IMPRESSION OF SOVIET CHIEFS

palace. I felt great sadness as we passed that old palace and the windows of Princess Margaret's room that I knew so well. The days when I used to sit there seemed very long ago and of another world.

"We drove to the Grand Hotel, and from that moment ensued a hectic uncalm. Kameneff was surrounded by newspaper reporters, all clamoring for interviews. Comrades came, some of whom understood only German. Others struggled in bad French, yet others in French mixed up with Swedish and Russian, so that one's head reeled.

"Among all these people who were strange to me one personality stands out very distinctly. It is Rjasanoff, the oldest member of the 'cause.' A man of about 70 years, with a Greek profile, hawk's eye and a beard that stands out defiantly. He looks like a classical Moses in his most truculent mood. This man had done five years of solitary confinement in a cell for the cause. One has only to think over that to realize what it means. He, too, was charming to me, courteous and friendly.

"True to his word, Kameneff secured an Esthonian visé for me. My anxieties were allayed. So were my fears as to my reception in Russia, for after my experience in Stockholm I felt I was among friends.

"Today I telephoned to the Palace and asked for the Crown Prince. Kameneff asked me if I was right to risk it. He said I might be very ill received in view of the company I was in, but I explained that he was one of the most democratic princes in Europe. Prince Gusav's surprise was indeed pretty great. He asked me to go and see him at midday and tell him all about it and stay to lunch.

"When I got there I found everything arranged just as it used to be years ago, but he looked very lonely in the big rooms that were extraordinarily vibrant and reminiscent of the past. Here he made me tell him all about my plans and fell thoroughly into the spirit of the thing. He thought it was dangerous, but sensibly admitted that was my concern and no one else's. He asked me questions as to what sort of a man Kameneff was, and what had been my impression on meeting Litvinoff in Christiania.

"Sept. 18—At sunset we steamed into Reval. What followed is rather nebulous in my mind. Our journey has lasted so long, and new friends have been so numerous, that looking back, one has a jumbled impression with hazy details. At Reval, from sunset to midnight, Kameneff seemed to have work to do and meetings to attend, and more masses of people surrounded him. We went to an apartment in a hotel of a comrade whose wife gave us supper. There was a samovar, and we had cold smoked salmon and wedges of bread.

"Kameneff and two comrades were too absorbed in their discussion to do anything or take any notice of us. One comrade was telling something or other. Our host, a small, nervous man, rolled bread pellets and was agitated. Kameneff took notes. Madame, in even tenor, plied me with questions. * * * Kameneff left us and attended another meeting elsewhere.

"After finishing my tea Kamaneff's son Alexandre, aged 14, who had come to meet us, took me away and we rode back to headquarters. No one understood me and I understood no one. The corridors were crowded with strange loungers who stared. I was shown into a grim room where Lenin and Trotzky adorned the walls. I sat lonely among people I could not talk to. Then, thank goodness, like a heaven-sent apparition Kameneff came in and asked what on earth I was doing there and took me to a big room full of more people, large, serious men who sat in a circle. The meeting went on and I, having my handcase with me, got out my writing things and wrote a letter to my son Dick, also one to F. E., explaining why I did not turn up at Charlton to do his bust and saying I was sure that now I had explained he would understand.

"It is curious that none of these people, not even Kameneff, has heard of F. E. either as Smith, Lord Birkenhead, or Lord Chancellor. Chancellor of the Exchequer they understood, but no other Chancellor. Finally at midnight we got into a special wagon de luxe and started for Moscow. It was spacious and comfortable.

"Sept. 19—It has been a beautiful day of sunshine. I have traveled a little on the engine. We crossed two deep rivers on temporary bridges, as Yudenitch had blown up the original ones in his retreat and the débris still lay below us in the river. I was able to get photographs of these from the engine.

"Our party has consisted, besides Kameneff and his son, of Comrade Gukovski (Soviet Envoy to Esthonia) and his little girl of 13. Also with us is a soldier in the Red army who is chauffeur en particulier to the Ministerial group. He lays the table for us, eats with us, smokes, and discusses general topics, and then clears away for us. It sounds odd, but it all fits in quite simply. He is a nice boy with a clear-cut face and square jaw like the Americans one saw in the war.

Arrival in Moscow.

"Sept. 22—We arrived at Moscow at 10:30 A. M. on Sept. 20. Kameneff was met at the station by his wife. Some discussion took place in Russian between the two, after which we left the train and piled into an open Rolls-Royce car, luggage and all. We were driven at full speed with a great deal of tooting through the streets, which were shuttered as after a raid.

"We came to the Kremlin gates and had to produce passes to get through. It is high up and dominates Moscow and consists of a main palace, some palaces, convents and churches encircled by a wall and towers. The sun was shining when we arrived, and all the gold domes were glittering in the light. Everywhere one looked there were silhouettes of domes and towers. Kameneff's apartments are simple, spacious and well proportioned. They had been rooms of court officials.

"For three days I stayed at the Kremlin rather with a sensation one might have had staying at Versailles just after Louis XVI. It was most interesting, but one was rather lost in not being able to speak a word of the language, added to which Kameneff and his wife were out working half the day and all night, so that one was left almost entirely to one's own resources.

"Kameneff promised to take care of me, but he was rushed off his feet. On the day of our arrival he went out at midday with the assurance that he would be back in two hours. He never came back till 10 at night, and then only for a hurried cup of tea, and he went back again to his Soviet meeting, which lasted until 3 in the morning.

"There seemed to be no regular hours for meals. I ate when I was hungry and he ate when he had time, but the food was indescribable and I could not eat black bread and never got used to dry, tepid rice. They have been difficult days. I have been longing and impatient, longing to get to work, but impotent to arrange anything.

"In the daytime when the sun was warm I went out with Alexandre Kameneff, and while he played football with Serge Trotzky I sat among the columns of the Alexander memorial and indulged in a kaleidoscope of thought. Serge Trotzky, by the way, is the twelve-year-old son of Trotzky and a fine little boy with a broad chest and straight back. He looks like the heir to a throne in the guise of a peasant.

"Kameneff has been averse to my going to a hotel because he thought I should be too lonely, but finally he has given in, and this morning we drove across the river to the Guest House on the opposite bank, facing the Czar's palace. The Guest House is the requisitioned house of a sugar king. It is inhabited by various Foreign Office officials, also by Mr. Rothstein and an American financier, W. D. Vanderlip. Beautiful bedroom and dressing rooms are mine. The walls are of green damask. It looks more like a drawing room than a bedroom. The house is more or less exactly as the sugar king left it, full of a mixture of good and bad things. It is partly modern Gothic and partly German-Louis XVI.

Ballet of "Coppelia" Finely Done.

"Sept. 23.—This evening I was invited with a house party to the Foreign Office box to see a ballet. It was "Coppela," beautifully produced, and the orchestra one of the finest I ever heard. The theatre is the size of Covent Garden and decorated with crimson and gold boxes all around the first tier, and the house was packed throughout. The audience consisted of working people who had admission free through the distribution of tickets to certain unions.

"They were a motley crowd, chiefly en blouse. In the Royal Box reserved for Commissars and their wives there was a man with a cloth cap. The women were eating apples. In the box next to ours there was an old woman with a shawl over her head.

"It was immensely moving to see the absorbed attention of the audience. People leaned their elbows on the ledges of the boxes and watched the ballet with almost devouring interest. There was not a cough, not a whisper. Only when Coppelia came to life as a mechanical doll there were delicious slow ripples of controlled laughter from the children. At the ends of the acts people left the stalls to rush not for the exits to the foyer, but to get to the front of the gangways nearest possible to the stage to see the dancers close to and to applaud them. The people were tired; people who had worked all day and had earned a good evening and were enjoying it to the full.

"My only contretemps was with a little stenographer from the Foreign Office who was in our box. She observed that I had on the red enameled star of communism, and that I wore white gloves. One, she said, contradicted the other. White gloves were bourgeois. I argued it only mattered what was in my heart and not what was on my hands, but she would not be pacified, so I removed the gloves. Considering my costume was a red tweed skirt with a red wool jersey and tight-fitting cap, I had thought the gloves would not make me overdressed.

"My evening's pleasure was neutralized by the concentrated aroma which arose from the great unwashed.

"Sept. 24—Kameneff sent word to me that I was to go to a meeting at the theatre in the evening and that I should be in a box near the stage where I should be able to hear and see well. He was to address the meeting on the subject of his visit to England. It poured with rain.

"The party from his house were late in starting and we got to the theatre after the meeting had begun and were put into the Czar's box. This was already crammed full to overflowing, and all the chairs occupied by Turks, Chinese, and Persians.

"No one attempted to offer me a place. Mr. Vanderlip and I stood for some time. People moved in and out, and Turks and Persians (I shall never want to smell geranium again) pushed us about in their impatient efforts to get past or over us. All my British blood was boiling, and I realized that, for the time being at all events, I could not regard Turks and Persians and Chinese as my brothers.

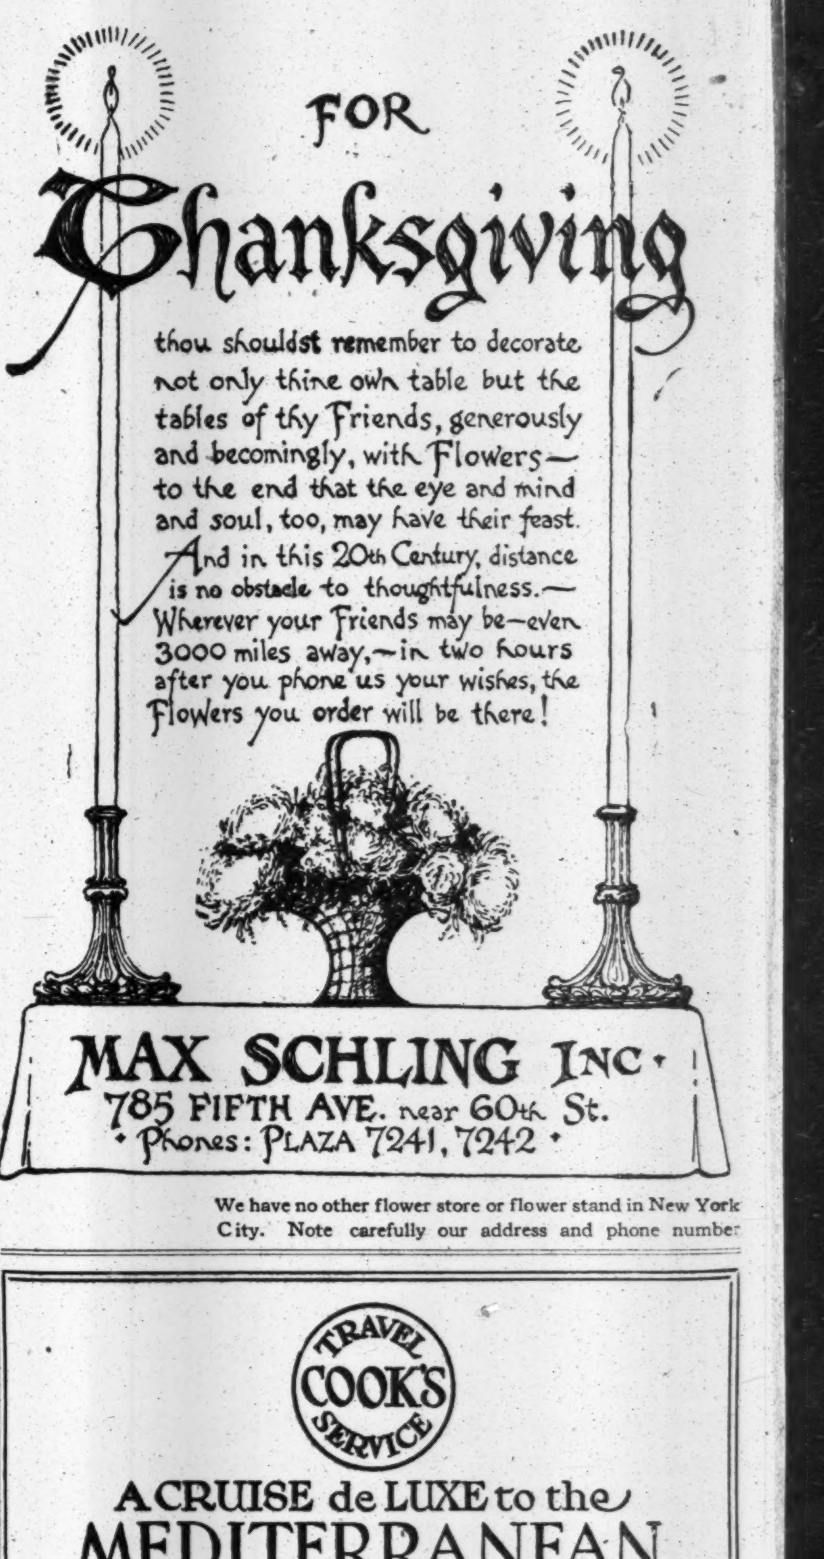
"After a while Mr. Vanderlip and I were moved to a stage box. This, too, was filled, but not of the same kind of people, and, anyway, it was nearer and one got a better view. Clara Zetkin, the German Socialist, was speaking, spitting forth venom, as it sounded. The German language is not beautiful, and the ferocious old soul, mopping her plain face with a large handkerchief, was not inspiring. It sounded hysterical, and I only understood the outline of what she was saying.

Trotzky Takes the Platform.

"Then Trotzky got up and translated her speech into Russian. He interested me very much. He is a man with a slim, good figure and splendid fighting countenance, and his whole personality is full of force. I look forward immensely to doing his head. There is something that ought to lend itself to a fine piece of work. The overcrowded house was as still as if it were empty. They were attentive and concentrated.

"After Trotzky, Mme. Kolontai (in charge of child welfare) spoke. She has short, dark hair. Perhaps she spoke well, but of that I could not judge.

"Tired of standing and of not understanding, I left the theatre at a moment when a great many repetitions of Churchills and Lloyd Georges were rocking the house with laughter."



FOR Thanksgiving thou shouldst remember to decorate not only thine own table but the tables of thy Friends, generously and becomingly, with Flowers—to the end that the eye and mind and soul, too, may have their feast. And in this 20th Century, distance is no obstacle to thoughtfulness.—Wherever your Friends may be—even 3000 miles away,—in two hours after you phone us your wishes, the Flowers you order will be there!

NOVO RELIABLE POWER

CALLS FOR LIGHT ON ALL CONTRACTS

Estimate Board Widens Its Inquiry to Include Every Pending City Agreement.

'SPARE NO ONE,' SAYS HYLAN

Amount Involved About $62,000,000—Untermyer Reported as Doubting Investigators' Good Faith.

With a report current that investigation of the New York City Administration by a legislative committee is likely, the Board of Estimate decided yesterday to extend its inquiry into building contracts beyond the scope originally contemplated and to investigate all city contracts on which complete payments have not been made, estimated to aggregate $62,000,000.

The city's inquiry did not get beyond the preliminary stage yesterday. Corporation Counsel John P. O'Brien read a statement saying its chief purpose was to determine whether there had been collusive bidding on city contracts, as indicated by testimony before the Lockwood committee, and that it was proposed to ask each contractor to sign an affidavit declaring that he had not engaged in any collusive bidding or attempt to defraud the city, before payment on any contract was made.

Mr. O'Brien said Mayor Hylan had instructed all heads of city departments to forward all available data on contracts made within the last two years, and the Mayor asserted that the investigation would be thorough and "would spare no one."

F. H. LaGuardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, and Henry H. Curran, Borough President of Manhattan, the two Republican members of the board, brought up the question of the power of the Board of Estimate to compel witnesses to testify, and Mr. Curran asked if it was not a fact that the board had no such power. Mr. O'Brien said he did not wish to discuss the legality, but said there was no doubt that the witnesses desired would be present.

Want Harmony With Lockwood Committee.

The majority members of the board frequently expressed a desire to work in harmony with the Lockwood Committee, and adjourned to Wednesday with the understanding that a conference between the committee and the board would be arranged before that time. It also was proposed to exchange testimony taken in the board's inquiry for testimony before the Lockwood committee.

These arrangements for co-operation seemed to have fallen through when it was learned that Samuel Untermyer, counsel of the committee, refused to have any conference with the city officials. Mr. Untermyer was understood to believe that he had suggested the method which the city might follow and to feel that neither he nor the committee should have any connection with the city inquiry. Mr. Untermyer was reported to believe that Mayor Hylan and those associated with him were not acting in good faith in undertaking the inquiry, which he has previously declared would result in "whitewash."

Corporation Counsel O'Brien opened the meeting with a statement of the purpose of the inquiry and the methods proposed to be followed. He said:

"Mr. Mayor and the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment: May I be permitted at the opening of this investigation to briefly outline what I understand to be the purpose of the resolution adopted by this board on Nov. 15, 1920?

"1. To determine whether there has existed, or now exists, among the direct or general contractors with the city any collusive bidding, any agreements to bid or to refrain from bidding, any match bidding, or any combination or conspiracy to stifle open competition in connection with the submission of bids or the awarding of contracts upon any buildings or structures carried on with the city during the last two years.

"2. Whether there has existed, or now exists, among the subcontractors of general or direct contractors in any city contract any agreements to bid or to refrain from bidding, any match bidding, or any combination or conspiracy to stifle open competition in connection with the submission of bids or the awarding of contracts upon any buildings or structures carried on during the last two years.

"3. Whether on the part of any official or employe of the city or any of the departments of the city or any of the borough offices, there has been any connection with collusive bidding, match bidding, conspiracy or combination to stifle open competition or to secure contracts, or any misconduct upon the part of any public official or employe in connection with the securing of bids or the awarding of contracts, or whether there has been on the part of any city official or employe any failure to comply with the law relating to submission of bids or the awarding of contracts.

"In order to facilitate this investigation, it is desirable that the Controller, President of the Board of Aldermen, Borough Presidents, Board of Education and all heads of departments, bureaus and offices of the City of New York turn over to me forthwith all bids, contracts, correspondence, reports, documents or papers in any way relating to or concerning bids received or contracts awarded during the last two years in connection with the erection, equipment or alteration of any buildings or structures.

"I shall endeavor to make this investigation most thorough, so that when it is completed any and all fraudulent contracts may be disclosed and unjust suspicion may be removed from those contractors who have acted fairly and honestly in their dealings with the city. With co-operation and frankness on the part of this latter class of contractors our task will be easier and exoneration for the innocent more speedy and more complete.

"I might say, in conclusion, steps have been taken by the Mayor to expeditiously handle all pending contracts with a view of protecting the city's interests. The precautions so taken may be briefly expressed as follows:

"1. He has requested all heads of departments, bureaus and offices under his jurisdiction, as well as the Board of Education, to forward to the Corporation Counsel all information they may have with reference to contracts awarded by them, and has requested them to send out to all contractors on pending contracts a letter, of which the following is a copy:

Dear Sirs: In connection with your contract No. —— with this department for the ——, I desire to have submitted to me by you or one of your officers who is familiar with the facts upon which I ask information, the following:

1. The original estimates upon which you made your bid for the above contract.
2. All subcontracts you have made in connection with the above contract.
3. Details of any additional subcontracts you propose to make.
4. The name of any and all trade organizations or associations of which you are or were a member during the last two years; copies of the by-laws, rules and regulations of such organizations or associations.
5. Any and all agreements entered into by you with any one relating to or in any way affecting the bid made by you or affecting the aforesaid contract, or whereby you agreed to pay any one any money or other consideration by reason of your aforesaid bid or contract, or the execution therefor.

"Also an affidavit, to be signed by each contractor during the continuance of this investigation and before any amount due said contractor is certified for payment, setting forth that his bid and his contract and the award of the contract were free from any collusive bidding or attempt to defraud the city.

"In addition to this, there will be put in operation within a few days, at the direction of the Mayor, with every contractor receiving payments from the City of New York, an agreement between him and his sureties and the City of New York so that any payments made shall be without prejudice to the rights of the city to take advantage of any facts disclosed in either the investigation of the Lockwood Committee or the investigation before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment; that there shall be withheld 10 per cent. in addition to the amount now required to be withheld under the contract; that the city shall not be deemed by any action or proceeding that may be commenced by or against the city to have waived its rights to assail the legality of such contract by reason of the making of such payments; that the contractor shall, on the signing of this agreement, deliver to the city copies of all subcontracts and a copy of the estimates upon which his contract and the subcontracts were based.

"This is the maximum that at this time may be done to protect the city's interests pending development of such concrete grounds as may merit official action on particular contracts."

Mr. O'Brien said the investigation would be made under his direction and would be conducted by Assistant Corporation Counsel William B. Carswell, assisted by Assistant Corporation Counsels Russell L. Tarbox and Charles C. Smith. He said the drafts of the agreements and affidavits were submitted for any suggestion or amendment which the members of the board might deem advisable.

Hylan Wants Nothing Omitted.

Mayor Hylan said he believed every possible contract should be investigated.

"If it is necessary, the resolution can be amended to make it absolutely thorough and complete in every detail," he said. "Go into every possible contract of any importance between contractors and the city, regardless of who they are or where they come from."

After a long discussion, during which all the members of the board agreed on the desirability of co-operating with the Lockwood committee, Mr. LaGuardia asked Mr. O'Brien concerning the powers of the Board of Estimate to conduct an investigation.

"How much power have we in compelling witnesses?" he asked. "We are rather limited, are we not?"

"I don't care to go too deeply into the legalities of that situation," Mr. O'Brien replied.

"Any honest contractor has nothing to fear," interjected Mayor Hylan. "He will come here. There is no doubt about that."

"The fact is that we have no power whatsoever. Isn't that true, Mr. O'Brien?" asked Mr. Curran.

"I would not say that," replied Mr. O'Brien. "We are going to get witnesses before this board. If they don't want to honor the subpoena that is served on them, we will take court procedure to make them."

After adoption of a formal resolution to proceed with the investigation, Mayor Hylan asked if the Republican members of the board had any suggestions to make as to counsel. Mr. Curran replied that he did not wish to suggest any counsel, inasmuch as his department was one of those to be investigated, and he did not wish to have any part in selecting the investigator.

The board will reconvene today as a Committee of the Whole to consider Mr. Curran's resolution to take steps to meet the emergency caused by the failure of the board to appropriate sufficient money to pay the salaries of public school teachers which were increased by mandatory State legislation. Mr. Curran believes special revenue bonds for $28,000,000, the amount needed, should be issued and redeemed out of the taxes next year. Under the policy adopted by the board, suggested by Controller Craig, another remedy would have to come from the Legislature.

Mr. Curran let it be known yesterday that he favored a legislative investigation of the city's finances, at least, so that it might be determined just where the city stood and whether the Controller's contention that the proposed issue of $28,000,000 in special revenue bonds is not legally possible was right or wrong.

WILL NOT ASK ROOT TO ENTER CABINET

believed that others, not yet asked, will be requested to give their views to Mr. Harding.

Those already invited are:

Ex-President Taft and ex-Justice Hughes, Senator Lodge and Senator Lenroot, representing the reservation group; ex-Secretary Root, Senators Johnson, Borah and Knox, Republican "bitter-enders," and Senators Reed and Shields, Democratic anti-Leaguers, also Senator Poindexter and Senator Capper.

While Herbert Hoover has not yet been formally asked by Senator Harding to visit Marion, it is probable that he will be called upon. He is a strong believer in retaining the present League structure, with modifications to meet American sentiment.

Senator Pomerene of Ohio, Democrat, who finally supported the Lodge reservations, has been invited, and other Democrats, it is believed, will be asked to the conference. Senator Underwood is expected to be among these.

Henry L. Daugherty of Ohio, who was Mr. Harding's personal campaign manager, was here today and talked of the conferences. It was indicated by him that the men invited would probably be asked to discuss phases of international affairs at different times. After President-elect Harding has learned the individual views of the men, it is not improbable that a general conference will be held, when an attempt will be made to frame a plan for an association, based on an international court, which will be acceptable to all.

Senator Harding is due at Newport News, Va., on Dec. 4, and will spend a day in Washington before going to Marion to begin his conferences.

It was said tonight that he might find it advisable to change his plan to remain at Marion until inauguration and come to Washington to spend the Winter for consultation with political leaders.

HARDING DUE TO LAND IN CANAL ZONE TODAY

Plans for Five-Day Stay Are Incomplete, but Trip Through Canal and Golf Are Provided.

ON BOARD THE STEAMSHIP PARISMINA, Nov. 22 (by Wireless to The Associated Press via Cristobal, Panama Canal Zone).—Nine o'clock Tuesday morning has been fixed as the hour for President-elect Harding to disembark in the Canal Zone from the steamer Parismina. During the last day of the voyage from New Orleans the steamer has loafed on her course so as to delay her arrival at Colon until midforenoon. It had been planned to have the vessel dock soon after daylight, but this arrangement was changed today and 9 o'clock was fixed as the hour for the President-elect to go ashore.

Mr. Harding declared today that he had enjoyed every minute of the voyage. Mrs. Harding has spent most of her time in her stateroom, but she came out on deck this morning, smiling and apparently in perfect health.

A game of golf is the only diversion on Mr. Harding's program of the first day of his vacation in the Canal Zone. He plans to visit the links late in the afternoon after resting from his sea voyage at the hotel which is to be his home while in the zone.

Plans for the five days' stay in the Canal Zone are so far incomplete, but one feature will be a trip through the canal, probably on a Government tug. It has been suggested that the party go through the waterway on the Parismina, but the President-elect regarded the plan as somewhat impracticable. One day will probably be devoted to inspection of the canal and the remainder of the time sightseeing with a few games of golf in between.

M'CORMICK LINKS LEAGUE AND BANKS

Senator Says if Plan Is Pressed Motive Will Be Sought in Financiers' Books.

TO STUDY AFFAIRS ABROAD

Intimates Republican Peace Program Will Follow Lines of Knox Resolution.

The books of the "international bankers" may come in for some scrutiny from the next Congress, in the event that they should become too insistent upon this country entering the League of Nations or even an "association" of nations, according to United States Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois.

Senator McCormick will sail for Europe this morning on the Aquitania, to be away six weeks and will visit France, England and possibly other countries. He expects to discuss the Peace Treaty and foreign relations with President-elect Harding before the latter started on his vacation trip. There is no intimation, however, that the Senator is going overseas on any official or semi-official mission.

Senator McCormick talking to newspaper men at headquarters said that in his opinion any presumption that President-elect Harding would subscribe to the entry of this country into the League of Nations under covenant safeguarded by reservations was too far fetched to deserve any attention.

"If a determined drive is made to have the United States join the European countries, then the activity of the international bankers will be brought in. Then will be brought down the books of the international bankers to help us determine whether they disclose a motive or not, whether they disclose exorbitant profits made out of the necessities of the Allies; whether any of the bankers had Russian or other bonds the future value of which would depend upon their endorsement in American blood. I am not charging anything venal against the bankers."

Tells Republican Plans.

"Senator Harding has already declared that he would favor this country becoming a member of an association of nations. Could you define the differences between the League as we know it and the association the President-elect has reference to?" Senator McCormick was asked.

"I would not care to enter upon any discussion in which the distinction is stressed," was the reply.

"What will be the probable course of the new Administration and the new Congress with relation to the promotion of world peace?" was asked.

"The Knox resolution," he replied, "outlined the natural course of events. That resolution declares the war with Germany at an end. That adopted a state of peace has been established which could be certified through the exchange of notes, which would place relations between the two countries so far as commerce and trade are concerned on the basis that existed before the war. That could be accomplished within thirty days after Congress meets. The next step would be to appoint consular and diplomatic agents, and this done, we shall have accomplished all that is necessary for the resumption of trade, travel and credits on the basis of relations existing with the most favored nation.

"We shall then have the time to decide on the question of whether we prefer to join with the nations looking for a general agreement with regard to world affairs, or on the other hand make for ourselves treaties of amity and commerce.

"I look to see a further and more minute discussion of the Peace Treaty, itself and the minor treaties; their justice or injustice; their wisdom or unwisdom; and the obligations they place upon the United States. I think there were only four Senators who discussed the Treaty of Peace at length, the covenant of the League of Nations, now happily out of the way, engaged the attention of most of them the greater part of the time.

"There are many who think that the burdens imposed on the United States by the Peace Treaty itself are as bad as those imposed by the League covenant."

Defines America's Status.

Senator McCormick, who spoke with considerable feeling, said it was stupid to accuse Senators who had held out against the ratification of the League covenant that they would have America occupy an isolated position, one apart from the concert of nations.

"America," he said, "was a world power long before the World War. America was recognized as such when Theodore Roosevelt was President. America's influence was never so great as when he was in the White House. We certainly intend that America shall play her part in the world and, although we oppose an American guarantee of empire, we believe in America contributing her share toward the maintenance of peace in the world.

"But we do not believe that America has the same interest as, let us say, France and Great Britain have in the Mediterranean or the Balkans, or that we should assume the same responsibility in that part of the world as France and Great Britain do. On the other hand, we have an overwhelming interest in the Caribbean and assume a responsibility there to the exclusion of France and Great Britain.

"Unhappily for the European situation statesmen would not be warned. They would not listen to the truth. Through the censorship they denied the reflection of American sentiment through the news to their people and so contributed to the unhappy sequence of events after the armistice had been signed."

METEOR FALLS IN VILLAGE.

Howesville, W. Va., Is Thrown In Panic as It Explodes With Terrific Blast.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Nov. 22.—Residents in the vicinity of Kingwood, Preston County, W. Va., were thrown into a panic tonight when a large meteor fell at Howesville, five miles south of Kingwood, according to reports received here.

The meteor struck in the business section of Howesville, near the railroad station. It exploded as it buried itself in the earth. The force of the blast was felt for several miles.

An automobile standing near the railroad station was damaged by the explosion, and the occupants of the machine were dazed, but escaped injury.

There are no telephones in Howesville and detailed information as to the meteor could not be obtained tonight.

LEAGUE DECIDES TO HELP ARMENIA

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

shall be taken to end hostilities between Kemal and the Armenians." M. Stalaiovich of Jugoslavia said that they had spent a week in high sounding talk and resolutions, and that now was the time to do something real. They must save Armenia. He had received telegrams stating that the Armenians were already being massacred. Unless the League saved Armenia, it must confess its impotence, he said, before the world.

Delegate Branting of Sweden said that the Northern nations would be willing to do what they could to aid Armenia in any way the League might decide on.

Mr. Balfour then rose for the first time in this Assembly. He emphasized the great difficulties which the League Council had had in settling the Armenian question, and hoped that the Assembly would be more successful. Mr. Balfour took a drive at the League's lack of material force—a lack which most of the delegates attribute to President Wilson—saying:

"Good intentions are the foundation of good politics, but they are useless unless there are means to carry them out."

What did the Turks care for the League of Nations or the rest of the world, Mr. Balfour asked. Mustapha Kemal was a leader of outlaw bands equally indifferent to censure or the League's only weapon, the economic blockade.

Cites Rejection by America.

A mandate for Armenia had been offered to every one, Mr. Balfour continued, but no one had cared to accept it. Where powers had accepted other mandates it had been in the full belief that they had the resources necessary to carry them out. For instance, France in the case of Syria or England in the case of Mesopotamia.

The Armenian mandate had been offered to America, which seemed to be, he said, especially fitted because she possessed the resources, spirit, money, men and enthusiasm that would make her an ideal mandatory. America had not seen her way to accept, and no one else was willing to do so unless other members of the League agreed to insure her against loss and provide a share of the money and men required. If the League were to do anything but receive and send telegrams the forty-one member States must agree to share the burden among them.

Lack of League Army Deplored.

M. Viviani rose to his feet. In impassioned tones he reminded the Assembly how the appeal had been made in behalf of Armenia to the United States.

"The United States has refused," he said. "What will this commission do now? How does it propose to achieve anything definite? My distinguished English colleague has set forth the difficulties of finding a mandatary for Armenia. Does he suggest any reason for us to suppose that the new commission would succeed where the League Council, of which he is so eminent a member, has failed? The League must do something more practical than appoint a commission, or confess itself ridiculous before the whole world.

M. Viviani evidently wished to put on record proof that it was not France's fault that the League was unprovided with machinery to enforce its decision. He said:

"The League has responsibilities without authority. The French peace delegation, headed by Senator Bourgeois, went to the Hotel Crillon during the Peace Conference and asked President Wilson that the League be given an army and a permanent General Staff. If France's voice had been heard, the League would not be in a position of impotence today and could send an armed force to save Armenia."

This statement was greeted with a thunder of applause, in which all the delegates and visitors joined.

Viviani Presents Resolution.

When silence had been restored, M. Viviani cried in a ringing voice

"Is there any nation that will accept the Armenian mandate today? You know there is none. You know in advance that the proposed commission is doomed to failure."

M. Viviani then introduced an alternative resolution that the League Council should meet immediately and select a power to undertake arbitration between Mustapha Kemal and the Armenians. There was no doubt in any one's mind that he felt that France was ready to accept this task.

C. J. Doherty of Canada supported Lord Robert Cecil's resolution. He said he was sure that the United States would not refuse help to any scheme for saving Armenia which the commission might devise.

Lord Robert said that he felt a temptation to join in M. Viviani's regret that the League had no force at its disposal. Here was evidently a case where something must be done to stop war. He approved the suggestion as to negotiation, but thought that there were other methods which might be tried.

"I shriek with horror," he declared, "from the idea that in Armenia's terrible distress the League does nothing to help her."

M. Viviani again rose and said that he was still opposed to the idea of a commission.

"When a man is at death's door you call a doctor, not a commission," he said.

Unfortunately the vote of the Assembly must be unanimous, he proceeded. If Cecil voted against him and he voted against Cecil the result would be just zero. He suggested the possibility of modifying his motion if an agreement were impossible.

British Delegates Consult.

The British delegates were seen to be holding a whispered conversation among themselves. They evidently decided that the resolution proposed by Viviani was perhaps less simple and innocent than it appeared, for Mr. Balfour once more arose and said:

"The French proposal appears to be directed solely at saving Armenia, but we would like to know a little more about it. How do the French propose to conduct the negotiations? How are negotiations themselves possible with Mustapha Kemal, unless there is something to offer him? How can anything be offered him without preliminary consultation between the powers immediately concerned? How do we know what he will take? Let us suppose that money or territory is offered to him. Do we know that he will take either or, if not, what he will take?

"I would greatly like to know what the French have in mind, and I would also like to explain to them just what we mean by negotiation. Negotiation is discussion between civilized powers, in which one offers something to the other in return for a concession to their mutual advantage. Can we treat Kemal as a civilized power?"

The atmosphere of the Assembly, as Balfour's lank form sank down into his seat, was electric. It was felt that underlying Balfour's polished phrases there was a real clash of powerful interests.

Viviani Appeals for Action.

M. Viviani accepted the challenge. He expressed pained surprise at the English opposition. He said that the League Council, of which Mr. Balfour was a distinguished member, had done its best to solve the Armenian problem but without success.

He failed to understand why his eminent English colleague should view with doubt or hostility a practical proposal by which Armenia might be saved.

"You must fight Kemal or treat with him," he cried in a thrilling voice. "There is no other choice. We cannot fight him, for where is the army and fleet with which to do it? If you shut the door against negotiation you may as well let the last Armenian be wiped from off the face of his native land and admit that the League of Nations can do naught to save him.

"Surely that is not what Mr. Balfour would like us to decide. I admit the difficulties of the problem. Mr. Balfour suggests that we are not dealing with a regular constituted State and that we are faced by an outlaw, indifferent to opinion or the economic pressure of the civilized world.

"Is that a reason for us to stand aloof? Is it the first time that a civilized power has interfered between a savage and his victim?

"You express doubts as to whether Kemal will listen to arbitration. I will take on myself the responsibility of saying that he will.

"I have put the proposal before you. Do what you will, but remember that to refuse it is an admission of your impotence. The League has no army or fleet, so force is impossible. Other means have been tried and failed. Try this way or continue your theoretical and academic discussion and admit before the world that the League of Nations is a failure."

A storm of applause greeted the Frenchman's fiery peroration. Utter silence followed as Mr. Balfour was seen to rise slowly from his chair. He hesitated a moment and sank slowly back. He felt that speech was useless. President Hymans reminded the Assembly that the vote must be unanimous. Everybody expected Mr. Balfour to vote against the Viviani proposal, and Dr. Motta of Switzerland asked, in the event that unanimity was not obtained, a special meeting to discuss the subject should be called again tomorrow.

Then Mr. Hymans called on the chairmen of delegations to rise in token that they approved Viviani's motion. Nation after nation signified its approval.

Then at last Balfour's tall figure rose. Perhaps he did not want to emphasize the Franco-English difference further by refusal.

More likely he remembered that the plan would now be discussed by the League Council of which he is a member.

It is generally thought among the delegates that Viviani has succeeded in settling the question of the admission of Germany at this meeting. At a secret meeting Saturday night Commission 5 adopted Viviani's suggestion that applicants for membership should be reported on with regard to their readiness to accept the obligations which membership implies.

Recalls Harding Stand on Batum.

GENEVA, Nov. 22 (Associated Press).—The general impression after the debate on Armenia today was that the League Assembly favored fighting Kemal Pasha if no other way was found to end the conflict in Armenia.

Supporting Lord Robert Cecil's demand that the Assembly appoint a committee to examine into means for ending the hostilities between the Turkish Nationalists and the Armenians, M. Spalekiovitch of the Serbian delegation recalled that the United States Senate at one time had approved the use of the American fleet to succor the Armenians. It was recalled here in this connection that Senator Harding was the Senator who reported the resolution.

[A resolution requesting the President to send marines to Batum was adopted by the Senate on May 13 last. It was offered by Senator Harding on behalf of the Foreign Relations Committee.]

VIVIANI ANTICIPATES PARLEY OF PREMIERS

French Coup at Geneva Opens Way for Overcoming British Objections on Kemal Policy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—M. Viviani's coup in the Geneva Assembly today marks the first attempt by France to put into practice the newly conceived policy of treating with Mustapha Kemal and the Turkish Nationalists.

That France wished to do this was clearly indicated by a Temps editorial last Friday. Contrary to American newspaper custom, the Temps editorial always occupies the leading column on the front page. It frequently contains important news not printed elsewhere and is generally understood to be an accurate reflection of the views of the French Government.

I am informed that the French delegation at Geneva was in constant touch with Paris by telephone last night, and Viviani's proposal is clearly the outcome of the French desire to lose no time in opening negotiations for which Armenia would be the pretext. If the League Council backs the French scheme, the French not only will save time, but will have the additional advantage of meeting the British at this week-end with authority from the League to begin negotiations already in their pockets. They will already have got from the League what Premier Leygues was going to England to get. It is an ingenious attempt to force Britain's hand.

The only thing in the way is that Premier Lloyd George has a strong dislike for this sort of political legerdemain practiced on him. Thanks to the intervention of Lord Derby, Franco-British relations, which had become seriously estranged, have recently taken a more friendly turn. Lloyd George's feeling that he has been "scored off" is likely to crystallize his opposition to the French plan, to which otherwise he might have been quite ready to listen. If the French scheme should be blocked by the League Council it may do France more harm than good.

FIRE CHIEF CLOSES GABEL'S THEATRE

AUDIENCE TURNED AWAY

Place Visited Among Others as Result of the Killing of Children in the New Catharine.

Following the crusade against violations of the fire laws growing out of the killing of six children in the New Catharine Theatre a week ago, Battalion Chief Joseph O'Hanlon last night closed Gabel's Theatre at Bowery and Prince Street, where a stock company has been playing in Yiddish.

Chief O'Hanlon, who is in charge of the Division of Places of Public Assembly, went over the house early last night with Harry Gotti, the manager of the theatre. After finishing the inspection, he said:

"This place will have to close tonight."

"Why?" asked Gotti.

"You will be supplied with a written explanation tomorrow," replied the Battalion Chief. He then called a policeman and a fireman and installed them on duty to turn back the crowds who came to see the performance of "The Girl Without a Heart."

When he was asked later why the theatre had been closed, Chief O'Hanlon refused to explain. The theatre is about fifty years old and has a seating capacity of 1,000. It could not be learned last night whether complaints had been lodged with the Fire Department. The playhouse was formerly known as the New London Theatre and was a famous house of burlesque years ago.

PLANS HOUSING BOND ISSUE

An issue of $1,000,000 in bonds by the Land Bank, 115 Broadway, to relieve the housing shortage by loans to persons desiring to build low-priced homes, was suggested by its officers yesterday, and a conference with Mayor Hylan and other members of the Sinking Fund Commission will be sought in a few days. Bonds of this character were made legal investments for State and municipal sinking funds at the last session of the Legislature upon recommendation of the Lockwood Committee, which is now investigating the housing situation.

The Land Bank was founded in 1914 as a co-operative financial arrangement for forty-seven savings and loan associations. The proposed bond issue will be its second, the first having been put out in 1916.

NEW STATE INQUIRY FOR CITY BUREAUS

gaged by the Lockwood committee, some of whose members are eager to know which officer in the municipal government is responsible for the instructions to "shadow" the lawyer.

Persons calling up Mr. Untermyer at his country home, his town house, 2 East Fifty-fourth Street, and his office at 120 Broadway, it was said, had been subjected to an apparently unnecessary delay in obtaining connections.

Another person whose wire is said to have been tapped is a volunteer investigator for the Lockwood committee. Several times in the last few weeks, it is asserted, he has heard instructions by police officers over his telephone. Once or twice when he heard the police, it was stated, he told them to get their pads and pencils ready and to note everything he had to say to his wife, and, as he knew they had to get the messages accurately, he volunteered to speak as slowly as possible for them. The response he is alleged to have received was a violent oath, followed by a click.

Police Inspector John Coughlin, in charge of the Detective Bureau, denied that detectives from his bureau were trailing Mr. Untermyer or that his wires were being listened in on or tapped.

Committee Wins Again.

The Lockwood committee won its fourth fight against attempts to stop its investigation, when Supreme Court Justice Henry D. Hotchkiss yesterday denied the motion of Martin Conboy to vacate the service of a subpoena upon Elizabeth O'Dea, an employe of the Builders' Supply Bureau. Mr. Conboy was reported to be acting for John A. McCarthy a Tammany contractor and associate of Charles F. Murphy. Miss O'Dea will be required to appear before the Lockwood committee at the City Hall today and bring with her all her books and other documents which have been demanded in the subpoena.

The argument on the O'Dea subpoena was heard yesterday morning, and Mr. Untermyer asked for an early decision, as he said Miss O'Dea was wanted this morning. Both sides were given until 1:45 P. M. yesterday to submit briefs, and at 6 o'clock Justice Hotchkiss ruled for the committee. In his decision he says:

"In her affidavit on which this motion is based, the witness O'Dea swears that she is not an officer of the Builders' Supply Bureau but merely an employe, and that the books and papers described in the subpoena are in the custody and under the control of the secretary-treasurer of that company. If this be so, I do not see what right the witness has to object that the subpoena constitutes an unreasonable search or seizure of the books and papers of the Builders' Supply Bureau.

"If the witness has the custody of papers which she may have been lawfully subpoenaed to produce it is her duty to obey the subpoena, and if the constitutional rights of any one have been invaded it is for him to appear and object at the proper time and place. Nor has the witness otherwise the right to question the scope of the subpoena.

Committee's Power Upheld.

"With respect to the lawfulness of the committee itself and its power to issue subpoenas, either because the resolution was not signed by the Governor or that the committee was not authorized to continue after the adjournment of the Legislature, I am unable to agree with the contentions of the witness's counsel. I do not think that Section 9 of Article 4 of the Constitution has any application to joint resolutions, and this view has certainly been followed in practice.

"From time immemorial also it has been the custom of legislative committees in this State to sit after a formal adjournment of the Legislature, and this notwithstanding the resolutions under which they have acted may not in terms have given them power so to do. I am cited to no case which holds that the power so to sit does not exist, at least so long as the Legislature itself has not dissolved, which is not the case where an adjournment sine die has been taken and the legislative year has not expired. Motion denied."

The Lockwood Committee will resume its hearings at City Hall at 10 o'clock this morning.

when it was announced that they had agreed to underwrite 1,419,856 shares of 3,219,856 shares of new stock. Of this amount, 1,800,000 shares were to be taken by British interests. The common stockholders of record June 12 had the right to subscribe to the stock underwritten by Morgan & Co. at $20 a share in the proportion of one new share to each five old shares.

The company now has a capital outstanding 20,066,195 shares of common stock of no par value, this including the equivalent of $100 par shares which have not been converted as yet. There is also outstanding $16,186,000 of 6 per cent. preferred, $25,150,500 7 per cent. debenture, and $56,421,300 of 6 per cent. debenture. The company has no funded debt.

Its authorized capitalization consists of 50,000,000 shares of common stock of no par value, $20,000,000 preferred, $500,000,000 of 7 per cent. debenture, and $90,000,000 of 6 per cent. debenture stock.

It was estimated some time ago that the company would do a gross business of $1,000,000,000 this year. The business of the corporation has, however, been substantially curtailed during recent weeks in view of the falling off of demand for automobiles. It was asserted a few days ago that the Cadillac plant of the company was the only one which had been unaffected by the curtailment. The decreased volume of business is reported to be not as large now as it was several weeks ago, the Chevrolet Company having resumed operations on a modified scale following almost a complete shut down. The other plants, which were not affected so drastically as Chevrolet are also showing improvement, according to recent advices.

CALL MONEY BREAKS; ALL STOCKS RALLY

$1,000,000 Lent at 4 1-2 Per Cent. After Market Closes at 5, Lowest Since Dec. 19.

In conjunction with a break in call money to 5 per cent., the lowest level recorded since last Dec. 19, there was a sharp rally in stock market prices yesterday, advances of from 2 to 8 points ruling throughout the list. Money openel the day at 7 per cent., closed at 5 per cent. and later $1,000,000 was lent at 4½ per cent. On Nov. 2 last year a small amount of money was lent at 2 per cent., but this was hardly indicative of the money situation at that time. Ten days later call funds soared to 30 per cent., causing heavy stock liquidation in what has been termed the November break of 1919. It was this break which really terminated the big bull market.

Time money also eased off yesterday, this being offered for four, five and six months, on mixed collateral, at 7½ per cent., with little of it taken. Today Government withdrawals in the Second Federal Reserve District will amount to $20,000,000, which means that about $18,000,000 will be taken out of New York City banks, which on Saturday held $68,056,000

First Rally in Two Weeks.

In view of the thoroughly liquidated condition of the stock market and the relatively small need of funds to finance operations, it is not believed that the withdrawal will have any effect on call money. Several banks, it is learned, were surprised that call money did not drop below 6 per cent. last Friday, since it was apparent then that there was a large oversupply.

The rally in the stock market, the first since the heavy liquidation began more than two weeks ago, was in part attributable to the money situation, the shorts becoming a bit wary as to the security of their position. The process of covering was scattered at first, but steadily became broader in scope until it embraced the entire list. The movement had not proceeded far before it became apparent that there was nothing like a plentiful supply of stock to be had around the low levels and the market in the afternoon moved forward buoyantly.

The greatest gains were made in the industrials, the more volatile issues soaring rapidly. This was a reflection of the heavier selling which has been going on in the industrials as compared with other groups. The rails, however, joined in the movement, Reading, for instance, advancing 3½ points, and Southern Pacific 4⅜ points. Among the industrials, Crucible Steel, Studebaker and American Beet Sugar were the leaders, while Mexican Petroleum was to the forefront in the oils.

	Yesterday's Highest.	Last Week's Lowest.	Yesterday's Net Gain.
Am. Beet Sugar	55¼	49	6⅛
Am. Int'l Corp.	46¼	38¼	3
Am. Tobocco	119⅝	108	8
Atl., G. & W. I.	112½	103¾	4¼
Baldwin	98¼	91½	4½
Crucible Steel	96	85	8⅞
Int'l Paper	50½	45⅝	3¾
Mexican Petroleum	163½	151½	8¼
Northern Pacific	88¼	81¾	3
Reading	89⅝	84	3½
Southern Pacific	115	107¼	4⅜
Studebaker	47½	41¼	6¼
U. S. Rubber	66⅞	58½	6
U. S. Steel	83⅜	80	2⅜
Vanadium	49¼	41½	4¼

For several days Wall Street has been describing the stock market as "oversold," and yesterday's display was taken as evidence of the correctness of this opinion. Aside from the money situation, there was no particularly favorable factor to bring about a running in of the shorts. It was plain last Saturday, however, that the shorts were getting a bit nervous, and the upturn which started then in a few issues gathered speed, so that at the close prices were well above the low points for the year which a majority of the issues touched last week.

SISLER DENIES SHIP CHARGE

Asks to Be Heard in Investigation of Shipping Board Operations.

A communication requesting an opportunity to testify in the United States Shipping Board inquiry was addressed yesterday to Congressman Joseph Walsh of Massachusetts, Chairman of the Investigating Committee, by Leslie Sisler, former Secretary of the Shipping Board. Mr. Sisler was named by Tucker K. Sands on Saturday in connection with a forty-thousand-dollar gratuity alleged to have been paid by Wallace Downey for influence in procuring a contract for the Downey Shipbuilding Corporation. Sands had testified the bribe was divided among himself, Mr. Sisler, R. Wilmer Bolling, brother-in-law of President Wilson, and John Cranor, who represented Mr. Downey.

"I was never concerned in the remotest manner, directly or indirectly, in negotiating shipbuilding or any other contracts with the Shipping Board, either for Downey or any other corporation," wrote Mr. Sisler, "my duties, functions and powers as Secretary of the Shipping Board being limited to their official attestation and record after the same had been awarded."

William G. McAdoo, who is said to have received anonymous letters threatening disclosures against Mr. Bolling unless he used his influence to have discontinued against Sands proceedings instituted under the National Banking act, said he did not recall any such letters. Neither could he recall Sands or the indictment. Sands had admitted writing to Mr. McAdoo, asking that the latter intercede in his case. Mr. McAdoo did not remember the request.

Subway Train Starts Fire.

Flames flashed up through the grated subway ventilators at Broadway and Eighty-sixth Street at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon as a train tore by beneath and persons in Broadway thought a roaring fire was in progress below. Firemen who were called discovered that the train had caused a short circuit, and that several feet of the wooden guard of the third rail was aflame. The fire which shot up into Broadway, however, was only an electric flash. Southbound traffic was stopped for twelve minutes.

TWO SHOT IN FIGHT WITH SILK THIEVES

Railroad Police Set Trap Near Metuchen and Catch Seven Men.

ONE ON EACH SIDE WOUNDED

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 22.—Seven men are under arrest here, charged with robbing a Pennsylvania freight train following a pistol fight on the tracks of the main line, near Metuchen, early yesterday morning, in which five railroad detectives of the Pennsylvania system got the better of the robbers. One of the detectives, Patrick Halloran, of Jersey City, is in Muhlenberg Hospital, Plainfield, with a bullet wound in his abdomen, and one of the robbers, Conrad Albrecht, also of Jersey City, is in the county jail here, with a severe leg wound.

Frequent robberies of freight trains caused the railroad police to set a trap near Metuchen. The detectives, in hiding, saw a freight slow up and stop near a crossing. An automobile truck, running along with the train, stopped at the crossing and two men jumped out and started toward the train. The doors of one of the freight cars slid open and several men began to throw out bales of silk.

The railroad detectives opened fire on the robbers, who returned the shots. After a momentary stand the robbers fled, with the detectives in pursuit. Albrecht, whose leg wound prevented his escape, and Ramon Rinaldi were overtaken and arrested. Five men were arrested in Jersey City—William McQuillen, Martin Cavanaugh, Martin McMahon, William Alton and P. H. Kegan—and brought here to face the charge of train robbery.

It is believed that the robbers aboard the freight jumped on after the train had left the Jersey City yards. Signals were set against the train at the point where the silk was thrown out, but whether that was done by the robbers has not been learned. The silk thrown out was valued at $1,000 and the entire lot in the car at $8,000.

The police believe the men under arrest are ringleaders in a band that has looted Pennsylvania trains of silk valued at $150,000 in the last few weeks.

Equipment Trust Certificates Bear 6½ Per Cent. Interest.

The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Company, through Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and the National City Company, has placed an issue of $4,500,000 four to fifteen year equipment trust certificates, bearing 6½ per cent. interest. The bankers announced yesterday that all of the certificates had been sold at prices to yield the investor 6.85 per cent. on the shorter maturity to 6.70 on the longer maturities.

The certificates are to be issued by the Commercial Trust Company of Philadelphia, as trustee, against equipment valued at approximately $8,118,000, consisting of twenty freight locomotives, five switch locomotives and 1,000 100-ton steel coal cars. The bonds mature $375,000 each year from Dec. 1, 1924, to Dec. 1, 1935.

Certificates will be issued in bearer form, in denominations of $1,000, with the privilege of registration as to principal.

Four Held for Death of 2 Actresses.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—A Coroner's jury tonight scored Marcus Brumberg, Harris and Lawrence Jorgensen, and Michael J. Cox, the companions of Maree Ramey and Lillian Thompson, actresses, whose lifeless bodies were found in Grant Park a week ago. "The cowardice, brutality and inhumanity shown by these young men, shocking to the entire community," read the verdict. "In our opinion warrant us in holding them criminally responsible, and we therefore recommend that they be held to the Grand Jury for manslaughter until relieved by due course of law."

CITE LIVING COST CUT TO OPPOSE WAGE RISE

Chicago Packers Fight Men's Petition and Give Figures of Industry's Slackening.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Statistics intended to show that there was retrenchment in industry and that wages and the cost of living were going down everywhere were presented to Judge Samuel Alschuler in Federal Court today by L. H. D. Weld, representing the packing companies in the hearing over the demands of 225,000 packing company employes for an increase of $1 a day in their wages.

Judge Alschuler heard the case two months ago but withheld decision. The hearing was reopened at the request of the packers, who maintained that the decrease in the cost of living since the previous hearing should be taken into consideration.

Mr. Weld presented statistics gathered by the packers from 879 industrial plants of the country, which showed that in the last ninety days 436 had reduced forces, 228 had reduced working hours and 186 had reduced wages, mainly by hiring new employes at reduced pay. In some cases both hours and wages were reduced.

The 879 firms had reduced their working forces by more than 200,000 in the ninety days, he said. Each of the 879 industries employed more than 100 men.

In Chicago, Mr. Weld stated, there had been an average decrease in the cost of food of 10 per cent. in the last year and 13 per cent. in the last ninety days. Clothing had decreased 28 per cent. in ninety days, according to Mr. Weld's figures.

Bequests to Hebrew Charities.

OLIVE THOMAS SALE AMOUNTS TO $30,000

JEWELS SELL FOR $20,000

Film fans, screen favorities, and dealers crowded the auction rooms of Samuel Marx, at 115 West Twenty-third Street, yesterday afternoon, and bid for jewels, furs, wearing apparel and automobiles belonging to Olive Thomas, moving picture star, who died a few months ago in Paris. Nearly $20,000 was realized from the sale of the jewelry, and one of her two automobiles was sold for $5,000. The entire proceeds of the sale were about $30,000, according to Marx.

There was spirited bidding for a green gold cigarette case with a watch on one end, and inscribed "To the only sweetheart I ever had," which was said to have been given to Miss Thomas by Jack Pickford, her husband. It finally went for $650 to a woman giving the name of Mrs. Fish, "a society lady" one of the auction men confided to the newspaper men present.

Mabel Normand, said to be a close friend of Miss Thomas, outbid a number of dealers for possession of a twenty piece, fourteen carat gold toilet set. With the set, which cost Miss Normand $1,425, went a picture of Jack Pickford.

Mr. Selznick paid $680 for an emerald and diamond ring. A pearl necklace containing 400 pearls and 35 sapphires went for $800 to a dealer, while an eight and a half carat diamond ring set in platinum brought $8,050.

The highest price paid among the articles of Miss Thomas's wardrobe was $1,800 for a sable coat.

THREE MORE BANKS CLOSE IN NORTH DAKOTA

Nine Now on List in a Week—Due to Farmers Not Meeting Their Notes.

BISMARCK, N. D., Nov. 22.—Three more banks were added today to the string of North Dakota financial institutions that have closed their doors in the past six days, due to depletion of their reserves, which officials say is due to the failure of farmers to meet notes held by the banks.

The Farmers' State Bank of Belfield, the State Bank of Kill Deer and the Security State Bank at Columbus closed today, making nine since the first of last week.

O. E. Lofthus, State Bank Examiner, declared that crop failures or short crops, together with depreciation in lands, and wheat-holding by farmers for higher prices are responsible for the closures, as farmers have no funds to meet their obligations at the banks.

STILL HAS RYAN'S $98,000.

Latter Won't Accept Seat Price From Exchange Without Terms.

The sale price of Allan A. Ryan's membership on the New York Stock Exchange, $98,000, still remained in the possession of the Exchange yesterday. Louis S. Levy of Stanchfield & Levy, Mr. Ryan's attorneys, said the money would not be taken from the Exchange until it could be done without prejudice, and that if it could not be taken without prejudice the Exchange would be sued for the amount. The prejudice to which Mr. Levy refers relates to the suits which Mr. Ryan has pending against the Exchange, it being held that the receipt demanded by the Exchange is of a nature which might have an adverse effect on the status of the court cases.

REFUSES A MILLION; PREFERS GOING TO WORK

Garland Heir Will Be a Mechanic—Brother Inclined to Follow His Example.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—Charles Garland, second son of the late James A. Garland, has declined to accept $1,000,000 his share of his father's large estate, because he prefers manual labor to a life of luxury.

He is living with his wife and infant daughter at Bay End Farm, his mother's Summer home at Buzzards Bay. His mother forfeited her claim to the Garland millions by marrying Francis Cushing Green in 1912. Since then the estate has been held in trust for the three sons. One of them, James A. Garland 3d, now 22 years old, accepts his share of the estate. The third brother, a student at Harvard, is inclined to follow the example of Charles, who is planning to become an automobile mechanic.

Charles Garland became of age in June and thus became eligible for his $1,000,000, but will have none of it.

"I believe," he says, "that in refusing to take the money I am placing my life on a Christian basis. Private property is the main cause of our unrest and unhappiness. It saps all the meaning from life. Why should certain men have control of land and food any more than of the air they and their fellow men breathe?"

MEMORIAL OF DR. SCHECTER

Jewish Scholars to Prepare Four Volumes of His "Studies."

Memorial services were held last night at the Jewish Theological Seminary, 531 West 123d Street, for Dr. Solomon Schechter, President of the institution from 1902 to 1915. Dr. Schechter died Nov. 19, 1915, and a memorial service is held each year. Rabbi Max Klein of Philadelphia delivered a short eulogy, and Dr. Israel Goldfarb of Brooklyn and Dr. Cyrus Adler of Philadelphia also spoke.

It was announced that four volumes compiled and edited by eminent Jewish scholars, to be called the "Schechter Studies," are soon to be published in memory of Dr. Schechter.

Our $400,000 Stock of
SAVINGS AVERAGE 40%

The Fur Market is broken. Prices are down—definitely down. We went out into the market armed with the Gimbel knowledge of furs which has made the department prominent ever since 1842—and prepared to pay cash for the best values that could be found around town. And values there were! Values which surprised us and which will more than surprise you. We went out and bought—you'll come in and save!

Many Purchases of great importance and great price advantages went into the making of this great sale. Many purchases in which we carefully chose only the finer pieces of the stocks of dependable fur merchants.

Only the best of their stocks are now being offered you—and at prices that are the result of the unusual conditions now forcing so many fur manufacturers to liquidate their stocks in order to meet pressing obligations.

Christmas is only a few weeks distant. And furs still come close to the top of the list of gifts that are delightfully practical and universally acceptable. We will be pleased to accept deposits on any furs you may want us to hold until gift-giving time comes round.

Children have a dear little section all their own—a section just filled to overflowing with the dearest little fur coats and neckpieces and muffs that ever kept a little lady warm and cozy. And all the little fur garments are marked at prices to match. The sale extends way down to the weeniest muff—and way up to the loveliest coat.

BURNS ADDS $50,000 TO BOMB REWARDS

DIVIDES SUM INTO 4 PARTS

Detective Exonerates Reds in Union From Part in Explosion Which Killed Forty.

An additional reward of $50,000 for information leading to the identity of the perpetrators of the Wall Street bomb outrage on Sept. 16, was offered yesterday by William J. Burns, head of the International Detective Agency, bringing the total of rewards to $70,500. The offer will expire Feb. 1 next, according to an advertisement signed by Mr. Burns, which appears in the newspapers this morning.

The day following the explosion, which resulted in the death of forty persons and injuries to upward of 300 others, the Board of Estimate at a special meeting offered $10,000 for evidence leading to the identity of the bomb plotters, and the Preferred Accident Insurance Company increased the reward to $20,000. The Board of Aldermen, on the same day, offered $500 for a clew to the identity of the owner of the horse and wagon used in hauling the infernal machine to the financial district.

The offer of the detective is contingent on the information being furnished to his agency exclusively, and states the sum will be divided in payment for information establishing the identity of the driver of the horse and wagon, the identity of the owner, the identity of the makers of the bomb and for evidence disclosing the identity of any of those connected with the crime.

It was announced at Mr. Burns's office in the Woolworth Building, that the theory that the bomb was sent to the financial district by "Reds" in a housewreckers' union, to blow up men affiliated with a rival union formed by Robert P. Brindell, head of the Building Trades' Council, was discredited by evidence obtained on the day of the explosion.

Mr. Burns began an investigation of the bomb outrage independent of that conducted by William J. Flynn, head of the Department of Justice, and the local police within an hour after the blast. He refused to say at the time by whom he was employed, but it was intimated his services were enlisted by a group of financiers.

American Red Cross Fourth Roll Call, 1921

Have we forgotten that—

In the midst of the world's tragedy the Red Cross actuated by the loftiest ideals of humankind, alleviated the suffering of our boys on the battlefields of Europe and sustained their beloved ones here in their hour of need.

Faithful, disinterested and self sacrificing devotion has always been the spirit which symbolizes the services of this noble institution.

Pestilence, earthquakes, famine and war never unfurled their banners but that the blessed legions of the Red Cross flocked to the fray to do blessed battle for the Victims of Man's and Nature's Cruelty.

Shall we fail them Now?

Let us give of our bounty. Let our response to their appeal be so emphatic and generous that it will redound to the glory of our city.

Sonora quality will not be reduced

—read this straight talk about prices

If you see any phonographs offered now at reduced prices, it means one of these four conditions:

1—That some manufacturers or dealers have an overstock of phonographs which they are unable to sell at their regular prices because there is no demand for this grade of instruments, and in desperation they must offer inducements to dispose of unpopular goods.

2—That former prices were exorbitant.

3—That the standard of quality is lowered.

4—That the manufacturer has gone into bankruptcy and that the receiver is disposing of the stock at any price he can obtain. Remember, if you buy a phonograph made by a company which has failed, you may be unable to secure repair parts or service. You are purchasing an "orphan."

Early this year we brought these conditions to the attention of dealers throughout the country in these words:

"Manufacturers overstocked with phonographs are already trying to induce dealers to take goods off their hands. They've discovered that 'cheap' phonographs are not easily salable. It is well to remember that a low price doesn't mean a bargain. Sonoras are never offered in 'cheap' lots but are sold at standard prices, and are worth all that's asked for them."

Freight rates on raw materials have risen, as have expenditures for skilled labor (which is the most important item to Sonora). The slight price shading which is secured on some few raw materials is more than offset by many other items of expense.

Although there may be a reduction in the price of lumber used in building construction, the cost of the better woods used in the manufacture of fine furniture and in Sonora phonographs remains practically unchanged.

The prices quoted on Sonoras are as low as is consistent with high quality of materials and careful, painstaking workmanship.

Sonora has never sacrificed quality for volume but on the contrary has, from the beginning, sacrificed volume for quality.

Buy your Sonora of an AUTHORIZED Sonora dealer. You are then not limited to a few styles but can choose from 24 periods, 9 upright styles, and one portable—all new goods. You have Sonora's guarantee as to Sonora's perfection of workmanship.

You can't tell from outward appearance how good a phonograph is. The interior part of the Sonora is as high class as is the exterior.

There is no prospect of decreased prices for Sonora phonographs at the present time. The superiority of the Sonora is instantly apparent when you compare it with other phonographs.

PHILADELPHIA MAN MURDERED IN OFFICE

HIS JEWELS AND CASH GONE

Police Seek "Young Blond" Woman Driving Red Car and Supposed Male Accomplice.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Requests for the arrest of a blonde woman, driving a big red automobile, were sent broadcast by the police tonight in connection with the killing of Henry T. Pierce, Eastern manager of the Insley Manufacturing Company, whose body, the head crushed with a wrench, was found today in the rear of his office in this city. The motor car is said to have belonged to Pierce and bore Pennsylvania license tag number 122-206.

Pierce, who was 45 years old and married, had been struck over the head several times with the wrench, and to make death certain gas had been turned on in the room. Everything of value had been stolen from the body. The pockets of his clothing were turned inside out and all of his money was gone. A gold watch and two diamond rings he was said to have worn were missing and a valuable diamond had been torn from a stickpin and the pin left in his tie.

Pierce was last seen alive by persons who knew him when he entered his office late Saturday night, accompanied by a young woman who is described as "young and a blond." There were evidences of a riotous "party," the police say in the office where the body was found. A number of bottles and two glasses, one half filled with whisky, were found on the table over which the body lay. The killing evidently occurred Saturday, the authorities stated.

One theory of the police is that Pierce was lured to his office by the woman and then killed by a male accomplice. The woman is described as about 21 years old, 5 feet 2 inches in height and plump. She wore a brown turban hat with a blue feather, and three-quarter length brown coat. The officials are working on the theory that she and her accomplice, after slaying and robbing Pierce, drove off in his automobile, a twelve-cylinder, boat-shaped car, painted red.

Mrs. Irene Pierce, widow of the slain man, said tonight she was warned last night in a dream that her husband was in trouble. "My dream seemed to foreshadow tradegy," said Mrs. Pierce, "and I was trying to warn my husband of danger when I awoke."

The Pierces have five boys ranging in age from four to thirteen.

Estate of Head of Soap and Perfume Firm Appraised.

That part of Richard M. Colgate's $5,985,163 estate which lies in New York was valued in the appraisal filed in the Surrogate's office here yesterday at $144,460. Mr. Colgate was at the head of the soap and perfume firm of Colgate & Co. and died at his home in Llewellyn Park, West Orange, N. J., in September of last year. The appraisals of the entire estate showed his holdings in the Colgate Company to have been $4,246,587 or common stock and $100,000 in its preferred stock. Among the other assets were $128,850 in Liberty bonds and shares of the Oak Investment and Security Company amounting to $984,819.

The will, offered for probate some months ago, devises the estate to his wife and children, except for some specific bequests of annuities running from $500 to $750 to friends, and bequests to public institutions.

HIGH BAIL FOR SARATOGANS.

$7,500 Asked for Two Men Recently Indicted on Gambling Charges.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Nov. 22—Abram ("Rachie") Brown Jules Formel and George Remo were arraigned here today before Justice Borst. The three were arrested in New York Saturday night after their indictment last week on charges of gambling here. Brown furnished $7,500 bail and Remo $2,500. Both were released. Formel, however, of whom $7,500 was demanded, was taken to the county jail in default of bail. These figures constitute high records for bail in Saratoga cases of this character.

Brown, who at the time of his arrest was at liberty on $1,000 bail after his indictment by the Extraordinary Grand Jury for perjury, is charged with being a common gambler and with assisting in the removal from Police Headquarters of gambling apparatus seized in a raid.

Formel is charged with being the proprietor of a place raided in August by Wyman S. Bascom, Special Deputy Attorney General, who has been in charge of the local investigation.

FIRES OF VOLCANIC ORIGIN.

That Is Engineers' Explanation of Three in Mines Near Pittsburgh.

Special to The New York Times.

FAYETTE CITY, Pa., Nov. 22.—The Fayette mine of the Lowber Gas and Coal Company, three miles from this city, is on fire and burning fiercely. Investigation so far made, lends color to the belief that the fire was caused by "volcanic eruptions of mild intensity," which, according to engineers, have been responsible for the breaking out of flames in two other mines in this region in the last four weeks.

The first fire was in a small mine near Uniontown. It is still raging. The second occurred in the big Union-Connellsville Coal Company mine, one of the largest in the region. Immediately after the discovery of fire in the latter mine engineers and experts from the Bureau of Mines in this city were sent to the scene to mak an investigation.

FINDS KAHN IS CITIZEN.

Federal Attorney Says Mrs. De Poy's Suspicion Is Groundless.

Following an extensive inquiry, United States District Attorney Leroy W. Ross in Brooklyn issued a statement yesterday that there was no ground for the suspicion held by Mrs. Clara L. De Poy of Great Neck, L. I., that the citizenship papers of Otto H. Kahn were not legal. Mrs. DePoy attracted attention when she appeared at a polling place in Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., on election day and announced her intention to challenge Mr. Kahn's vote.

Mr. Kahn did not appear on account of illness and Mrs. De Poy wrote to Mr. Ross asking him to investigate the legality of Mr. Kahn's citizenship.

THE STORY OF REVILLON FURS

Baking Bread on the Trail

REPUBLICAN FUND IS SHORT $189,000

But National Committee's Loans and Bills Unpaid Make Real Deficit About $1,000,000.

FEW GIFTS ABOVE $1,000

New York State and City Committees Report Their Expenses to Albany.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The third and final volume of accounts of the Republican National Committee was filed today with the Clerk of the House. The three together show that $4,022,579.70 was spent and $3,833,152.54 was collected. This shows a deficit of $189,427.16, but does not include loans and bills unpaid, which, it is believed, will bring the total deficit to about $980,000.

Between Oct. 24 and Nov. 19 $1,101,940.56 was contributed to the committee or borrowed, and the disbursements were $979,667.77. The committee negotiated a loan of $100,000 from Hornblower & Weeks, and $50,000 each from the Old Colony Trust Company and the First National Bank of Boston.

Among the contributors listed in the third account as having given more than $1,000 to the fund are:

I. R. Kirkwood, B. C. Hyde, W. R. Pickering and W. A. Pickering of Kansas City, each $2,500.

S. P. Fern and E. M. Williams of Cleveland and H. H. Timken of Canton, $1,500 each.

W. S. Dickey and J. W. Ferry of Kansas City, $1,250 each.

J. T. Davis of Cincinnati, $1,200.

James W. Brown of Cincinnati, $1,021.

Among the contributions of $1,000 each were:

Allen B. Forbes, William Fahnestock, Edwin Gould, Frank J. Gould, Walter B. Metcalf, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Ogden Reid, T. A. Gillespie, F. D. McKay, John Markle, W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., James A. Farrell, William H. Bliss, Robert N. Church, Mrs. Sarah R. Church, C. B. Milheny, H. E. Huntington, J. A. Brogden and W. P. Chrysler of New York City; Alexander T. Brown, Thomas G. Cranbill, H. H. Franklin, A. E. Nettleson, B. L. Smith, H. W. Smith, F. C. Soule, E. L. Pierce, E. P. Assman and William Crouse Klock of Syracuse; William H. Taft of New Haven.

The reports of the Democratic National Committee and of the Congressional Campaign Committees of both parties have not been received by the Clerk of the House.

A Difference in Reports.

ALBANY, Nov. 22.—The report of the Republican National Committee, as filed here with the Secretary of State, showed expenditures of $4,022,580.09 and receipts of $3,906,114.79, leaving an apparent deficit of $116,465.30.

The Democratic State Committee reported to Mr. Hugo late today that it spent $39,187 in the recent campaign, and that it had received $48,444. The largest contribution was $10,000 from the Personal Campaign Committee of Governor Smith. The largest individual contribution, $4,000, was by W. F. Matthews.

Other contributors were James A. Hoey, $2,000; George R. Van Namee and Dwight La Due, $1,500 each; Joseph J. Murphy, James A. Parsons, Charles E. Morris, Daniel Gilchrist, Edwin Corning and Jeremiah F. Connor, $1,000 each.

The New York County Republican Committee reported receipts of $147,650 and expenditures of $146,400.

The New York County Democratic Committee reported receipts of $182,011 and expenditures of $167,000.

Receipts reported by the Alfred E. Smith Personal Campaign Committee were $51,028 and expenditures $50,274.

Other reports filed late today were:

Pro-League Independents — Receipts, $28,783; expenditures, $27,866.

Non-Partisan Senatorial Committee—Receipts and expenditures, $12,295.

James A. Wendell Campaign Committee—Receipts, $9,266; expenditures, $9,252.

WANTED HIS SISTER WHO WAS IN POLAND

SEPARATED FOR A DECADE

But Katherine May Enter Now and Father Tells Him She Will Arrive Soon.

John Olestic came to New York last week and went home to Leicester, Mass., yesterday. He had been in New York once ten years ago when, as a four-year-old immigrant he came to the United States with his father and mother and sister Katherine from Poland.

That is when this story really begins, when the authorities at Ellis Island discovered that John's big sister, 9 years old, had diseased eyes, and decided that she must go back to Poland. Katherine went back and for ten years John has waited, hoping that Katherine's eyes would get well enough for her to come to America. In the meantime Victor, Steffen and Peter have joined the Olestic family, all three native-born Americans. Steffen and Peter shared their second birthday last July anl Victor is 8.

John's father works in a foundry where fancy grilled iron fences are made and just when the letter came telling that Katherine's eyes were all right people seemed to have stopped buying fancy iron fences and John's father was out of work. That is the reason that John assumed the job of getting sister Katherine to America.

The letter from Poland told how Katherine was working as a maid for a wealthy family where she received such high wages that she had about money enough to buy a pair of good shoes. But, as John tells it, "She says there ain't no shoes in Poland and Winter is coming, so she wants to get here before her feet are froze."

This little history was told to a policeman in the Grand Central Terminal last Friday night when John realized that he must have help if he would get his sister to America. He left home on Monday, Nov. 15, with $4 in his pocket, went to Springfield, where he spent the night in a back yard down by the river. On Wednesday he walked ten miles north to Holyoke, where a farmer's wife gave him a good dinner, and then he hopped upon an automobile truck and rode to New Haven, getting there early Thursday morning.

In New Haven John found a job and worked all Thursday washing dishes in a restaurant. Thursday night he worked until he fell asleep in the restaurant kitchen. Friday he worked harder than he had ever worked before, as the football crowds began to jam New Haven eating places.

Friday night John decided that the restaurant business would kill him if it kept on growing and he started out once more. Then for the first time he spent some money. He bought a ticket for New York and arrived late at night, cold, tired, hungry and quite a bit frightened. He appealed to the first policeman he met and the policeman promptly turned John over to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Yesterday John's father arrived in New York with good news. Work has been resumed in the foundry and soon there will be money for Katherine to come to America.

CIVIL SERVICE PLEA HEARD.

Controller Wants Certain Finance Jobs in Exempt Class.

The State and Municipal Civil Service Commissions held a joint hearing in the Municipal Building yesterday on the application of Controller Charles L. Craig to have certain jobs in the Finance Department put into the exempt class. The Controller said many of the places had been put in the competitive class in 1917, although no evidence had been taken and against the approval of the Mayor. He declared that the change was needed in the public interest, and cited instances to prove his contention.

Aldermanic President F. H. La Guardia spoke against the application, as did Samuel H. Ordway, President of the Civil Service Reform Association, Deputy Controller Frank J. Prial and Mrs. Margaret Hichfelder of the Federation of Women's Clubs.

At the conclusion of the hearing Commissioner Cukor of the local commission announced that a decision would be made in a few days.

You want to be Happy!

To be happy you must have good health—and to live you must eat.

"Eating to Live Long" is really a guide to happiness. If you are ill, or out of sorts, read this book to learn how to eat your way to health. If you are well you need it to learn how to stay well.

"Eating to Live Long" is by a famous physician. Of it "Clinical Medicine" (a leading medical journal) says: "The Reviewer urges his readers to get this little book, by all means, and to read it. Then study it, and let your patients buy and study it likewise. It will help you a lot."

Four Reasons Why You Should Buy The Noiseless Typewriter

1—It is durable -- -- --
2—It is speedy -- -- --
3—It does beautiful work
4—It is noiseless -- --

THREE of the four reasons given above might be called common to any good typewriter. But the fourth is exclusively a Noiseless feature.

It is the feature that sets this wonder machine above and apart from any other and makes it indeed "The Typewriter Plus." After all, in these days of progress, why should any one buy a noisy typewriter?

Sometimes a business man will say that he realizes the value of The Noiseless Typewriter but his only question is — "Will it stand up"?

In answer, we need but point to the many thousands of machines that have been in constant daily use for four, five and six years! And to the list of users!

Reasons No. 2 and No. 3 are quite easily demonstrated. As a matter of fact, stenographers who use The Noiseless Typewriter will tell you that they can do more work and better work on it than on any other machine they have ever used.

The Noiseless Typewriter brings you all the speed and efficiency of the ordinary typewriter and something more—the blessedness of quiet.

And it is on exactly that basis that we commend it to your attention.

As we have frequently stated, a fifteen-minute demonstration will tell you more about its value to you—to your nerves—to your stenographer—and to your business, than we could write in ten pages.

Phenomenal Values!

The tremendous business that we had during our recent Removal Sale has cleared out all the stocks bought by us at high prices. So when the big break in the woolen market came we were in a position to take full advantage, and we bought the stocks for our new store at practically our own prices.

For this reason, although we are making our usual moderate profit, we are still able to undersell every other legitimate clothing firm in New York—even those willing to take losses, and advertising 1-3 to 50% reductions. As for instance—

Regularly Priced $55, $50, $40
Now $24.50

SUITS and O'COATS for all types and sizes of men. Latest models in large variety of fine fabrics. Single or double-breasted. Ulsters, Ulsterettes, Raglans.

Regular Values $65, $60, $55
Now $32.50

Well-tailored models in large variety of all-wool fabrics. Single or double-breasted Suits. Warm Ulsters. Form-fitting or Conservative Overcoats.

Reduced from $85, $80 & $75

Models of extra fine quality. Suits in Worsteds, Cassimeres, Unfinished Worsteds, etc. Overcoats include Chesterfields, Raglans, Ulsters. Nationally Advertised Brands, too.

Priced heretofore $100, $95 & $90
Now $49.50

A few playgoers would be intensely annoyed, more would be impolitely amused, and many would be sentimentally sweetened and satisfied by the new comedy which made its first New York appearance last evening at the Broadhurst Theatre. This is "When We Are Young," a piece in three acts by Kate L. McLaurin. It is a specimen of the marshmallow school of drama, of which the first comparative sample that springs to mind was the somewhat more expert and characterful comedy named "The Cinderella Man." Somewhere in its course last evening, the handsome hero, if memory serves, informed the naturally gratified heroine that her voice had the sound of trickling honey. He must have said something like this, for the pleasant drip-drip of the phrase seemed to sound throughout the rest of the play.

"When We Are Young" is one of those "young master" plays, of which the protagonist is never a mere person, but a scion—a scion surrounded by faithful old servants who cluck delightedly over his wild ways and vow the Harpers were always like that. It is only the fact that the scene is laid in a lodging house and that the lonely towers of dear old ancestral Oak Lane can only be referred to wistfully in every act which prevents your actually seeing the apple-cheeked wife of the lodgekeeper bobbing courtseys in the lane when the young master comes home.

Thus the reckless Carey Harper has no money and only one valet left when the play opens. How he runs into one deprivation after another until even his orders for orchids are ignored by the florist—that is set forth in the opening act. He is fast going to the devil, with glimpses of champagne and movie actresses flitting past, and he has reached the point of suicide when a beautiful young shopgirl comes to his rescue, teaches him to be a man, sets him to shoveling snow and is in his greatly strengthened arms, after many false alarms, in time for the final curtain. Before this happy ending is achieved he has spurned his rich but interfering uncle, inherited the vast estate of a still richer aunt and rescued the heroine from her frightened flight into the snowy night.

The captious critics will find the text of all this pretty story somewhat syrupy, and the technically minded will be distressed by what they will doubtless describe as the insufficient motivation of the lovely shop-girl's entrance into the proceedings. She comes tip-toeing in from her plain little hall-bedroom to peek furtively at all his beautiful books, and it is all so naïvely managed that you cannot help wondering what would have happened to Miss McLaurin's play if she had happened to hit upon a heroine sufficiently resourceful to join a public library.

"When We Are Young" rests heavily upon the likable and engaging qualities of young Henry Hull as a player and as a person and it exhibits him agreeably, although, of course, it postpones (for the duration) his further education as an actor.

As the shopgirl who, fortunately, comes from an old Southern family, Alma Tell is exceedingly decorative. If, as cannot be successfully denied, she delivers all her speeches in a lyrical recitative that seems to demand orchestral accompaniment, and if she further clasps her hands ecstatically and ever and anon communicates her thoughts only to the ceiling, it should be said in her behalf that every line of the play urges, even goads, her to do just that.

The inexorable text requires her to burst forth from time to time into excerpts from "The Blessed Damozel" and it is scarcely her fault if she seems never quite clear when the line at hand is Rossetti's and when it is Miss McLaurin's.

The Carrollian tenancy of the Republic Theatre was continued last night with the presentation of a comedy entitled "Daddy Dumplins," fashioned by Earl Carroll from a George Barr McCutcheon story called "Mr. Bingle." It is, as the title suggests, a play with a rotund, big-hearted, and jovial old fellow as its central character, filled to the brim with romping and piping children of various ages. It contains a number of sentimental scenes designed to tug at the heart strings, and doing it in the cases of all but the too theatrically sophisticated. It is all quite obvious and simple—written and played at a deliberate pace, and, for the most part, frankly stagy.

"Daddy Dumplins" contains six children under the age of 10, and two of the three acts are laid on Christmas Eve. From this much of the atmosphere and mood of the piece may be deduced. The merry and generous soul of the title has adopted the youngsters at intervals of two years and has lived and romped with them in a commodious country house which formed a part of his inheritance. But the will is contested, and after fourteen years the Supreme Court hands down a decision—showing how far the play has gone in the observance of realistic detail. The philanthropic old gentleman is turned from his house, his youngsters are taken in hand by a children's society, and the final act finds him living in a dingy flat. To be sure, both his estate and his children are restored in the end.

It is a simple and human story, told with a number of artful touches, and possessed of an undeniable appeal. The rôle of the generous old fellow falls to Maclyn Arbuckle, who gives a generally effective, but uneven, performance. He is inclined to be over-deliberate in most of it, and overplays one scene of emotion rather flagrantly. His is a theatrical performance—in key with much of the play, it is true, but never creating to any great degree the illusion of life.

There is a good performance by the promising Andrew Lawlor—the Penrod of two seasons ago—and an excellent juvenile named Louis Kimball. Olive May plays a traditional faithful servant, and the youngsters, particularly in their nightgowns, bring many an "Ah!" from the audience.

Asks for Nat Goodwin's Property.

Surrogate Cohalan yesterday reserved decision on an application by Miss Georgia Gardiner, actress, for an order declaring her owner of the personal effects of the late Nat C. Goodwin, pursuant to a letter he signed giving her the property because of her care during his last illness. She offered testimony that she wrote the letter at Mr. Goodwin's request and he signed it in the presence of Frederick Schroeder, a theatrical reporter.

$1,000,000 IN DRUGS SEIZED HERE BY BOYD

He Says Addicts Are Decreasing, However, Despite Narcotics Taken in Two Months.

More than one million dollars' worth of narcotics have been seized by the Narcotic Division of the Prohibition Enforcement Department since Frank L. Boyd became Supervising Prohibition Agent two months ago, it was said at Mr. Boyd's office yesterday. The confiscated drugs are stored temporarily at the Knickerbocker Warehouse. Every thirty days the drugs taken in raids are shipped to the Division of Technology in Washington and such as are standard goods are used in Government hospitals.

Frank J. Fitzpatrick, Supervisor of the Narcotics Division, and Ralph Oyler, one of the most active and experienced men of his staff, asserted yesterday that despite the large seizures of narcotics in this city the number of drug addicts throughout the country has greatly decreased in the last few years. They admitted that the drug habit might appear to be on the increase in New York City for the reason that so many addicts are coming here from other parts of the country.

MAY ATTACK $700,000 WILL.

Cousins of Auto Victim Expected to Contest Charity Bequests.

That the will of General Rush C. Hawkins, who was mortally injured by an automobile, would be contested was indicated in the Surrogate's Court yesterday when the executors, Walter F. Angell and Thomas N. Rhinelander, asked that the United States Trust Company be appointed temporary administrator. General Hawkins left the bulk of his estate to the Actors' Fund, Norwich University, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and to friends.

The executors said they found that General Hawkins had left forty-seven cousins in twelve States and in Guatemala. Many had not been heard from in years and the executors expected difficulty in citing them in the probate proceedings.

The executors say the assets consist of $113,000 in cash, 6,300 shares of the Industrial Corporations, 2,000 shares of American Gas preferred, 2,000 shares American Car and Foundry preferred, 1,500 shares National Lead preferred and 800 shares Montana Power. The value exceeds $600,000.

SHUTDOWN BY NASH MOTORS

Special to The New York Times.

KENOSHA, Wis., Nov. 22.—W. H. Alford of the Nash Motors Company announced today that more than 2,000 employes here had been laid off and that the rest would be laid off before Thanksgiving.

The shut-down will be for at least two weeks, to allow an inventory and completion of plans for readjustment of labor conditions. It was stated that the demands of the business would probably make it impossible to re-employ all the men when work is resumed.

VASA PRIHODA APPEARS.

Czechoslovak Violinist Makes His American Debut in Carnegie Hall.

Before an audience of much social brilliance assembled under the auspices of the Camp Fire Girls, and in a program that still left to future hearing his claim to highest qualities of musicianship, Vasa Prihoda made his American début as violinist last evening at Carnegie Hall. His name in Czechoslovak is more nearly Przsihoda, beginning with a "sneeze," and he was born twenty years ago at Vodnany, in the then Austrian province of Bohemia. For him, since the war, Italian enthusiasts had taken a violin of Paganini's from its vault, and he also was said to have stirred the soul of Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Prihoda played last evening Tartini's "Devil's Trill," Paganini's D major concerto, with cadenza by Sauret; a version of Schubert's "Ave Maria," by Marak, his teacher in Prague; Kreisler's "Caprice Viennois," a mazurka by Dvorak and variations by Paganini on an air from Paisiello's "Molinara." It was all fiddlers' music or flappers' delights, from purely technical to merely ear-tickling.

Boyish of figure, but with manly dignity, Prihoda gave a good account of himself so far as this music allowed. He has taste, even elegance, an undoubted virtuosity of the left hand, a more moderate tone-power of the right, or bow arm, and he won his house without exhausting the fiddler's bag of tricks or the true artist's repertory of the violin.

Czechoslovak flags marked a box occupied by Prihoda's official countrymen here; others, not official, appeared in national dress in the aisles, along with Camp Fire Girls in outing costume, while little Christmas trees and mimic campfires flanked the stage. Mrs. Frank Vanderlip gave a box party for wounded soldiers from Fox Hills, as did Ogden Mills for blind girls from the Lighthouse, while two more boxes were filled by permanently disabled army men as guests of the Carry-On Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Bloch Play.

Alexander Bloch and Mrs. Bloch, whose artistic sonata recitals for some years have been marked by sincerity and mutual understanding, and who now find no competitors in that field in New York's most crowded season, gave the first of two recitals before a musical audience last evening at Aeolian Hall. They were heard in classic works of Bach in E minor, of Beethoven in G major, Op. 96, and the less formal sonata in E flat of Richard Strauss; works widely varying in style, and as variously creditable to these sympathetic interpreters, who were heartily applauded.

To Celebrate Mark Twain's Birthday

Mark Twain's birthday, on Nov. 30, is to be celebrated this year by addresses at the Booth Theatre, where a dramatization of Mark Twain's story, "The Prince and the Pauper," is being played. Among those who have been invited to attend are William H. Taft, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Elihu Root, Champ Clark, Booth Tarkington and Nicholas Murray Butler.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Doyle and Dixon, the dancers, last night joined the cast of "Kitchy-Koo, 1920," at the New Amsterdam. Charles Withers, with "For Pity's Sake," is no longer in the cast.

Martha Hedman has withdrawn from the cast of "Transplanting Jean," in which she has been appearing on the road with Arthur Byron, and will go into motion pictures. "Transplanting Jean" is expected to come to New York in the near future.

A. H. Woods has acquired an unnamed comedy by Montague Glass and Jules Eckert Goodman. It will be produced next season.

Gus Edwards, Eddie Leonard and Louise Gunning head the week's program at the Palace Theatre.

Emilie Lea, Harry Mayo and Tom Dingle have been engaged for "Oh, Pat!" in which Pat Rooney will appear.

"Meet the Wife," a farce by Marjorie Glenn and James Faller, was produced in Plainfield last night.

Channing Pollock has written a travesty of his play, "The Sign on the Door," which will be acted at the Friars dinner to Mr. Pollock at the Hotel Astor next Sunday night. George S. Dougherty, former Police Commissioner, will be in the cast.

Dolores has been engaged for the forthcoming Ziegfeld production, "Sally in Our Alley."

The annual entertainment for the benefit of the Seaside Home for Crippled Children will be given at the Strand Theatre next Friday morning, beginning at 10 o'clock. The program will be one especially arranged for children.

Roscoe Arbuckle made a speech at the Rivoli Theatre last night, where "The Life of the Party," of which he is the hero, is being shown. He sails for Europe today.

THE OPERA

By Richard Aldrich

"Tosca."

The performance of Puccini's opera of "Tosca," given at the Metropolitan Opera House last evening, the first one of the season, occasioned the first appearance of Puccini's name on the opera bills—and that, too, in the second week. It was chiefly notable for its introduction of one of the new members of the company, Mario Chamlee, who appeared as Mario Cavaradossi. It is a considerable undertaking for a newcomer to step thus into the shoes of some of the most prominent and popular members of the company in an opera so highly esteemed by the public and to make so favorable an impression as Mr. Chamlee made. He disclosed a tenor voice of excellent quality, of unspoiled freshness, not without warmth and color, vibrancy and power, and made intelligent use of it without some of the faults that make judicious listeners sometimes grieve. He sang spontaneously and normally.

For one thing, he has not yet got into the grip of the habit of shouting at the top of his lungs. Perhaps he may find that shouting is unnecessary, as a steady practice, on the stage of the Metropolitan, and that his effects will be more certainly made and in a more artistic manner, with a due modulation of the voice to the requirements of the situation and the best advantage of the phrase. So it may be hoped.

Mr. Chamlee, though he has sung this part probably a good many times in the Scotti Opera Company, of which he was a member, showed no great skill as an actor, and a rather conventional idea of what the part demands in that respect. It may be hoped that Mr. Chamlee will find means of remedying this as his experience enlarges. He will, of course, have further opportunities before the end of April of showing what he can really do in the way of both song and dramatic action. In the meantime it is gratifying to note the favorable impression he made last evening and to record the rather unusual cordial applause that the audience gave his extended air in the first act.

And it is all the more gratifying thus to note and record in the case of a young American singer; for that is what Mr. Chamlee is; a Californian, with a training entirely American, and a name slightly reorchestrated for operatic use.

Whatever else there may be in "Tosca," there is when Mr. Scotti is the Scarpia, a highly distinguished impersonation, one of the finest to be witnessed at the Metropolitan. It was in the familiar vein last evening of elegance, finish, intensity and polished villainy. Mr. Scotti was in better voice than he was the other evening in "l'Elisir d'Amore"; added to which the music of "Tosca" is doubtless in certain ways less exacting than Donizetti's lyric phrases.

Mme. Farrar's Tosca was beautiful to look at, somewhat less beautiful to hear, much as it has been in recent seasons. The others who took part were those who have been in the cast before, and Mr. Moranzoni conducted.

Mme. Mero's Recital.

Mme. Yolanda Mero, who has long been known as one of the most brilliant and scintillating of pianists resident in New York, gave a recital in Aeolian Hall that interested a numerous audience. Mme. Mero covered a wide gamut of expression in her playing yesterday, and showed not only imposing power, fire and rapidity, but also a tone modulated to the extreme of softness and delicate sentiment.

Muscular power and clearness of articulation marked her playing of an arrangement—by whom the program did not state—of an organ concerto in D Minor by Wilhelm Friedemann Bach, eldest and called the most talented son of a greater musician, Johann Sebastian Bach; a piece introduced by some sweeping chord passages that might have surprised the composer to hear as Mme. Mero played them.

The piece has a massiveness of outline suggestive of some of his father's work, but also more conventional phraseology than is often to be found in these works. Mme. Mero played Beethoven's poetic and reticent sonato Op. 109, in E, in a vein that truly represented it, and with especial beauty in the variations—beauty of singing tone and of phrasing.

Shorter pieces by Weber (the brilliant rondo in E flat), Brahms, Grieg, Debussy and Agghazy, and a group by Liszt completed the program. The rondo had a fleet brilliancy that well became it, and Brahms's intermezzo was given with a sincere and tender feeling.

Birgit Engell, Soprano, Makes Debut

Birgit Engell, a Danish soprano, girlishly demure and dowered with a voice of creamy top notes yet unspoiled, made a successful first appearance at Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon, assisted at the piano by C. V. Bos. She proved her skill in two lyrics each of Brahms and Strauss, and from Northern composers, Ekki Melartin's "The Christ Child's Slumber Song" and Sibelius's "The Maiden from Her Love Tryst." There was charm also in well-chosen American songs, Dagmar Rybner's "Pastoral," which was repeated; Watts's playlet "Pierrot", and Densmore's "Spring Fancy," of thrilling bird-notes, which earned Grieg's "Solveig's Song" for brilliant encore.

MUSIC NOTES.

The Fraternal Association of Musicians at its second meeting in old Steinway Hall tonight will have a program by Hubert Linscott, baritone; Maude Doolittle, piano, and Frederick W. Riesberg.

A concert of the Social and Scientific Society in aid of artists and writers on Saturday evening at Carnegie Hall enlists Agathe Barsescu, J. P. Borisoff, Cornelius Van Vliet, Anita Loew, Carlo Enciso, Bernard Olshansky and Leon Rains.

Two Pan American artists of the current week in Carnegie Hall are Flora Mora, a Cuban pianist, appearing on Thanksgiving Day, and Alfredo Oswald, who on Saturday afternoon will play new works for piano by his father, composer, of Brazil.

IRELAND AND THE UNITED STATES

The terrible events in Dublin on Sunday are like a burst of flame, lighting up the immense difficulties of the Irish problem. On one side we see the darker elements of the Irish agitation—a criminal ferocity displayed in brutal and cowardly assassinations. On the other side English blundering comes into view. It was a blunder to leave English officers unguarded in hotels and lodging houses, where murderers could walk into their rooms at a fixed hour and shoot them down without giving them a dog's chance. It was another blunder, in the lawful and necessary pursuit of the assassins, so to act as to give color to the charge that machine guns had opened fire on a crowd at a game. All the details are not yet precisely known. But the main facts are of the same kind that has been making the heart sick for two years past—the fierce clashing of two races, the malign frustration of every attempt to arrive at a reasonable settlement between England and Ireland.

"The Irish question," wrote Lord Rosebery, "has not passed into history because it has never passed out "of politics." But it has, at least for the moment, passed out of American politics. The Presidential election being over, people in this country may now seek to take a calmer and fairer view of the Irish troubles. In trying to hold the scales even, Americans had better be modest about proposing remedies for the deep-seated Irish disease. We are not in possession of an infallible cure. Beware of the man who claims to have a panacea for Ireland. Neither Ireland nor England would welcome any meddling and quack practitioners from this side. Let us frankly admit that if the Irish problem of today were referred to the combined wisdom of the American Congress a neat and perfect solution would not be forthcoming with the ease that some of our public men pretend.

It is said that Americans, while despondent over the Irish tragedy, of which the last act is not in sight, are bound to let it appear where their "sympathies" lie. They always have been, and doubtless are today, with Irish Home Rule. But it ought to be made plain that we have only abhorrence for such dastardly crimes as have been committed in the name of Irish independence. When Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke were stabbed to death in Phoenix Park in the '80s a thrill of horror ran through the world. American friends of Ireland were aghast. The iron composure of Parnell himself was broken through, and he thought for a time of resigning the Irish leadership. Today the disgrace of assassination does not seem to be so keenly felt. But however this may be in Ireland, in the United States there ought to be no hesitation in denouncing such atrocious crimes as those in Dublin. If Irishmen look to this country for "sympathy" with cowardly slaughter, they should be told that they will look in vain; and that to seize the weapons of murder can only stiffen the purpose and strengthen the hands of the English faction most bent on a policy of stern repression in Ireland.

In the realm of practical and active help by the Government of the United States Irishmen have nothing to hope for. Far from there being a possibility of this country's going to war to free Ireland, there is not even a possibility of diplomatic intervention. The next President of the United States squarely and truthfully declared in the course of the campaign that the question of Irish government was a "domestic" affair of Great Britain, with which we had no right to interfere. It is certain that we shall not. And if a good part of Sinn Fein policy since 1918 has been directed to the hope of getting effective aid from this country, or possibly of embroiling us with England, it may as well be dropped now for good and all. That way lies only disappointment.

Americans cannot stand by as uninterested spectators. They have a lively and inextinguishable interest in Ireland, and in her relations to the British Empire. They will continue to hope that a way may be found, though they do not know what it is, to make the Irish race self-governing and contented. But exactly because they desire this they heartily wish that Irishmen would leave off seeking to enforce impossible demands by savage crimes, and would consent to make a fair trial of the enlarged plan of Home Rule which England is now freely offering them.

INSURANCE AGAINST WAR.

For the year 1921, the League to Enforce Peace does well to remind us, the expenses of the League of Nations are estimated at $4,200,000. If the United States were a member, it would have to contribute $220,296 to the League budget of 1921. Compare this modest cost of the new machinery to prevent war with the cost of the system, under which the world groans, of preparing for future wars. In 1913, the year of peace, Congress appropriated nearly $220,000,000 for military and naval expenses. In 1918, when the United States was in the great war, the bill rose to the enormous sum of more than $10,220,000,000. In 1920, in a state of actual if not technical peace, the navy budget is $432,000,000 and the army budget $377,000,000.

So long as the ruinous competition of armaments is allowed to continue, the burden of taxation for military and naval purposes must grow more intolerable. Thus Japan spent $46,000,000 on her navy in 1914; appropriated $176,000,000 this year. She has entered upon a program of naval expansion which will cost her $235,000,000 or more in the next few years. In 1914 her army appropriation was $49,000,000. This year, deducting as a special or extraordinary expense the cost of the Siberian expedition, estimated at $100,000,000, the army appropriation has risen to $105,000,000, more than twice the figures of 1914; and she is to spend $200,000,000 for aviation. From $224,000,000 in 1914, the British army appropriation has risen to $600,000,000 in 1920, and the naval appropriation has been immensely increased. Making all allowance for the increased cost of living, materials, construction and so on, the growing size of these bills is gigantic. France, for reasons only too evident, is necessarily committed to the same program. Great nations and small are subject to the same swelling extravagance. Even defeated nations, most exhausted by the war, will be forced back into the old competition if the world's will for peace does not subdue the old will for war.

Competitive armament is no insurance against war. If the old system prevails, after years of burdensome preparations for war will follow the disastrous, incredible loss and expense of actual war. Nations can't stand it. Governments and civilization itself would break down. The League of Nations offers a practicable way of diminishing or averting war. In time the custom and tradition of peace may supplant the long tradition and custom of war. In time armaments may be reduced and all the nations be freed from the crushing burden of taxation for armies and navies. The only insurance against war is the League. The cost of belonging to it, as the League to Enforce Peace says, would be "exactly one-tenth of 1 per "cent. of what we spent on arm-"aments during a single year before "the war, while it would amount to "something like two-thousandths of 1 "per cent. of what the direct cost of "our belligerency reached in 1918." Of course, the indirect cost of war can only be guessed. Clearly, it is "good business" for the United States to enter the League.

LABOR THE CHIEF PROBLEM.

The National Economic League, comprising all elements of society, has just polled its council upon the question, What are the foremost national problems? Labor headed the poll, with 410 votes to 351 for taxation. There are always labor troubles in times like these and, therefore, Collier's Weekly does a public service when it brings out the views of such leading authorities as those whose opinions it is now printing. The stars in today's issue are Herbert Hoover and Samuel Gompers. There are other striking names in the list, but not even Governor Allen of Industrial Court fame is likely to be so prominent an actor as these two.

Mr. Gompers used to be called the "master of a million minds," but he now does the thinking and talking for four or five million Federationists. He does not approve the idea of Collier's Weekly that, since strikes must always eventually be settled, it is better to settle them before they begin by discussion around a table and fair adjustment of conflicting interests. Mr. Gompers thinks that the official estimate of $875,000,000 loss through strikes last year is not too great a price to pay for the liberty to strike. He doubts that the saving of that sum would have resulted in greater production by the industries concerned, since the workers in them produce all that is produced anyway. Without the fear of strikes, capital comes to the council table as the Germans used to do, and to keep capital on good behavior is "the greatest agency for "human progress that the world "knows; the strike is the most un-"warlike weapon known to man. It "is an act of negation. The right to "decline to work under conditions "approved by the worker is a right "that cannot be denied." Mr. Gompers has nothing to say about the right to work under conditions satisfactory to the worker, nor about the evils of domination by labor as well as capital, nor about the right and duty of Government to control both in the interest of neither.

Mr. Hoover does not take the side of either labor or capital. On behalf of Collier's he reviews the replies by the others from the standpoint of a member of President Wilson's second Industrial Conference. He is naturally partial to its procedure. He prefers the method of simple inquiry, and reliance upon the force of disclosure of facts, to either arbitration or adjudication in the manner of the Kansas Industrial Court. Mr. Hoover believes in collective bargaining, and does not believe in the prevention of strikes. He is detached in his views, seeing more of both sides than Mr. Gompers, and leaning to the contention of neither so much as toward uniting their views and interests for the sake of the common good. Mr. Hoover stands high with the constructive portion of labor, whose discipline of its "outlaws" is one of the best signs of the times. In his address to the American Engineering Society, telegraphed to Saturday's Times, Mr. Hoover urged that labor and capital should accept engineers as the link to unite them in greater production than is possible under the conditions of warfare.

Much is said about the waste after production. It is trivial compared with the waste during production by the methods of labor. Even the loss of a billion more or less in strikes is less than might be added to production if labor would work not harder, but in the manner of the engineers. It is notable that Mr. Hoover's address followed consultation with Federation leaders, and there could hardly be a greater accomplishment along the lines of the wishes of Collier's than that Mr. Hoover might bring Mr. Gompers to accept engineers as a golden bridge between labor and capital.

NOT TO BE SCRAPPED.

Lord Robert Cecil, a fair-minded, sincere and moderate man, free from pride of opinion or undue attachment to his own ideas, asks a plain and pertinent question. "We should like "to know the Republicans' idea re-"garding the League. Just what do "they want?" He tells them, what everybody knows and what they knew perfectly well during the campaign, that the forty-two nations in the League are not going to dissolve it and join the United States in starting "a league," a new league. It can't be done. The League is a going concern. It is for the United States to say what amendments and reservations it wants.

The Covenant of the League can be modified, but the League can't be scrapped. It is for the Republicans to give up obstruction, to agree on the changes that they want. They will find the members of the League willing to make any concessions or changes that will not impair its essential purposes. They can alter the constitution and by-laws, so to speak, of the existing company, but they can't form a new one and get anybody to join it.

RUSSIA LOOKS WEST.

Poland has stopped fighting, but Poles are still at war. General Zellgouski at Vilna is still the most disturbing factor in Northeastern Europe. According to Polish accounts, he is defending himself, aided by his Lithuanian Poles, against the attacks of the Lithuanian Government. If the Lithuanians are telling the truth, he is beginning an offensive with fifteen divisions, which means that the Polish Government must be helping him out.

The Lithuanian story does not have to be accepted to put the Poles in the wrong. If Zellgouski is merely defending himself, he is defending himself in a place where he has no right to be. The Polish Government agreed to yield Vilna, temporarily at least, to the Lithuanians, and Zellgouski overrode it just as d'Annunzio overrode the Italian Government. D'Annunzio is still gesticulating, and the Italian Government has not yet suppressed him; but it seems likely that it will suppress him before long if he does not quiet down. Zellgouski might be harder to suppress, but as a Pole he ought to realize that he is putting Poland in more serious danger than d'Annunzio could ever have brought on Italy. Italy had the great advantage in the Adriatic dispute that she was three times as large and ten times as wealthy as her rival. Poland is a good deal larger than Lithuania, but Zellgouski has done his best to accentuate the Lithuanian tendency to look to Russia or Germany for protection against Poland.

A fraction of the Bolshevist Army is finishing Balakhovitch and Petlura. Mr. Joffe at Riga tells the Polish delegates that peace cannot be concluded unless Poland observes the terms. It may be that Poland is observing the terms, but Russia seems to be looking for excuses to interfere now that Wrangel is out of the way. Zellgouski has done more harm to Polish interest than can ever be offset by the strategic advantage of the possession of Vilna.

COLONEL GOFF'S OPPORTUNITY.

Deeds, not words, are expected from Colonel Guy D. Goff, general counsel of the Shipping Board, who gives notice of his purpose "to run to cover "every person employed in the Ship-"ping Board or the Emergency Fleet "Corporation, man, or woman, clerk "or official, who is guilty of cor-"ruption, and to prosecute them to "the fullest extent of the law"; also every tradesman, ship operator, claimant, attorney, lobbyist or solicitor who offers "the glittering bribe or sweetens his petition with gold."

Colonel Goff's exordium to his laudable resolve may be regarded as a barrage of rhetoric, a star-shelling of the positions of the grafters that prepares the way for his assault. Such strenuous definitions of business immorality and such violent similes of scorn for offenders are not often seen in the manifesto of a prosecuting officer. May he not be like General John Pope, who from his headquarters in the saddle of the Army of Northern Virginia announced that he would "seek an adversary and beat him when found," but who was the victim, not the victor, in the operations that followed. Bombastic as Colonel Goff's lashing of iniquity is before the rascals are run down the people wish him a full measure of success in his campaign, although they are disposed to wonder why the Shipping Board has lost so much time in instituting prosecutions.

The testimony given before the Walsh committee leaves no one in doubt that millions of dollars have gone into the pockets of persons whom it would be foolish euphemism to call profiteers. It is inconceivable that sometimes there has not been collusion between them and employés of the Shipping Board. Vast sums of money appear to have been stolen by indirection and even outright. This has been going on not only for months but years. Never did a public prosecutor have a greater opportunity to distinguish himself in the public service.

CONSTANTINE AND HIS KINGDOM.

The Rhallis-Gounaris Ministry has postponed the plebiscite on the return of King Constantine to Greece; but, as Venizelos foresaw, the election was the real plebiscite. With Venizelos beaten, the King was certain to come back if he could; and the French seem to be right in their contention that the selection of Dowager Queen Olga as Regent in place of Admiral Koundouriotes already settles the succession. A plebiscite is unnecessary, and if it is held its result can easily be controlled. Constantine will come back unless his friends in Athens think it is not safe to ask him, or unless France interferes.

French interference might be illegal and would certainly be unwise. If the Greeks want Constantine, let them have him and make the best of him; he will make trouble for France and every one else, no doubt, but it would make more trouble to insist on overruling a sovereign State which asked him to return. To be sure, Constantine declares that he will make no trouble for anybody. He will continue the foreign policy of Venizelos; he would rather be King of eight million people, half of whom Venizelos added to Greece, than of the four and a half million who were in the kingdom when he left it.

But can he continue the Venizelist policy? Constantine talks at Lucerne of loyally observing the Serbian alliance. Can any Serb forget that in the Autumn of 1915 Constantine deliberately repudiated that alliance because he thought the Germans were going to win? Neither Serbia nor anybody else will count much on his loyalty after that. Constantine supports Venizelos's Anatolian policy, and the Rhallis Cabinet is preparing for a new offensive against Mustapha Kemal; and at the same time come tales from Smyrna of an army undertaking what is euphemistically called self-demobilization. Venizelos was beaten largely because the country was tired of war; every household wanted its soldier brought back home. Can Constantine keep them at the front after that? France may not and England probably will not prevent his return to Athens; but neither France nor England will take any trouble to preserve for Constantine the Anatolian conquests which Venizelos and Paraskevopoulos won. The Greeks cannot eat their cake and have it too; if they or their King want to retain their conquests they will have to work for them.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Demanding the Use of Spanish.

Not among the most important problems confronting the League of Nations, but not one of the least important, either, is that of the language, or rather of the languages, to be used in conducting the business of its Assembly and Council. Already the Spanish-speaking delegates, who come from a considerable number of countries, are protesting against the assumption—reached apparently without any formal action—that French shall be what might be called the common denominator at these great gatherings. They demand that each speech delivered shall be translated into Spanish as well as into French.

This is an inconveniently reasonable request, but the makers of it doubtless realize that to grant their demand would bring similar ones from all the other nations, or at least from many of them, and that the resulting delays would be intolerable. Their motives must be much like that of the several groups here in the United States who every now and then clamor for the teaching in our public schools of the language they spoke before they came to this country, and always the unanswerable cry is, Why teach one language and not another?

Here the inquiry can be turned away by asking, Why teach any foreign language? At Geneva, however, that reply will not do. Everything said there, somehow or other, must be brought to the understanding of all the diversified hearers, collected from all the ends of the earth, and a means of satisfying national jealousies in this matter must be found.

It Will Be French or English.

That French should again be accepted as the common language of all nations in their dealings with each other is a proposal in favor of which many and good arguments could be made. It is perhaps the easiest of all languages for anybody to add to his mother tongue; its vocabulary, while comparatively small, is adequate for the clear expression of any thought; its grammar is simpler than that of many other languages, and its spelling, though it might be better, comes nearer to being phonetic than that of English and many others.

French also has already at least a start toward the position of universal second language, for probably more people have acquired it to some degree in addition to their own than have acquired any other. Indeed, there is only one other—English—that has a chance of acceptance for this purpose, but that chance is small, for the reason, among several, that the English-speaking peoples are not what would be called world favorites, and there would be a lot of opposition to according to them an honor so high.

There remain to be considered, of course, the artificial languages, some of them ingenious, not difficult to acquire, and already in actual use if the reports of their admirers can be believed. Any one of them presumably would serve if general consent to adopt it as a second tongue could be secured, but that is more than doubtful. They have no historic associations, they have a barbarous sound and look for everybody, and they are without a literature to be an added recompense for the trouble of learning them. And there is not one of them that would not lose very soon its beautiful regularity if it came into anything like common use.

The logical candidates are French and English. Both already are spoken pretty well around the world, and neither presents insuperable difficulties of acquisition.

Planning to Use the Police.

There is reassurance in the news that our municipal authorities already are giving thought to the question of snow removal. As yet there has been only rain in this part of the State, but that is only because New York is about on the line where the same storm may be either rain or snow.

The new plan is to have the police take a larger part in dealing with our snowfalls, and less dependence is to be placed on the hiring of casual labor at just the times when casual labor is hardest to get and is least well prepared for effective work in trying conditions of weather.

The metropolitan police have the habit of doing well most things they really try to do, and, with the special training and preparation which it is proposed to give some of them, they presumably would make a better showing as snow removers than the city is accustomed to see.

They might even bring into use the powerful mechanical devices that are available in addition to the shovels and carts that in the past have cost so much and worked so unsatisfactorily.

Voyaging Aboard a Derelict.

In the third of Mr. Wells's articles on Russia he wrote with what his brother Socialists probably will regard as shocking irreverence about Karl Marx and his whiskers. Mr. Wells, however, already had offended so many Socialists so many times by his heresies that their opinion of him will be confirmed rather than changed by this latest attack on their prophet and his "monumental" book.

But what will the Russian Bolsheviki say—and do—when they find themselves described in this article as beginning to suspect that, instead of capturing a nation, they merely have clambered aboard a derelict?

The picture, or figure, is a striking one, and worthy of its author's skill, but Messrs. Lenin and Trotzky can reply that there are derelicts and derelicts. Some of them can be brought safely into port under a jury rig, and in such cases the salvage sometimes makes all who did the job rich men.

At present the Russian derelict seems to have a nearly empty hold and to be more likely to sink under its crew than to bring them into harbor and a friendly Admiralty court, but if that is Mr. Wells's implication he does not make it quite clear.

Swinburne's Beer.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the Sunday papers that announced Swinburne's death mention was made of his frequent walks from Putney to the Fox and Hounds, Wimbledon Common and back, and of his regularly drinking half a pint of bitter there. Edward Fitzgerald wrote to Tennyson asking how to obtain Trinity Audit ale, and when staying at the Bull, at Woodbridge, introduced into Suffolk the habit of drinking a high gravity, very strong ale, known as Bass's No. 1.

On the day of the announcement of Swinburne's death, in the interest of historical accuracy I asked: "What is the name of the brewer at the Rose and Crown?" I understood the reply to be "Younger." Now Messrs. Younger of Edinburgh brew Scotch ale, well known in the United States, greatly resembling Fitzgerald's beverage. They also brew some excellent bitter. Anxious to find out exactly what Swinburne's potation was, I went to the Rose and Crown and asked for half a pint of Younger's bitter, the same as Mr. Swinburne drank. The landlord said: "We only keep Younger's Scotch ale and that in bottles. This house is supplied by Messrs. Young of Chiswick for draught malt liquors. But Mr. Swinburne always drank a pint bottle of Bass's pale ale. You'd need a pint, yourself, sir, if you had walked from Putney Hill and had to walk home again."

This conversation has been typed for many years. Mr. Beerbohm's memory about Swinburne's toying with a half pint of Bass has probably played him false. Up to the day of Swinburne's death there was no restraint put on how much he might drink.

Greek Ingratitude.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The character of the Greeks does not seem to have changed very much in the last 2,000 years, judging from the estimate placed upon them in the time of Tacitus.

"He (Piso) went back to the times of Philip of Macedon, condemning in terms of reproach the ingratitude of a silly populace to their best and ablest citizen." (See Annals, Ch. LV. ad fin.)

TRADE WITH RUSSIA.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The pending resumption of trade between England and Russia will evidently stop again as soon as the limited supply of gold in the Soviet treasury will have been expended in payments for goods; this appears to be inevitable if the raw materials of Russia are to be the only means of exchange after the exhaustion of the gold reserve, since, judging by the following document, there are very scant supplies to be found anywhere in Russia at present. This article has been translated by me from the Volia Rossii, a Russian daily published at Prague, Czechoslovakia, by a group of Russian Socialists, from the issue of Oct. 19.

"Before the war Russia held the first place in the production of flax fibre in the world, Russia's normal flax harvest constituting 70 to 80 per cent. of the world's harvest.

"Flax cultivation supported several millions of peasant farms in Central and Northern Russia. It was of the greatest importance to the State, flax products being exported abroad in large quantities every year. In 1913 the flax export yielded about 100,000,000 rubles, placing flax third on the Russian export list.

"After three years of Bolshevist management Russia's flax trade has been almost completely ruined. On the basis of official Bolshevist figures, the Russki Co-operator (Russian Co-operator), published in London, in its No. 89 of 1920 draws the following picture of present conditions in the flax industry:

"'In 1920 the area sown to flax was only 15 to 20 per cent. of the pre-war acreage. The normal yield of flax fibre used to be 17,000,000 poods (1 pood equals thirty-six pounds avoirdupois), while today it barely amounts to 6,000,000.

"'The chief cause of this curtailment is the very low price that has been fixed by the Soviet Government for flax, the payment in worthless Soviet currency and the failure to organize proper deliveries of needed commodities in exchange for the flax.

"'The collecting of the fibre has also greatly declined. In 1920 the Bolshevist Government organization (there are no others left) succeeded in collecting only 1,000,000 poods, which make but 6 per cent. of the normal collection. First the Bolsheviki destroyed the private commercial apparatus, then they nationalized the co-operative organizations. As a result, there are today no fibre supplies worth mentioning stored for exportation anywhere in Soviet Russia. Should the Soviet Government succeed in exporting some quantity of flax fibre, then it will have to be done at the expense of Russian flax manufacturing industry exclusively.

"'The output of the Russian mills in 1919 was only 23 per cent. of the normal, i. e., only about 1,000,000 poods of fibre out of some 5,000,000 was converted. Just about that amount had been collected by July 1, 1920.

"'It will not be amiss here to point out that Krassin, in a statement he made at the end of July, 1920, to a correspondent of a Paris newspaper, claimed that Soviet Russia could export up to 15,000,000 tons of flax fibre. That statement was reproduced in the general press and published even by an official Soviet organ, such as Soviet Russia, in New York. It is perfectly obvious that this is only another one of the usual bluffs from the Ambassador Plenipotentiary of the Soviet Government.

"'During the next few years it will be impossible even to think of any flax exportation from Russia. What we ought to think about is how to restore the Russian flax trade, so that the output might satisfy at least Russia's own consumption. G. UGOREV.'"

Senator Borah's Fears.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Reading Senator Borah's remarks in Saturday's Times anent the sending of troops to Vilna to preserve order during the taking of a plebiscite, he appeals to 10,000,000 American mothers to note that their sons will be saved from all such dangers because America has not joined the League. I wonder how the sons of those 10,000,000 mothers, of course of all ages, feel at the general appeal to their mammas to save them from possible dangers. If Senator Borah is right and we are always to be kept in the safe background how are we to hold our own with the advance of civilization? Again, what will happen if the wicked members of the League should some day decide to war on America? Would not those 10,000,000 mothers have to give up their sons to fight for the country?

What is to become of America's manhood if it is to be constantly reminded that it must not fight, and must not associate with the other peoples of the world for fear that some day it might have to do its share in preserving world order?

It seems to me the safest and sanest thing for the 10,000,000 mothers to do in the interests of the lives of their sons is to make very sure that America is a member of the big family of all the world. The new Congress with its substantial Republican majority is sure to see to it that America will do her duty and become a member of the world family with necessary reservations, and no handful of malcontents will be able to prevent it.

Philippines Not Wanted?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the editorial columns of the Nov. 14 issue of The Chicago Tribune, under the heading "Japanese Danger," is found these words: "The Philippines are a menace to the United States. We do not want them and do not need them."

The Filipinos, as never before, are earnestly pleading for their freedom. The cry for freedom is uppermost in their minds. Every one who knows the Filipinos observes this very keenly. Therefore, if it is true that the Philippines are a menace to this Republic, why, then, does the United States not give them what they have been asking and thus get rid of this plague which is such a menace? Surely the United States does not intend to sacrifice herself any longer for nothing. No one questions that she helped the Philippines immensely to get on their feet, until they now feel able to manage their own affairs. In sincere and heartfelt gratitude, the Philippines do not want to be the cause of any more trouble. For this reason they ask to be permitted to handle their own affairs. If they are a menace to the United States, will not the United States grant them independence and thus be free from entangling alliances?

Enough of Hazing.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One of the most dangerous practices employed by the college youth of today, under the guise of fun, is the institution of hazing.

What good is to be gained from this custom after the victims have suffered from colds, general debility, hunger and, in a number of cases, death? This evil, like others of its kind, has gone far enough, and when the students find that expulsion is the punishment for such misdemeanors they will find a method more civilized to demonstrate their prowess.

MODERN ART IN MUSEUMS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Mr. Pennell's plea in your issue of last Saturday for a department of contemporary art in the Metropolitan Museum is a most sensible one and concerns the people of this country much more than they know.

Such a department should exist and provide for changing exhibitions of painting, sculpture, drawing, prints, pottery and the decorative crafts. It should be representative of the development and progress of the handful of available artists and artisans in the United States—as compared to its hundred million of people.

The whole democratic renascence of art must tend toward the application of art to industry.

Individual expression in painting and sculpture is the highest manifestation of the artist and has its due place at the top, but our democracy has urgent need of the services of its artists in industry and therefore the work of the artist should be fostered and shown constantly.

Standards would be established and the stamp of authority would be given such work when shown to the people, judiciously chosen and arranged, under the roof of a great and acknowledged institution like our Metropolitan Museum.

Comparison with the works of past ages would be facilitated and a stimulus given—an understanding of the fact that this age, too, has its artists, like those of past centuries, working to express their age for their people.

ALBERT STERNER.

Mr. Wells and Marx's Beard.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In his third article, under the caption "The Quintessence of Bolshevism," Mr. Wells sets up a mirror for himself and proceeds to gaze into it with an air of superwisdom and smug complacency which contrasts delightfully with the real significance of the proceeding. This mirror is his pen-portrait of Karl Marx, the Christopher Columbus of Communism.

"About two-thirds of the face of Marx," says Mr. Wells, drawing the portrait with a naive humor which gives real zest to its application, "is beard, a vast, solemn, woolly, uneventful beard * * * It is exactly like 'Das Kapital' in its insane abundance, and the human part of the face looks over it owlishly, as if it looked to see how the growth impressed mankind. I found the omnipresent image of that beard more and more irritating. A gnawing desire grew upon me to see Karl Marx shaved. Some day, if I am spared, I will take up shears and razor," &c.

The beard of Karl Marx was a perfectly natural growth. No one denies that. No one need deny that the growth of the pro-Bolshevist sentiments of Mr. Wells was also perfectly natural. But there are some perfectly natural things that don't appeal. Karl Marx's luxuriant growth of beard doesn't appeal to Mr. Wells. Mr. Wells's equally luxuriant growth of pro-Bolshevist sentiment doesn't appeal to many citizens of this and other countries whose sense of proportion in whiskers and civic relations is quite as well developed as his.

PLEA FOR THANKSGIVING DAY.

To whom, friends, do we owe our thanks this year,
We who can sit in comfort and good cheer
Before a generous table, piled up high
With our Thanksgiving Dinner, turkey, pie,
And all the things that boys love best to eat?
Whom must we thank this year, then? I repeat,
"Thank God," you say. Yes, first thank Him, but then
Remember that we owe it to the men
Who risked their strong, young, splendid lives that we Might live in peace and in prosperity.
Thousands were killed, but they, alas! have passed
Beyond our help. They are at rest at last.
Many returned to us, as sound and well
As when they left us; though no one can tell
By their brave looks and calm indifferent ways,
What their souls suffered in those cruel days.
'Tis not for them I plead, but for the ones
Who lie in hospitals—some Mothers' sons—
Their fair, young bodies broken for our sakes.
Away from home, the homes that they once had,
Whose lonely hearts are longing to be glad.
He is God's messenger indeed who takes
These mutilated soldiers, even one,
Out of pain's darkness, out into the Sun
Of home and comfort and companionship.
This is your chance—ah, do not let it slip!
Do it in memory of those who died,
Or a thank-offering, if in your pride
Your own dear sons have been restored to you.
Remember, then, these patient, tragic few
Who, waiting at your gates, would willingly
Share with you in your gay prosperity,
Which, oh, my friends, you owe in part at least
To these brave boys. Then bid them to your feast!
They are so near to you! Call up Fox Hills,
The Polyclinic, too. There are no ills
So sad, so pitiful on all the earth
As these young hearts alone midst others' mirth.
Ask for some boy from far away; his face
Will well repay you when you see him there,
Happy for this one day and free from care.
The joy we give to others is the best,
These boys, these honored wounded, are His own.
And Christ said: "Inasmuch as ye have done
This for the least of these [He was God's Son]
My brethren, ye have done it unto Me."
New Yorkers, friends, I beg you heed my plea!

FEARS CITIZENSHIP OF JAPANESE HERE

Neither Government Committed by Negotiations, Which Are Still in Progress, Says Washington.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 22.—Senator James D. Phelan of California last night sent a telegram to Governors and Senators of Western States asking them to "Please telegraph your political protest to the State Department against any treaty which gives foreign-born Japanese now in this country the rights of citizenship."

The telegram was prompted, Senator Phelan said, by news dispatches from London which said an agreement was nearing completion between the United States and Japan which proposes full citizenship for Japanese now in this country under which Japan would absolutely restrict further immigration to the United States. He said further in an interview that very often where treaties were in course of consummation reports were allowed to be circulated of the plans to test public opinion.

"Citizenship for Japanese," said the telegram, "would give them not only control of the land, but also a dangerous political power." The telegram said in part:

"Experience teaches us that Japanese exclusion can be effected only by United States laws. To grant rights of citizenship, including land ownership, to the 100,000 Japanese in California and the other thousands scattered throughout the Western States would be nothing less than the destruction of the white population.

"The Japanese invasion has taken the form of land purchase, and under the Constitution persons now born on the soil can own land and enjoy the voting privilege. The Japanese already here have a birth rate three or four times as great as the whites. Resident Japanese have recently returned to Japan in large numbers, since the picture bride abuse was abolished, to bring back wives, with the studied plan of increasing their numbers.

"The initiative anti-alien land law just passed by an overwhelming vote by the people indicates their temper. Such a treaty as proposed, instead of producing better relations would cause greater antagonism and possibly lead to war. The Japanese, as usual, are preparing for war as a background for forcing their diplomatic negotiations, and the State Department evidently is frightened.

"A treaty should not be allowed to attempt to override a State law passed by a people who understand their own peril and are acting for their own preservation."

The telegram was addressed to Senators Hiram Johnson, Key Pittman, Thomas J. Walsh, George E. Chamberlain, Wesley L. Jones and Miles Poindexter, and the Governors of California, Nevada, Arizona, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, Washington, Utah and Wyoming.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Reports from Tokio, as well as the Pacific Coast of the United States, based upon the belief that a new treaty had been negotiated between Japan and the United States dealing with issues flowing out of the attitude of the State of California toward anti-alien land-ownership legislation, are founded on an erroneous conception of the facts.

No announcement has been authorized by the State Department that such a new treaty had been framed by the two Governments. It was reiterated at the State Department today that the negotiations with Japan arising out of the California situation have not been completed and that no new treaty has yet been "accepted" by the department.

In any event all the indications are that the treaty, should the negotiations as now seems likely, result in one, will not be made public before its submission to the United States Senate for study and ratification. The Senate is always very jealous of its prerogatives and considers it wholly improper for the executive branch of the Government to make the text of a treaty public before its submission to the Senate, which, under the Constitution, has the right to advise and consent to treaties made by the American State Department.

The various reports relative to a new treaty are based on the published statements that the tentative draft of a "proposed" treaty has been prepared by Roland D. Morris and Baron Kijuro Shidehara, who are the Ambassadors of the two countries, and who have for some weeks been engaged in conferences in connection with the negotiations between the United States and Japan.

Ambassador Morris has been in Washington for several months as aid and adviser to the State Department in the Japanese negotiations. The negotiations, it is learned, have not committed either Government, but both the State Department and the Japanese Foreign Office have been kept advised of every step of progress and of tentative agreement and have been fully prepared for the recommendations submitted by the two envoys for a settlement of the issues involved.

PLANS FOR AIDING FARMERS.

Leaders Favor Measures Legalizing Co-operative Marketing.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The early passage of laws legalizing co-operative marketing would be of considerable help to farmers, it was declared by the National Board of Farm Organizations at a meeting today to discuss plans for a farm conference, to be held in St. Louis Dec. 16. The re-establishment of the War Finance Corporation would also furnish some relief, in the opinion of the board.

Members of the board discussed among themselves the type of man who should be named as Secretary of Agriculture. It was asserted, however, that no individuals were mentioned in this connection.

It was said at the board's headquarters that a conference of all agricultural organizations might be called, to meet in Washington soon after the assembling of Congress. A committee from such a conference, it was said, might be named to participate in the conference of Western Senators and Representatives, to be held after the return of Senator Gronna of North Dakota, Chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee.

Members of Congress from agricultural States said today that plans were being made for an early joint meeting of the Agricultural Committees of the Senate and House, to consider what measures could be enacted at this session of Congress to relieve the agricultural situation.

GETS HUSBAND'S NAVY CROSS

President Sends Commander Murdock's Posthumous Award to Widow

On Armistice Day, the widow of the late Commander James Paulding Murdock, U. S. N., received from the President the Navy Cross, awarded posthumously to her husband for services in the World War as set forth in the following citation:

> For distinguished service in the line of his profession as commanding officer, U. S. S. Powhatan, engaged in the important, exacting and hazardous duty of transporting and escorting troops and supplies to European ports through waters infested with enemy submarines and mines.

MISS KRECH WEDS L. STUART WING

HER SISTER HONOR MAID

Nuptials of Miss Sarah C. Armstrong and Dr. H. M. Potter; H. A. Bahr and Miss Anna Klein.

The wedding of L. Stuart Wing, a son of Mrs. L. Stuart Wing and the late Mr. Wing, and Miss Helen Krech, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin W. Krech, was celebrated at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in St. Bartholomew's Church, the rector, the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, performing the ceremony. The church was decorated with palms and chrysanthemums, and was filled with guests.

The bride, who walked with her father, wore a white satin gown having a long tunic of white silk net embroidered in crystal and pearls. The long train covered with old point lace was worn by the bride's mother when as Miss Angeline Jackson she married Mr. Krech, and also by the bride's sister, Miss Angeline Krech when she married Oliver B. James. She carried lilies of the valley and white orchids.

Potter-Armstrong.

The marriage of Dr. Howard Milton Potter of 133 West Seventy-second Street, and Miss Sarah Chandler Armstrong, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. H. Armstrong, whose engagement was announced last Summer, took place in this city on Saturday, the Rev. Dr. E. W. Work of the Fourth Presbyterian Church, officiating.

Bahr-Klein.

The marriage of Miss Anna H. Klein, daughter of Mrs. Hermine Klein of 313 East 162d Street, and Harry A. Bahr, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bahr of the same address, took place at 7:30 o'clock last evening in the Northminster Presbyterian Church of this city, the Rev. Howard Yargin, rector of the church, officiating. Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the Hotel Marseilles to about fifty friends of the families.

Elder-Tait.

Mrs. James Cowan Tait of Virginia Beach has announced the marriage of her daughter, Miss Ethel Spottiswoode Tait, and Lieutenant Commander Fred Kingsley Elder, U. S. N., which took place on the evening of Nov. 13, at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Commander R. E. Corcoran, U. S. N., and Mrs. Corcoran, in this city. Lieutenant Commander Elder and his bride have gone to Portland, Ore., where he has been stationed for the last two years.

Mack—Meyer.

Miss Henriette Louise Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Meyer of Brooklyn, and William Jacob Mack, son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard W. Mack of Cincinnati, and a nephew of Judge Julian Mack of this city, were married at 6:30 o'clock last evening at the Waldorf-Astoria by the Rev. Gross of Brooklyn. A dinner followed the ceremony, the couple leaving later for California on their honeymoon. The bride is a graduate of Smith College, class of '19, and Mr. Mack is a graduate of Harvard, class of '18.

ENGAGEMENTS.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Eula Lee Kendrick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Everett S. Kendrick of Bristol, Va., to Earl Ball of this city.

Miss Kendrick comes from an old Virginia family. Mr. Ball, who is also a native of Virginia, served in France as a Captain, and he spent some time in Germany after the signing of the armistice. He is [illegible] connected with the Commercial Trust Company of New York.

The wedding will take place on Dec. 22, in Bristol, and Mr. Ball and his bride will spend their honeymoon in the Bermudas.

Mrs. William Sleicher of Warwick, N. Y., has announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Ethel Marguerite Sleicher, to Henry Mason Gallagher of this city, son of Mrs. Henry Newcomb Gallagher of East Greenwich, R. I.

Dance for Miss Everett and Fiance.

Mrs. James Byrne entertained last evening at her apartment, 270 Park Avenue, with a small dance and supper for Miss Elise Everett and her fiancé, Paul Abbott, whose marriage will take place on Thanksgiving Day. The guests included the bridal party and a few additional guests, chiefly friends of Miss Everett. Among those invited were the Misses Jane Abbott, Burks Yuille, Lela Emery, Millicent Rogers, Beth Martin, Anne Moffett, Polly Brooks, Margaret Kahn, Beatrice and Sheila Byrne and Rosanna Fiske of Boston, all of whom are to attend Miss Everett, and Arnold Wood Jr., William T. Adee, Noel Armstrong, James M. Thompson, Edward T. Wallace, Denning Miller, C. Huntington Erhart, John Dodd, George D. Pratt Jr., John Murray Mitchell and Edison Lewis.

Venetian Ball at Ritz Tonight.

The Venetian Ball will take place tonight at the Ritz-Carlton, for the benefit of the newly organized American Tribute to Italy. It will be a Venetian masquerade suggestive of the middle of the eighteenth century and in point of attendance and costuming the affair promises to be one of the notable events in New York society.

The committee in charge of the ball announced last evening that no one would be admitted to the ball unless he was in fancy costume, and to meet the situation a costumier with suitable dresses and dominos will be stationed in the entrance hall. Many costume dinners are to be given preceding the ball.

TO BUY TERRE HAUTE ROAD.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Negotiations for the sale of the Chicago, Terre Haute & Southeastern Railroad, now in receivership, to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad are under way and may be completed soon. The Terre Haute road, which extends from Chicago to West Port, Ind., with a total trackage of 376 miles, was the nucleus of the ill-fated plan of the late John R. Walsh, Chicago financier, for a Middle Western railroad system.

The plan under which the St. Paul will take over the Terre Haute is a lease for 999 years. It will require, however, the assent of the stock and bond holders, which seems virtually assured, and of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Illinois Public Utilities Commission.

It is proposed that the St. Paul guarantee payment of principal and interest with one exception, of the bond issues of the Terre Haute, which amount to $18,465,055, and pay $10 a share for the 43,000 shares of outstanding capital stock. The value of the road and equipment was placed at $24,836,751 in the last annual report.

The Chicago banks hold about 40 per cent. of the bonds and stock, the remaining being in the hands of the public. Of the stock 42,990 shares are deposited under a voting trust agreement which expires on Dec. 24.

Acquisition of the Terre Haute will give the St. Paul control of a line tapping the coal mining district of Indiana, which for some time has been the St. Paul's principal source of supply.

The plan of sale will be considered by the Terre Haute Directors next Friday.

COLLEGE STRIKERS RETURN.

St. John's Students Give Pledge to Obey School Authorities.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 22.—The last of the striking students of St. John's College who walked out last Monday following an upheaval about hazing and other alleged grievances returned to their classes today.

Two o'clock this afternoon was the time limit fixed by the mandate of the Official Board of Visitors for the strikers to return and sign a pledge to abide by the college regulations or else consider themselves expelled. A large number of the students returned on the day following the adoption of the resolution by the governing body. Others returned later in the week. When college opened this morning there still remained twenty-five absentees, but these came along in twos and threes until the entire complement of 170 had given their pledge not to again absent themselves without permission from the proper channel and also to obey the college regulations.

Coincidentally with the ending of the troubled conditions the members of the first class of midshipmen at the Naval Academy, through the class President, have given a promise to Superintendent Scales that they will obey the regulations of the institution to the best of their ability.

Admiral Scales promptly took steps to lift the order segregating the members of the "plebe," or fourth class, as a precaution against any further cases of hazing.

THOS. STOKES'S WILL FILED.

The will of Thomas Stokes, retired financier, who died Oct. 9 in the Hotel Ansonia, at the age of 75 years, disposes of an estate estimated at more than one million dollars. The document, filed for probate yesterday, gives $100,000 in cash and the personal effects and residuary estate to Mrs. Lillyan M. Stokes. Mr. Stokes married Lillyan Marie Louise Kuenemann of Paterson, N. J., who was forty-three years his junior, in 1918, against the opposition of his relatives.

Mr. Stokes gave only his gold watch to his brother, W. E. D. Stokes. The watch had belonged to their father, and W. E. D. Stokes had it at the time of his brother's death. W. E. D. Stokes Jr., whom the testator said he regarded with the affection of a father, gets his uncle's stock in the Chesapeake & Western Railway and its subsidiaries.

Miss Elizabeth Stokes, daughter, of Paris, gets her father's insurance in three companies, the value of which is not stated. Evaline Brainerd, daughter of the late Cephas Brainerd, lawyer and close friend of the decedent, receives $5,000.

The will was made Sept. 4, 1919, and makes the widow and the United States Mortgage and Trust Company executors.

William Zaranko, business agent of the House Wreckers' Union, announced yesterday that plans were being made to organize a co-operative wrecking company by members of the union. A fund of $20,000 is being raised to finance the enterprise, he said, and $10,000 has already been subscribed.

GEORGE M. SMITH OF THE TRIBUNE DIES

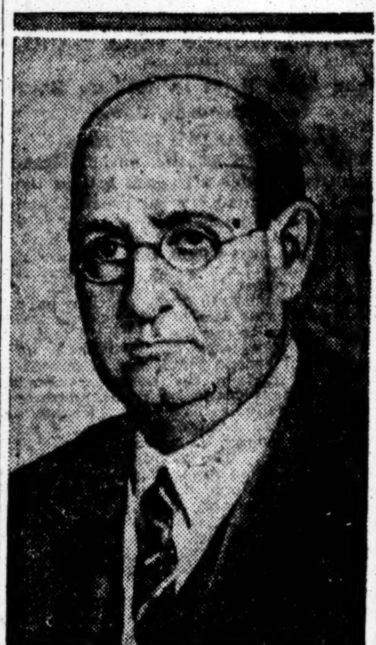
CAREER OF THIRTY YEARS

He Had Held Many Executive Posts, Including That of Managing Editor of the Evening Sun.

George McLeod Smith, managing editor of The New York Tribune, died suddenly yesterday at his home, 521 West 112th Street, following a week's illness. Mr. Smith became ill last Tuesday. The following day ptomaine poisoning developed and this was further complicated by an attack of heart disease, which caused his death.

Mr. Smith, who was in his fifty-second year, had been identified with the newspaper business for more than thirty years, chiefly in this city and Philadelphia. He began his career when he was 16 years old, on a weekly paper in Orange, N. J., and since then had filled many important executive posts in this city.

Mr. Smith was born in Orange on July 3, 1869, the son of John C. Smith, member of a family that was among the earliest in that section. Following his newspaper work in his home town, he joined the staff of The Newark Advertiser, and in 1894 became a member of the staff of The New York Tribune. Some years later he went to The New York Sun.



George McLeod Smith.

In 1900 Mr. Smith went to Philadelphia as managing editor of The Philadelphia Press. He returned to New York in 1902 and became night editor of the Sun in 1904.

Eight years later, in 1912, Mr. Smith was made managing editor of The Evening Sun. He returned to the morning newspaper field in October, 1919, when he became managing editor of The New York Tribune.

Mr. Smith married in 1890 Miss Grace Voorhis of this city, who survives him, with two children, Dr. Alan D. Smith of 660 Lexington Avenue, who was a Major in the Medical Corps of the United States Army in France, and Mrs. Gordon I. Lindsay of 533 West 112th Street.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 10:45 A. M. at the Church of the Transfiguration. The Rev. George Clark Houghton, a life-long friend of Mr. Smith, will officiate. The honorary pall bearers will be Wesley L. Lowrie, Major William Tumbridge, Beauvais Fox, George B. Mallon, Joseph Vila, Ogden Reid, Carr V. Van Anda, William C. Dewart, Chester S. Lord and William Brown Meloney.

The burial will be at Woodlawn.

Herman Levy.

Herman Levy, who is said to have introduced the art of diamond cutting in this country in 1865, died suddenly yesterday of old age at his residence, 231 West Ninety-seventh Street. He was born in Thorn, Germany, March 22, 1842, came here as a child, and for more than forty years cut diamonds in this city. His first place was at 105 Fulton Street. Later he moved to 64 John Street. For twenty-five years he had been a trustee of the Congregation of B'nai Israel, and its President for the last eight years.

TAFT FOR COURT OF NATIONS

Favors Tribunal to Settle Matters That Get Beyond the League.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Nov. 22.—Ex-President William H. Taft tonight declared that President-elect Harding had the right idea of a court of arbitration to settle disputes between nations, the court to be composed of men of judicial minds. A great deal could be accomplished by such a court, he said. Mr. Taft spoke at the State Street Auditorium under the auspices of the Women's Club of Hackensack.

"The other nations are beginning to appreciate the wealth and resources of this country," said Mr. Taft. "They are also learning to appreciate your method of settlement by arbitration. We settled the Canadian fisheries question and the Alabama claims with Great Britain by arbitration.

The former President spoke of the League of Nations and said he thought Article X. was all right because it favored a judicial settlement of questions.

"A court should be established whereby matters that got beyond the powers of the League could be settled," said Mr. Taft. He said the Council was not made up of jurists, but statesmen, representatives and politicians.

"ALL MUST BE EDUCATED."

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 22.—No State should allow its boys and girls to start life with anything less than a high school education, Governor William L. Harding of Iowa, declared in an address here tonight before the convention of New York Teachers' Associations.

"The public school has come nearer to turning out a 100 per cent. perfect product than any other institution of which I have knowledge," said the Governor. "We have outgrown the old doctrine in this country, that education is free. The new slogan is: 'All must be educated.'

"It is the duty of the State to furnish every child an opportunity early in life to find out what the child wants to do, and then prepared it to do that thing well."

GEORGE W. BRECK DEAD.

Mural Painter and Once Director of Academy of Fine Arts in Rome.

George William Breck, who was Director of the Academy of Fine Arts in Rome from 1904 to 1909, died late Sunday night at his home, 521 Broadway, Flushing, of heart disease after an illness of a fortnight. He was born in Washington, D. C., Sept. 1, 1863, studied at the Art Students' League in this city and was the first winner of the Lazarus scholarship for the study of mural painting, thereby becoming a student of the American Academy of Fine Arts in Rome, where he remained from 1897 to 1902.

On his return to this country in 1910 he painted the mural decorations for the University of Virginia and in the residence of the late Whitelaw Reid. At the St. Louis Exposition in 1904 he won a silver medal.

Jake Magin and Eddie Madden, the New Jersey team in the international six-day bicycle race at the Twenty-second Regiment Armory, were leading in the point standing last night at the end of the evening sprints, with a total of 63 points for the three series of speed bursts held since the race started at midnight on Sunday. The two riders, who gained a lead of a point in the afternoon sprints about the saucer-shaped track. five tallies in the evening bursts, when they placed in eight of the ten one-mile sprints about the sanucer-shaped track.

Charles Deruyter and Emil Aerts, the Belgian combination, were second with 58 points, a matter of twelve points in front of Alf Goullet and Freddy Hill, who were third with 46 points. The Willies of the race, Hanley and Keller, were fourth with 40 points, and Arthur Spencer and Frank Corry were fifth with a total of 33 tallies.

Other riders, with their scores, were Pete Drobach and Fred Weber, 29; Alex McBeath and Cecil Walker, 29; Constante Girardengo and Carlo Olivieri, 26; Ray Eaton and Harry Kaiser, 23; Joe Kopsky and Tom Bello, 18; Marcel Dupuy and Marcel Godivier, 14; Alphonse Spiessens and Marcel Buysse, 14; Vincent Madonna and Charley Piercy, 13; Alphonse Verraes and Lawrence Gaffney, 8; Gus Lang and Charles Osteritter, 6.

Big Crowd on Hand.

The series of ten sprints sent a crowd of about 7,000 into a high pitch of excitement. The inclement weather and the rival attraction of a wrestling match downtown did not affect the attendance at the armory race. The result was one of the biggest Monday night crowds in the history of cycle racing in this city. The crowd outnumbered even the turnout which was in evidence for the opening night's sport, and throughout the length of time occupied by the sprints sent up a continuous din which reverberated through the big drill shed.

Although the speed bursts in the sprints gave the fans something to enthuse over, the riders failed to improve the standard pace of the race to date. This was reflected in the score for the twenty-third hour, 11 o'clock, when it was announced the riders had covered 446 miles and 4 laps. The record, made by Percy Lawrence and Pete Drobach, is 516 miles and 5 laps, made in 1914.

The combinations of Magin and Madden and Deruyter and Aerts had a close struggle for supremacy in the evening's point distribution. When the gun barked on the finish of the closing spurt, the New Jersey riders had an edge of 4 points on their Belgian rivals for the evenings. Magin and Madden accounted for 34 points in the ten-mile bursts, while Deruyter and Aerts, despite some sensational riding, had to be content with 30. The former combination placed in eight of the ten sprints, Magin's riding being a material factor in this success. He placed five times, while Madden placed in three, including a victory in the fourth of the mad whirls about the track.

Deruyter scored two victories, capturing the first and seventh heats and finishing second in the third brush and fourth in the fifth. Aerts accounted for points in five heats, but never got any nearer the front than fourth. The only heat in which this pair did not score points was in the ninth.

Riders Skid Down Saucer.

A spill which for a time was thought to be serious came during the exciting sprint riding, when Verraes and Lang went down in a heap, skidding from the peak of the southern curve. The two riders fell after the sixth heat, but returned to the track for the eighth whirl for points.

Deruyter took the first heat by more than a wheel length followed by Olivieri, Keller, Hill, McBeath and Magin. In the second spurt Goullet got his wheel in front in the last few yards, leading Madden, Corry, Aerts, Weber and Hanley. The third went to Drobach, who was followed by Deruyter, Hill, Magin, Osterritter and Keller. Madden led the procession in the fourth, with Walker second, followed by Hanley, Corry, Girardengo and Aerts. The fifth went to McBeath, the trailers being Magin, Bello, Deruyter, Gaffney and Keller.

In the sixth Corry nosed out Girardengo, the other four point winners being Kopsky, Verraes, Aerts and Godivier. Deruyter scored his second victory in the seventh brush, leading Spencer, Magin, McBeath, Hill and Keller. The eighth found Goullet snatching his second victory, closely followed by Madden, Corry, Weber, Aerts and Hanley.

In the ninth the lion's share of the points went to McBeath, who for the second time nosed out Magin, the order thereafter being Hill, Madonna, Bello and Eaton. The tenth and final mile dash went to Godivier by a slight margin over Girardengo, who was followed by Hanley, Corry, Aerts and Kopsky.

In the early evening Goullet and Aerts woke the riders with sensational speed bursts which gave the crowd something to yell about, but that was all. Both riders had all the appearance of men determined to upset tradition by stealing a lap thus early in the race. Goullet got about as far away from his rivals as twenty yards when he was overhauled. Aerts didn't even get that much of an advantage before he was overtaken in his flight and impressed with the futility of such aspirations when the riders are still fresh.

Kopsky Starts Jam.

At 12:40 this morning Joe Kopsky started a jam which ended with a majority of the fans holding the opinion that he had gained a lap. It happened when Tom Bello, Kopsky's partner, came on the track to relieve his riding mate. After the relief Kopsky shot away to a lead as is customary when riders are about to dismount, and the crowd, evidently of the opinion that Kopsky was pilfering a lap, yelled itself hoarse. Kopsky instead of riding off the track, however, continued at breakneck speed about the saucer, without any attempt being made to overhaul him. Eddie Madden was leading the field at the time, and he continued at a mechanical pace, pointing significantly to Bello, who was riding as Kopsky's relief man behind him. The rest of the riders followed Madden's lead and refused to chase Kopsky. It was announced later that Kopsky had already been relieved by Bello when the former started his mad tear about the track.

Deposits 760,000 Francs As Carpentier's Forfeit

PARIS, Nov. 22.—Francois Descamps, manager of Georges Carpentier, heavyweight champion of Europe, has deposited on behalf of the latter 760,000 francs in French loan script as a guarantee for the contract Carpentier signed with Jack Dempsey while in New York for a bout to decide the heavyweight championship of the world. The fund was deposited in the Morgan-Harjes Bank, and the receipt reads, in part: "Received on account Georges Carpentier-'Jacques' Dempsey contract."

LEADING AMATEURS ENTER TITLE BOUTS

Best of Local Boxers to Struggle for Metropolitan Championship in Garden.

The 115-pound division promises to be the feature class in the Metropolitan A. A. U. championship boxing tournament at Madison Square Garden, Nov. 29 and 30. A number of the district's leading amateurs in this weight have already entered for the title. Among the lads whose entries have been accepted are Frank Sinclair, Paulist A. C.; Leroy Dodd, Pastime A. C.; Sam Kaplan, People's Palace; E. Montiverdi, Kips Boys' Club; E. Anderson, Atlas A. C.; Arlington, N. J.; Mannie Wechsler, Bronxdale A. C.; Thomas Moran, St. Vincent Ferrer A. C.; Herman Povnick, Educational Alliance, and W. Singer, Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A. Singer is one of the newcomers to local amateur boxing and has been successful in every tournament in which he has participated. Nat Oak, who developed Abe Goldstein, now performing in the professional ranks, is guiding the ring destinies of Singer and is confident the youngster will annex the title.

Billy McConnell, Paulist A. C. flyweight, is included in the latest entries to be received for the tournament. O'Connell has compiled an enviable record in the amateur ring and is regarded as a foremost contender for the 108-pound crown. The west side youngster includes among his defeated rivals some of the best amateur flyweights of the district.

Entries for the tournament close today. Officials expect when the complete nominations are available a record entry will be disclosed. Unusual interest is being manifested by the officials of local clubs which support amateur boxing. The battle for the team championship, which will be awarded on a point basis for victors, runners-up and losers in semi-final round bouts, is the magnet. The club officials are eager to annex this trophy and are marshalling their full strength for the struggle. Among the clubs which have already entered teams are the St. Bartholomew's Club, Paulist A. C., Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A., Bronxdale A. C. and Clark House A. A. Two of the foremost boxers of the St. Bartholomew's Club have entered, in George Murphy, wro will compete in the middleweight class, and Carl Ridell, a light-heavyweight.

NACK AWARDED DECISION.

Outpoints Willie Beecher in 15-Round Bout at Star A. C.

The decision in the stellar attraction on the boxing card of the Star A. C. last night, the fifteen-round bout between Willie Beecher and Allie Nack, was given by the judges to Nack. The decision did not meet with popular approval. The fans registered their judgment by means of howls and cat-calls.

The two boys, who weighed in at catch weights, which happened to be 137 pounds for each of them, received plenteous applause for the clever way in which they handled themselves. That they were evenly matched throughout the entire route is shown by the judgment of the unofficial arbiters. And that Nack prove himself to be a little the better is evident from the recorded decision.

The opening bout of the evening was a four-round affair between Johnny Hart and Harry Lipp. Hart knocked out his opponent within the first half minute of the initial round. Harry Norton won the decision in the second bout, which went the limit of four rounds. The semifinal contest, for ten rounds, between Andy O'Boyle and Joanny Lustig, continued through all the innings and was captured by O'Boyle.

JACKSON TO BOX DUNDEE.

Lightweights to Meet in Manhattan A. C. Ring on Nov. 29.

Willie Jackson, Bronx lightweight, who clashes with Johnny Dundee in the fifteen-round principal bout at the opening show of the Manhattan Athletic Club Nov. 29, disagrees wiah criticisms of the respective hitting propensities of himself and Benny Leonard, lightweight champion. Jackson, in seeking to convince the public of his own hitting prowess, points with pride to the fact that he has scored the only knockout over Dundee since the latter gained prominence while Leonard has failed to duplicate the feat in his frequent meetings with the speedy little Italian.

Jackson and Dundee are hard at work training for their coming clash, according to reports which have reached Promoter Jimmy Johnston. The two boxers are keen rivals and both are eager to be in the best possible shape for the coming bout.

BANTAM ON HOLIDAY CARD.

Puryear, Oklahoma Midget, to Box Here Thanksgiving Day.

Earl Puryear, Tulsa, Okla., a bantamweight who is recognized as a formidable contender for Champion Pete Herman's title, is scheduled to make his metropolitan début Thanksgiving Day afternoon, at a matinee show to be conducted at the Commonwealth Sporting Club.

Puryear is scheduled to engage Charlie Beecher, east side boxer, in the principal fifteen-round bout on the holiday card. A ten-round bout will bring together Nero Chink and Harry Robinson, colored middleweights. A six-round encounter and a four-round match completes the card.

The bouts are scheduled to start at 8 o'clock.

REDS GET PITCHER JACOBS.

St. Louis Twirler Goes to Moran Team by the Waiver Route.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 22.—The Cincinnati National League Club today secured Pitcher Elmer Jacobs from St. Louis by the waiver route. Jacobs was formerly with the Phillies and went to St. Louis in the deal which took Lee Meadows to the Quaker City. Jacobs may be used in a trade, but it was said he probably would be taken South with the Reds in the Spring.

De La Salle Five Is Victor.

The De La Salle School basketball team won its third victory of the season yesterday, defeating St. James Academy of Brooklyn by a score of 31 to 15 on the De La Salle court. Conroy, McCarthy and Knapp did most of the scoring for the winners, and Stuckberry starred for the Brooklyn quintet. The De La Salle second team defeated the St. James second, 27 to 12, Murphy scoring six field baskets for the victors.

STRANGLER LEWIS DEFEATS ZBYSZKO

After wrestling for a fraction more than an hour and twenty-five minutes, Ed "Strangler" Lewis pinned the shoulders of Wladek Zbyszko, the giant Pole, to the mat in their match at the Seventy-first Regiment Armory last night. While a crowd of 10,000 stood up in their seats and yelled for the mat warriors, Lewis clamped on his famous head lock and, slamming his rival to the floor with such force as to stun him momentarily, rolled him onto his shoulders. The official time was 1:25:45.

The end came as the result of a series of three head locks which Lewis applied in quick succession. Each did its share in sapping the strength of Zybszko until he was unable to escape. Up to the time that Lewis began his rushes Zbyszko had been the aggressor throughout and had had much the better of the bout.

This was the first wrestling match of the season, and it was evident that the New York enthusiasts were ready to welcome the return of the mat sport, for the armory was packed almost to capacity. Lewis and Zbyszko have met many times, but this appeared not to have taken the edge off their rivalry nor dulled the enthusiasm of those who have so often seen the giants battle on the mat.

The match was a good exhibition throughout, and though neither of the big men displayed much skill, both used their ponderous weight and great strength to advantage, and there were no dull moments from the time they entered the ring until Zbyszko was finally laid on his back.

No sooner had the bell sounded than Lewis rushed across the ring and in a flash had got a head lock on the big Pole. It took Zbyszko a little more than a minute to free himself from the hold, but after that he took good care not to give his rival a chance to catch him with the hold again until well on toward the end of the bout. Meantime the Pole several times got Lewis into dangerous positions through the use of the toe hold, which is the favorite grip of the Polish wrestler.

After the two had wrestled for nearly half an hour, Zbyszko took a strong hold on Lewis's toe and, forcing his rival down, all but pinned his shoulders to the mat. He might have succeeded but for the fact that he rolled Lewis part way out of the ring and Referee George Bothner ordered the men up. Lewis responded to this by getting a toe hold himself and Zbyszko broke it by tossing Lewis half way across the ring.

Lewis appeared to be tiring by the end of the first hour and Zbyszko displayed more strength and was much faster on his feet. He continued to be the agressor and after a few minutes got a head hold by which he forced Lewis on to one shoulder. Lewis kicked his way clear by throwing the weight of his body into his lunges.

Lewis got his head lock on Zbyszko a few times during the course of the bout, but the Pole managed to wriggle out time after time. Both wrestlers were perspiring so freely that it was difficult for either of them to retain a hold once they had gained it.

Lewis was puffing audibly from his exertions when about five minutes before the end came Zbyszko took a body and arm hold and forced his rival down until only an inch or two separated the big fellow from the mat. Suddenly Lewis sprang out of the position and, catching the Pole unawares, fastened on his head lock.

The top of Zbyszko's head was resting on the mat, while his body was arched. The Pole raised himself until he was standing on his head and then with a mighty twist slipped out of the deadly grip. He had been held in this position for forty seconds, and it apparently took much of his strength, for as he raised to his feet he was not prepared for the next rush. Lewis had hardly lost one hold when he swung his arm around his rival's neck and again had a head lock.

This time the Pole was standing straight up, and he took hold of Lewis around the body, raised him high in the air and then dropped him and broke the hold by the force of the fall to the mat. It was a remarkable display of strength, but it had cost such an effort that Zbyszko was very tired.

Lewis took advantage of this condition and, rushing at Zbyszko again, once more grabbed him about the head and got his favorite hold. This time he slammed Zbyszko to the floor with such force that the latter was stunned, and before the Pole could make a move in defence Lewis had flattened his shoulders to the mat, and George Bothner had tapped Lewis to indicate he was the winner.

There were three preliminaries to the main bout, one of which brought Joe Stecher, heavyweight champion, to the mat with Leon O'Donnell. Although O'Donnell made a good effort and showed some cleverness, he was no match for the champion and Stecher finally fastened on a body scissors and downed his rival in eleven minutes and forty seconds.

Amos Laitenin of Finland, defeated Daniel McDonald in ten minutes and twenty-two seconds of a fast bout. Alex Jarvis and Louis Ravanno provided the other preliminary and were still tugging at each other when the bout was stopped in order that Lewis and Zbyszko could begin their match.

GREENLEAF WINS TWICE.

Defeats Stoutenburgh in Two Matches of Pocket Billiard Battle.

Ralph Greenleaf, world's professional champion, yesterday began a 750-point pocket billiard match against Larry Stoutenburgh at the Fourteenth Street Academy. They played two blocks of 125 balls each, and Greenleaf won both matches. In the afternoon Stoutenburgh was defeated, 125 to 66, and last night Greenleaf won, 125 to 89. Thus the total score is: Greenleaf 250, Stoutenburgh 155.

During the two blocks Greenleaf made two runs of more than fifty each. In the afternoon Hoppe made runs of 55, 34 and 16. In the evening his best runs were 53, 21 and 17. Stoutenburgh played well, but Greenleaf played better. Stoutenburgh's best run during the matinee performance was a cluster of 30. Last night his best effort netted him 43.

In the evening match the players were tied at 101 balls each. It was then that Stoutenburgh made three successive scratches and forfeited fifteen balls. His first two scratches were accidental, but the third was deliberate. He made the third because he realized that if he broke the balls Greenleaf might run out the game, whereas if he made Greenleaf break them he figured he might have a better chance to win. They will play again this afternoon and tonight.

WANTS JONES TO REMAIN.

Yale News Expresses Confidence in Ability of Football Coach.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 22.—In a review of the football season, The Yale News today says the key to the future at Yale is "Tad" Jones. It expresses hope that he will stay, and says that the sentiment of the University is "that of unreserved confidence in his ability to win back Yale's football supremacy of older days."

Letzter Beaten in Cue Match.

Mannie Letzter lost his first game in the amateur handicap three-cushion billiard tourament at Joe Thum's Academy last night. He was beaten by Louis Lipton, 35 to 34. The match consumed 79 innings. In a second game A. Surkein defeated J. McDaniel by the same score, 35 to 34, in 106 innings.

Burman Wins Bout.

NO IMMEDIATE TEST FOR GREAT CUEISTS

Horemans Sets Later Date for Any Match With Hoppe—Seeks Other Games First.

Any chance there might have been for a world's championship 18.2 balkline billiard match in the immediate future between Willie Hoppe and Edouard Horemans went a-glimmering yesterday afternoon when the Belgian issued a formal statement in which he specifically mentioned next February or March as the time most acceptable to him for such a meeting. Through his business representative, F. J. L. Derks, and the Billiard Feature Service, headed by Shepard G. Barclay, which has charge of his American tour, Horemans explained at length that he feels that he owes it to the American public first to prove his right to such a match for the world's title by playing and defeating, if possible, the leading cueists of this country.

After expressing his appreciation of Hoppe's offer of a match before the end of December, the Belgian stated that he wished to become thoroughly acclimated and to familiarize himself with the different playing conditions which obtain in this country before engaging Hoppe. He believes that the best way to accomplish this is by playing exhibition matches until such time as he is convinced that he has attained his best form. "It would not only be an injustice to myself to play Mr. Hoppe before I have attained my best form, but it would be imposing upon the hospitality of the American public," said Horemans. "When I play Mr. Hoppe I want to be at the top of my game. I want the public to see me at my best and then, if I am beaten, I shall have no alibis to offer.

It is understood that Horemans's first public exhibitions will be played against his secretary, F. J. L. Derks, and that these will be followed with matches against Albert Cutler, Leonard Howison, George Slosson and, possibly, Welker Cochran and Young Jake Schaefer. Cochran and Schaefer are coming to this city to play Hoppe in the final round of the national balkline billiard championship tournament at the Hotel Astor on Dec. 6, 7 and 8. If Horemans is matched to play then it will probably be after the title tourney.

R. B. Benjamin, Hoppe's manager, is expected to issue a formal statement today or tomorrow. He had invited Horemans's representatives to meet him this week and arrange a match, but the fact that Horemans has said that he is not prepared to make any definite arrangement at this time is accepted as meaning that such a conference will not be held. It is possible, however, that an informal meeting may be held at which the matter will be tentatively discussed.

The statement which the Billiard Feature Service issued for Horemans follows:

"Mr. Horemans appreciates Mr. Hoppe's generosity in offering him the opportunity for a match for the world's championship so soon after his arrival in this country. He wishes to thank him for the offer, but is unable to accept it immediately, for several reasons.

"Mr. Horemans considers that it would not be fair to the American public for him to have a match with Mr. Hoppe before he has proved his right to such a match by first defeating the other leading American players, if he is able to do so. He also thinks it would be unfair to the other players if he did not first give them a chance to meet him. In addition, he would regard it as an imposition on the public to play such a match with Mr. Hoppe before he is sufficiently accustomed to American conditions to know that he could perform at something like his true game. He feels that he cannot prophesy how long it will take him to become acclimated and used to conditions here, whether two weeks or two months, and accordingly does not think he should make a definite agreement at this time for a match in the future.

"It is the intention of Mr. Horemans to practice earnestly, to get himself into condition as soon as he can, play a few exhibitions and then take on the leading American players in match games. As soon as he finds himself playing creditably under American conditions and has demonstrated his right to the match by victories over other Americans, he promises he will immediately petition Mr. Hoppe for a match for the championship. He hopes this program can be followed with sufficient success and dispatch to have the match arranged for next February or March, at the convenience of Mr. Hoppe."

SERVATIUS WINS ANOTHER.

Defeats Steinbugler, 150 to 83, in Class C Billiard Tourney.

Two matches were played last night at the Broadway Academy in the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players' Class C metropolitan championship tournament. Louis A. Servatius defeatd Charley Steinbugler, 150 to 83, and George Spear won from Joseph Johann by a score of 150 to 103. As a result of these matches Servatius and Spear are leading in the hunt for the title. Servatius has won all four of his games and Spear has not been defeated in his three starts. They will meet on Friday night in the match that will decide first and second places.

The damp weather was against good billiards being played, and all of the players were severely handicapped by the heavy way in which the balls rolled. Early in his match against Steinbugler, Servatius decided that it was useless to attempt to play close balkline and he banged away at the balls. It was in this way that he won by a big margin. His average was 3 36-38 and his high runs 25 and 12. Steinbugler made an average of 2 9-37 and his best runs were 13 and 11. Servatius took the lead at the start of the game and held it all the way. At no time was his lead threatened. Steinbugler could do but little with the ivories.

Spear and Johann replayed a match staged earlier in the tournament. The replay was the result of a protest filed with the N. A. A. B. P. by Johann. During their first meeting the referee called Johann's attention to the fact that he was shooting with the wrong ball after Johann had already made eight points. The officials of the N. A. A. B. P. ruled that the referee should have called the player's attention to the fact before he made his second shot. For this reason the match was ordered replayed.

Spear won the original match and repeated his victory last night. Johann could not get going. The ultimate winner took the lead at the outset and was never headed. Spear was more consistent in his work than was Johann, but neither did any brilliant playing. Spear's average was 3 27-41 and his high runs 26 and 22. Johann's average was 2 23-40 and his best runs 12 and 11.

Player.	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
L. A. Servatius	4	0	1000
G. Spear	3	0	1000
C. Steinbugler	2	2	.500
J. Johann	1	2	.333
J. Low	1	3	.250
J. Langdon	0	4	.000

CUTLER SPRINGS SURPRISE.

Wins First Two Blocks of Three-Cushion Match With Moore.

One of the biggest surprises of the billiard season was sprung at the Strand Academy yesterday when Albert Cutler won the first two blocks of his 300-point three-cushion match with George Moore. In the afternoon Cutler won, 50 to 48, and took the night session by a score of 50 to 46. The total score is Cutler 100, Moore 94.

Cutler's showing was quite a shock to those who had openly declared that they did not believe he had a chance against Moore's well-known safety game. Cutler has been playing great balkline billiards this season but only a few of his closest friends knew that he had mastered the angle game. It was his first public appearance as a three-cushion player. He conclusively proved his versatility. He is an excellent shot maker, a fact attested to by his high runs. In the first block he made runs of 5 and 4 and in the evening he put together a cluster of 7 with others of 4 and 3. Moore's best were runs of 5 in the afternoon and evening. They will continue play this afternoon and evening.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—During the past few days two leading golf professionals, George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, have been experimenting with the standardized ball, which was decided on as a result of the compromise between the United States Golf Association and the Royal and Ancient Club. They were supplied with some of the first samples of the ball made to the standard specification of not less than 1.62 inches in diameter, nor more than 1.62 ounces in weight. At the end of three days both players were satisfied that they could drive this ball farther than any other ball. Mitchell estimated the gain at from ten to fifteen yards, while Duncan put it at rather less. Mitchell drove it 315 yards without any assistance from wind or sloping ground, and Duncan even exceeded this distance in a cross wind.

COLUMBIA QUINTET IN SPIRITED DRILL

Coach Joe Deering varied the Columbia basketball practice yesterday with a spirited scrimmage between a hastily picked varsity five and the freshman team, in which the first-string men rolled up an imposing total of points against the yearlings. Captain Marty Tynan was the only veteran in the varsity line-up, owing to the absence of most of the men who are expected to win places on the Blue and White quintet.

Deering has not yet had a glimpse at the best of the floor talent of Columbia. Johnson, the negro flash, who was conceded to be one of the best forwards in the Intercollegiate League last year, has not reported at any of the practices, although he is expected to make a belated arrival today or tomorrow. Watson, the centre, has taken part in the workouts, but has been hampered by late classes. A third absentee has been Bunk Harris, who finished his football activities on Saturday anl is resting from his labors. Coach Deering said yesterday that he expected Harris to report this afternoon, along with Pulleyn, Burtt and Thornton of the gridiron squad.

The new coach had fifty men yesterday from whom to select his varsity line-up. The team as it faced the freshmen had Moeschen and Loutman at the forwards; Longcope at centre and Fosdick and Springhorn at the guard positions. Tynan later went to one of the forwards, and Horowitz, Bernstein, Reilly, Brophy and Krulewitch all received a trial. The freshmen led for the first five minutes, but the varsity then uncorked a good passing game that swept the ball down the field and into the basket. The shooting was of high calibre for an early season practice and indicated that Deering will have an ample supply of sharpshooters in his first-string ranks.

Four of the five positions seem assured of veteran occupants. At the forwards will be Tynan and Johnson. Watson has an inside track for centre and Harris should have little trouble in annexing one of the guard positions. The football quarterback is said to be even better at basketball than on the gridiron, and in his one year at Syracuse he was called by many critics one of the best roving guards in Eastern circles. The fifth position is still in doubt, but there is a best of candidates, several of whom are graduates of last year's freshman team and are schooled in the basketball tactics in vogue at Columbia.

COLGATE FIVE IN DRILL.

Maroon Basketball Practice Begins—Large Squad Reports.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 22.—With the gridiron season of Colgate University ended by the defeat of the eleven at Syracuse Saturday, the basketball season was ushered in officially here today when Coach Bill Reid called the first 'Varsity practice for the entire squad.

Over fifty men reported, among whom were the basketball players who have been under the training of Coaches Ellery Huntington and Mike Goode, the gridiron mentors, for the past three months. By far the larger part of the candidates for the quintet are first year men. This includes a large number of football men. Some of the Freshmen who won varsity positions on Colgate's eleven this year have shown themselves adepts at the floor game, and from such an aggregation of talent Coach Reid hopes to turn out a winning team. Unlike the football coaches, who had this year only two veterans as a nucleus, Coach Reid has at least seven letter men back in College, and with them as a beginning the Colgate basketball season has assumed a roseate hue.

The longest and stiffest schedule that a Maroon five has ever played has been arranged by Manager Woolsey, and, following Coach Reid's policy of satisfying the ungraduate, almost half the games, including some with the biggest colleges in the East, will be played at home.

All of the veterans except Steffen, who will not return to college until later, were out today, including Bob Webster, the fleet halfback and probable Captain of the eleven next year. Epple Barnes of Brooklyn, was on deck to hold down his forward berth. Kirschgaessner, Linehan and Mosler are the other veterans.

Among the first year men, the following promise to be 'Varsity material: Krauss, a fast guard who has been on the football eleven; McMullin, a Brooklyn protégé of Barnes, who looks as if he might even crowd Barnes out of the forward post; Jenkinson, a speedy centre; Webster, a fast, lanky forward, and Brice, a heavy-set guard who can shoot baskets unusually well.

MILLS LOSES CUE GAME.

Suffers First Defeat in Tourney, Hurd Winning, 100 to 53.

John Mills suffered his first defeat last night in the pocket billiard tournament being played at the Rational Recreation Academy, in Brooklyn, for the interborough championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. Ever since the tournament started Mills has been showing such excellent form that it appeared that he was destined to complete his schedule of matches without being beaten. But last night he fet a Tartar in the person of Clarence Hurd. Hurd won by a score of 100 to 53. As a result of his victory, Hurd is now tied with Mills for the lead, each having won four games and lost one.

Hurd was in fine form, while Mills was decidedly off his best game. Hurd was playing such a strong game, however, that it is doubtful whether Mills would have been able to hold him even had he been playing at top speed.

Robert Crespi and F. A. Saunders are scheduled to play tonight.

Player.	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
J. Mills	4	1	.800
C. Hurd	4	1	.800
R. Crespi	2	1	.667
G. Gardner	2	2	.500
F. A. Saunders	1	2	.333
J. Renauld	1	3	.250
A. Wickers	0	4	.000

Layton and Jackson Win.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—John Layton of St. Louis defeated Jess Lean of Denver, 50 to 43, today in the preliminaries for the national three-cushion billiard championship, and Clarence Jackson of Kansas City won from Charles Morin of Chicago, 50 to 49.

SUGGESTS CURBING OF FORWARD PASS

Haughton Would Have Incompleted Toss Subject to Same Conditions as Blocked Kick.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.—A suggestion for curbing the forward pass, to prevent development of the present day football into a game more nearly resembling basketball, has been advanced by Percy D. Haughton, founder of Harvard's gridiron coaching system.

"Instead of having an incompleted forward pass revert to the team which started the play, make a forward pass blocked behind the thrower's line of scrimmage subject to recovery by opponents under the same conditions as a blocked kick," is Haughton's idea. At present a pass which has been batted down, but not caught by an opponent, merely costs the throwing team a down.

The suggestion comes as an interesting aftermath to the Yale-Harvard game at New Haven Saturday, in which the strategy of Head Coach Bob Fisher of Harvard for a forward passing attack in the Crimson's own territory marked a radical departure from all previous Harvard schemes of play.

"If you allow the blocked forward pass to be recovered behind the line of scrimmage, as a blocked kick is, you force the offense to protect the thrower just as it must protect the kicker," said Haughton. "Instead of having five men eligible to receive a pass, and in a dangerous position, you will have but three, possibly two.

"Why restrict the forward pass? It is not football, and gradually the game will stray further away from the foundamental aspects and become a combination of basketball and baseball."

BEZDEK WORKS TEAM HARD.

Special to The New York Times.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 22.—Rain began to fall this afternoon just as the Penn State squad started practice and the heavy downpour soon added a layer of slime to the several inches of mud, making the next to the last practice of the year far from ideal. However, it failed to daunt Coach Bezdek and he held the varsity through another hard scrimmage that lasted until it was impossible even to see the "ghost" ball.

The varsity was first stacked up against the second team, and after wallowing around in the mud for about three-quarters of an hour a temporary halt was called. Then Dick Harlow's scrubs donned headgears and gave the first team plenty to do for the rest of the afternoon. The muddy field slowed up the work to a great degree, but, considering conditions, the players held on the ball remarkably well.

The feature of the afternoon came when Coach Bezdek, bedecked in his long raincoat, jumped into the scrimmage to demonstrate how a lineman should play.

Tickets are selling at premium tonight. Alumni sales have cleaned up nearly all of the allotment of reserved seats, while there were not enough cheering section or general admission tickets to take care of the students. The sale for underclass men was held tonight and students stood in line for hours in order to gain the pasteboards. Never before has interest in the Pitt-Penn State game reached such a high pitch.

REPORT DENIED BY YALE.

Officials Assert Boston College Has Not Been Dropped.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 22.—Yale football officials tonight denied that any action had been taken relative to dropping Boston College from Yale's football schedule next year. The Yale management tonight denied the report that Georgia Tech had sent representatives here to arrange for a game. If the Southerners have come here, they have not yet visited the Eli management.

MOORE WINS THREE RACES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 22.—Joe Moore, the national sprint champion, made a clean sweep in the three ice skating races at the Ice Palace tonight, when he took first in the 440 yards, one-mile and three-mile events. The youthful title holder was forced to concede some liberal handicaps in all three events, but won with much to spare in each race. There were fifteen starters.

Moore won the three-mile race by a margin of a half lap, after a hard grind for more than two miles. Three times he was pocketed and three times he broke loose from the pocket. He took the lead at the two-mile mark, held it for two laps, and after the two and one-half mile distance had been covered, he never was headed. His time of ten minutes and five seconds is excellent for the distance on a twelve-lap track.

Johnny Houseworth, another New York boy, finished second to Moore in the final of the 440 yards and in the three-mile event.

Harry Carter and Bill Wathey advanced to the semi-final round of the annual snooker handicap tournament at John Doyle's Academy last night. Each won his match by a single point. Carter defeated Nat Lewis by a score of 85 to 84, and Wathey won from Schuyler Green, 56 to 55. As the scores indicate the games were productive of some of the best snooker and some of the keenest competition seen in a tournament fraught with close playing. About twenty-five games have been played in the tourney to date and at least twenty of these have hinged on the pocketing of the last ball, the black, which counts seven.

Lewis was called upon to concede Carter ten points and he might have gotten away with the game had he not missed a comparatively easy shot on the next to the last ball, the pink, by concentrating too much on position on the black ball. Carter drew away to a good lead early in the match, but Lewis finally found his stroke and gradually overhauled his opponent until, as they were entering the colors, they were on fairly even terms. The fact that he had been able to make up the handicap by the time the colors were reached and because he is the better player as a rule made it appear that Lewis would surely win. He seemed to have cinched the game when he pocketed the yellow, green and brown for a total of nine points. This gave Lewis a seven-point lead and it appeared to be all over but the shouting. After some safety shooting, Lewis also succeeded in getting the blue, which counts five points. This left only the pink and black on the table, counting six and seven, respectively. After Lewis had missed a comparatively easy shot, Carter made two extremely difficult shots on the pink and black and won the game.

Bill Wathey had to concede Schuyler Green a handicap of five points. By playing a steady, waiting game, Wathey was able to get away with it. He made them when Green left them up and then played safe. Several years ago Green was one of the best amateur snooker players in this country. He defeated George Gray, the professional champion of England, in an exhibition match. But Green has not paid much attention to snooker for the last two or three years and his safety playing has suffered accordingly. This game, too, hinged on the pocketing of the black ball and Wathey finally made it.

In the handicap pocket billiard tournament, Max Winchell conceded Charles Le Huquet twenty balls and then defeated him by a score of 60 to 52. Le Huquet's big handicap was all that made the game close.

BOWIE FEATURE IS RUN AS TWO RACES

War Note Wins One Division of Redwood Purse and Ballet Dancer II. the Other.

UPSET IN JUVENILE EVENT

Special to The New York Times.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 22.—The Redwood Purse, at a mile, which was the feature of the racing at Bowie today, had so many entries that it was decided to run it as two races, and both proved good contests for another large crowd, which turned out in spite of threatening weather. E. W. Smith's War Note easily accounted for the first division, and James Fitzsimmon's Ballet Dancer II., which has been threatening to score a victory for some time, was an easy winner in the second division.

War Note, which has been a consistently good performer, but is at his best only when he can go to the front at once, was able to outrun his company in the early stages and was never seriously threatened. He got home two lengths in front of Siren Maid, which had to do her best to hold second by a neck from Tom McTaggart, the latter closing with a rush. There were seven starters in this division after the scratches had been announced, but the first three were the only contenders throughout.

War Note took the lead from Siren Maid rounding the first turn, showing a high flight of speed, and drew away to a lead of three lengths going through the backstretch. War Note had raced his opposition into defeat before he reached the stretch. Siren Maid followed the pace all the way, but began to tire badly in the final sixteenth, and would have lost second in a few more strides. Tom McTaggart was slow to get into motion and was outrun to the head of the stretch, where he began to move up, and closed with such a rush that Siren Maid had to be ridden out. Ralco was able to slip through on the rail turning into the stretch, and gained enough ground to get into second place momentarily, but he weakened when the others charged on him, and was badly beaten before the wire was reached.

Ballet Dancer II. was favored with racing luck in taking the second division of the purse event, for, apparently beaten rounding the turn, she found her way through on the rail as the other horses bore out and closed with a rush that gave her the victory by five lengths over Biff Bang with Sandy Beal third among nine starters. Golfer, the favorite, ran a very dull race and, though he appeared to be a contender for a few strides in the stretch, he hung badly and was fifth at the end.

Jean Bullant and Chasseur raced with each other at the outset and, by the time they reached the turn for home, both had been raced to pieces. Ballet Dancer II. had been well back in the field until Mooney rushed up on the rail turning into the stretch. Finding an opening as the rest of the field went wide, Ballet Dancer II. slipped through and made the most of her advantage. Ballet Dancer II. had taken the lead before the others were straightened out and she drew away easily at the finish. Biff Bang trailed the winner home, but just saved the place by a neck. Sandy Beal closed with a rush on the outside and was rapidly wearing Biff Bang down.

The Chatterbox Purse, for two-year-old fillies, at five and a half furlongs, resulted in a surprise when John's Umma got home in front and defeated the heavily backed pair entered by J. W. McClelland, Light Rose and Irish Abbes.s John's Umma won by only a neck from Light Rose, but the victory was scored easily, for the winner was being eased up from a lead of three lengths and Light Rose was being ridden out. Morris drew the finish rather fine.

CORNELL IN FINAL DRILL.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Practice for Cornell's annual football game at Philadelphia with the University of Pennsylvania on Thursday, was brought to a close by Cornell here today in a dummy scrimmage on a slippery field. No attempt was made at regular scrimmage, but, following the dummy workout, the squad was taken to the baseball cage, where over an hour was spent in special formations for the tussle with the Quakers.

While attention was paid to the style of play used at Philadelphia, Dobie laid stress on the offensive which will be used Thursday. Much attention also was given the forward pass. It is apparent to followers of the team here that he plans to use this method of attack against Heisman's eleven to a greater extent than before this season.

Every 'Varsity regular who played against Columbia and Dartmouth, and a number of others, got into the workout today. The lineup included Finn, Munns and Gouinlock, ends; Knauss, Kay, Dodge and Brayman, tackles; Ebersole, Pendleton and Miner, guards; Brayton, centre; Hoff, quarterback; Dunleavy, Mayer and Kaw, halfbacks, and Carey and Jewett fullbacks. Carey is expected to get the call for the latter position because of his kicking.

Coach Dobie has announced no line-up for Thursday, and he declares that he will not announce one until a few minutes before the game. According to a statement by Graduate Manager Berry it will depend largely on the condition of the men and their frame of mind. Several radical changes may be made in the line-up of the big Red team just before the opening of the game.

Only Berry and Dobie know where the team will go when it leaves here, which will be just before midnight tomorrow night. The only thing that any one connected with the trip is willing to admit is that the squad of between thirty and thirty-five players will be headed toward Philadelphia. But where the men will put up for two days is a mystery. It is stated that they will not stay in the Quaker City, and it is also stated that they will not go to Atlantic City, which for years has been the final campaign grounds of the Cornellians just before the big game.

HARVARD MAY MEET ARMY.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 22.—There is a prospect that Harvard and the Army may meet on the gridiron next Fall and that the game will be played on the neutral territory of the Polo Grounds in New York. Major Philip Hayes, Director of Athletics at West Point, will be in Cambridge tomorrow to confer on the proposal for such a game with Major Fred W. Moore, Graduate Treasurer of Athletics at Harvard. If the authorities of the two institutions agree upon a date the game will be the first between Harvard and the Army since 1909.

SUTHERLAND TO RETURN.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 22.—Fred Seidel, assistant coach of the Lafayette College football team, left here tonight for Pittsburgh, where he will spend the Winter. Dr. John Sutherland will leave tomorrow afternoon. Coach Sutherland's contract has another year to run, but Mr. Seidel's expired Saturday. The followers of the Lafayette team are hoping he will return next Fall, for, through the work of Sutherland and Seidel, Lafayette had one of the best lines in the country.

Graduate Manager George Sigman announced tonight that a testimonial dinner would be tendered the entire squad Saturday evening, Dec. 11.

Cincinnati Hears of Exchange Between Reds and Cubs.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 22.—Although officials of the Cincinnati baseball club say there is "nothing definite," rumor persist of a big trade between the local club and the Chicago Nationals. It is that Groh, Neale, Kopf and Ruether will go to Chicago in exchange for Alexander, Hollocher and other Cubs not as yet mentioned.

"There is no deal on with Chicago Cubs at the present time," said President Herrmann of the Cincinnati club tonight. "We have several moves under consideration, but they are with other clubs. Nothing will be done in the way of trades until I see Manager Moran at the league meeting in New York next month.

ARMY TEAM BEGINS FINAL PREPARATION

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 22.—Putting the final polish on the Army eleven is the task of the coaches for the balance of this week. Today four teams worked out on the two gridirons on the "Plains." On the North Field Major Daly, head coach, personally supervised the big team's drill, which lasted an hour and a half, and extended into the darkness, when the searchlights on Fort Putnam and the nearby hills were brought into play. Daly had all his 'Varsity men out today. There was no heavy scrimmaging, although the men got in a half-hour's "dummy" drill. This sort of drill will be continued tomorrow and Wednesday, after which the Army will burn its bridges and take a last, final signal practice on Turkey Day.

The persistency with which White is being used in the doubtful end position indicates to many that he will be the ultimate choice of the coaches for the Navy battle. The former University of Maine wingman was in for nearly the whole of today's workout, although early in the practice Reeder, Pitzer and Glasgow were all used sparingly. White is twenty pounds lighter than his nearest competitor, Pitzer, who tips the scales around 185 pounds. White's experience, though, may count for him in the final reckoning. Pitzer's aggressiveness is a big asset in his favor. The race for this position will be a merry one for the next couple of days.

Don Storck, the former Rutgers end, was at the other flank today. Mulligan, who has practically beaten Lou Storck to the position, was used at left tackle, while Davidson was in the other tackle position. Breidster and Clark were the guards. Goodman, a heavy Californian, who is coming fast, got a chance in Clark's place at guard for a brief spell. He will probably play against the Navy only in the event of injury to either Breidster or Clark. Goodman kicks well and this may help him in the final assignment.

Greene played the whole afternoon at the pivot position, with Enderton, substitute centre, trailing during the signal practice. Strohecker, the giant plebe substitute for Greene, has definitely been put out of the running. His recent injury is still bothering him to the extent that Trainer Harry Tuthill declared him out for good and all today. He was out on the field, but not in togs. Behind the line, Daly used his backs in a kicking and signal drill two complete sets of ball-carrying backs getting into the play. Captain Wilhide at quarter drove what is expected to be the soldiers' first string of backs, French, Smythe and Lawrence. Ogden, the "plebe" quarter, worked with the 'Varsity for a while when Richards and Ebersole ran through a brief session which also saw French at fullback. Ebersole's excellent punting may land him a berth behind the Army line during some stage of the Navy conflict.

PROGRESS BY COLUMBIA.

Although the season's record shows only four victories out of seven games, Columbia seems satisfied with the showing made this year by Coach Buck O'Neill's first Blue and White eleven. The campus sentiment is reflected by the students' daily paper, The Spectator, which pointed out editorially yesterday that the O'Neill aggregation had gained triumphs over its traditional New England rivals and had lost only to its newer and bigger opponents. The student editor believes that the team, playing under the old 1919 schedule, would have been hailed as unusually successful, thus indicating that some forward strides had been taken in the first year of the O'Neill régime.

Undergraduate opinion seems to be that the defeat at the hands of Cornell and Pennsylvania are the sort of hard knocks that would have to be taken cheerfully in the first year or two of the new football program. There is universal satisfaction with O'Neill's first year of work and there appears to be little doubt that the former Syracuse coach will be asked to take the wheel for another year, although, of course, official action has not yet been taken. Men close to the coach said that the season's work had been probably the most exacting he has ever undertaken and represented one of the hardest years he has ever had in his long experience as a football guide.

Speculation yesterday revolved generally about the prospects for next year. The situation is befogged somewhat by questions of eligibility depending on whether or not the S. A. T. C. season is to be counted as a regular playing season. If the athletic committee should decide in the affirmative, at least three 'Varsity regulars, Applebaum, Canapary and Captain Kienninger, will be lost to the 1921 eleven. All three will enter graduate schools next Fall and will be eligible only if the athletic committee decides that they have not completed their four years of 'Varsity football. In all other respects, however, the present outlook is for the return of the 'Varsity team complete and of all the second string substitutes.

The dubious record of the freshman team has discouraged those who are looking for the yearlings to graduate some stars in the 'Varsity ranks. The cubs, however, have a number of individual stars who should develop rapidly under O'Neill's tutelage. These include Gibb and Streich, tackles; Lange, guard; Bodenbender, end and Dillingham and Echavarria in the backfield. If the freshmen are able to contribute one or two linemen, the 'Varsity coaches will undoubtedly be satisfied, as the line was the real source of trouble in the last three games of the season.

More hope is being placed on Columbia's small squad of ineligibles, men who for one reason or another were not technically qualified to play on the varsity. The headliner among these men is undoubtedly the younger brother of the Dietjen who flashed brilliantly several years ago in the Wesleyan backfield. This youngster is well built, tall and possessed apparently of natural football ability. He is a first-class punter, an excellent drop kicker, an adept thrower of forward passes and a hard, fast runner. He would be the ideal triple threat man for the backfield. Another promising ineligible is Arthur Brickley, brother of the famous Charley, and credited with being even a better manufacturer of field goals than the former Harvard star. The younger Brickley is a quarterback, and should he be eligible next season and make good at that post, he might take charge of the position, allowing Bunk Harris to be shifted over to a halfback berth. A third ineligible is De Stefano, formerly at Princeton and a good halfback.

RUTGERS TO LEAVE TODAY.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 22.—Bad weather today deprived Rutgers of its last opportunity for practice before the team goes west for its Thanksgiving Day contest with Detroit. Sanford kept his men indoors today, but gave them a long signal drill on the gymnasium floor and carefully rehearsed the plays that are to be used against the Westerners. No scrimmage is scheduled for tomorrow, as the men will leave early in the evening for the West. They expect to arrive Wednesday morning, and to hold a short practice session on the Detroit field in the afternoon. Twenty men will be taken on the trip west, and it is expected that most of the regulars will be in the list. Paul Duffy, halfback, will probably go along, although he has been out of the lineup several weeks. Captain Gardner is also much improved.

Queerest of Football Upsets In Amherst-Williams Game

The football season annually produces some queer freaks in the shape of results entirely at variance with what might be expected in a comparison of scores against the same teams, but it is doubtful if any year ever furnished a more startling upset of this kind than that of last Saturday in the Amherst-Williams game. Amherst and Williams this year had schedules that were almost identical, each eleven meeting Columbia, Union, Hamilton, Wesleyan and Trinity before meeting each other. Against Union each won by the same score, 35 to 0. Williams won the Hamilton game 81-0 and Amherst won by 30-7. Williams defeated Trinity 62-0 and Amherst beat the Hartford collegians 20-0. Williams beat Wesleyan 50-14 and Wesleyan beat Amherst 7-0. Columbia beat Williams 20-14 and beat Amherst 20-7. Every game but one pointed to Williams as the stronger team, but Amherst took the annual game 14-7.

HOLY CROSS NOW IS FORDHAM OBJECTIVE

Maroon Eleven Points for Annual Battle on Thanksgiving Day With Bay State Rival.

The preparations for the Holy Cross game at Worcester on Thanksgiving Day started in earnest at Fordham Field yesterday afternoon. Coach Dumoe and his assistants are making every effort to have the Maroon athletes in perfect physical condition for Thursday's contest.

With but three days of practice left before the big game, Dumoe did not give his charges the usual light Monday workout yesterday, instead put them through an especially strenuous session. Most of the afternoon was spent rehearsing the new set of plays which Fordham has been saving for the contest with Holy Cross. Forward passes again figured prominently and it is safe to say that the Maroon will resort to the overhead game frequently in the struggle against the powerful Purple team.

With two exceptions the Maroon athletes came out of Saturday's fray unscathed. Pat Miller, the big guard, was pretty badly banged up, but he was out in uniform yesterday and will be back in good shape again in a day or two. Steele is out of the game for the rest of the season. He got into the setto with Muhlenberg for a few minutes, but it was evident that his injured leg could not stand the strain and he had to retire after a few plays.

FOLWELL PERFECTS NAVY'S TRICK PLAYS

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 22.—With a spirit and enthusiasm which could not be checked by rain and a soft field, the Naval Academy squad started this afternoon on the final week of preparation for the Army game on the New York Polo Grounds next Saturday. Most of the time was devoted to perfecting the special plays which will be sprung on the Army team Saturday, and more than the usual precautions were taken to insure that only friendly eyes saw the practice. Folwell will carry a team to New York which will be thoroughly equipped with every style of attack.

There is reasonable confidence here in a Navy victory, though a hard fight and one of the best games in the entire series is expected. It is known here that the Army has some advantage in weight, both in line and backfield, and a specially fine runner in French. However, it is felt here that the Navy is more experienced and capable in all around work and that the backfield is better balanced and has a better corps of substitutes.

The wealth of high-grade substitutes is a factor of considerable value. The Navy has four competent backfields, each player being well coached in the duties of his special place. Barring accident, Conroy, Copley, Hamilton and McKee will start the game, but there is a second string composed of Noyes, Rawlings, Cruise and Waters, which is heavier and more experienced, and which can enter the game without weakening the attacking power of the team.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 22.—With Eielson absolutely out of the game, McLaughlin very uncertain about starting, and Brenkert, West and Templeton badly crippled, the Washington and Jefferson casualty list looks serious tonight, with the West Virginia contest but three days away. McLaughlin and Brenkert both say they will play despite their injuries and it is possible they may start. Templeton and West, it is hoped, will be in condition to play Thursday. The outlook is anything but rosy, however, particularly since the Presidents have not shown much even with their full strength available.

Coach Morrow had the men who were able to work out for practice in the rain this afternoon. He did not stage a scrimmage, but put on a rather severe practice and indulged in bitter comment on the loss of the Carnegie Tech game. Indications point to a slippery field on Thursday, and Morrow is endeavoring to get better handling of a slippery ball. The fumbling of the leather by Erickson on a punt Saturday spelled defeat for the Presidents.

45-FOOT BOAT ENDS 8,000-MILE VOYAGE

LOST A MAST IN STORM

Two of Crew Washed Overboard and Rescued—Trip a Test for Small Craft.

The 45-foot auxiliary schooner Typhoon, which looks like a Cape Cod catboat, arrived yesterday afternoon from her 8,000-mile trip to Cowes, Isle of Wight, and back via the Azores. Her crew, consisting of Captain William Washburn Nutting, editor of The Motor Boat, who organized the experiment to show how easy it was to cross the Atlantic in a small craft if she was taut; Mason Gilloway, navigator; Charles Hardy, his apprentice; James Dorsett, amateur yachtsman, and two sailors, Uffa Clark and William Fox, all looked hale and hearty when they stepped ashore at the Municipal Pier, St. George, Staten Island.

Their hardships had not been as severe as expected. The provisions ran short for a time, and all hands lived on hardtack and water. Several of them were washed overboard and back again during a big gale on Nov. 17, and the decks were awash most of the voyage of twenty-three days from the Azores. Otherwise the voyage was pleasant.

The skipper of the little craft describing the westward voyage of the Typhoon, said:

"We left Corunna, Spain, on Sept. 21 and sighted the Azores on Oct. 6 when we encountered a heavy westerly gale which blew us off shore for four days. The mizzen was carried away and we put into Santa Maria, where a new mast was stepped. From there we made for Punta del Gardo and finally left for New York on Oct. 19.

"All was well until Nov. 17 at noon, when the typhoon was in the Gulf Stream in latitude 35.38 and longitude 70 west, and we ran into a northwest gale with high seas which wallowed over the small craft. Fox was standing forward and was washed into the sea and Dorsett, who went to rescue him, was also carried over the side. We threw lines to them, but they missed them until we attached a bucket to the end of a rope and that did the trick. We hauled the two men safely on board.

"From 5 P. M. until six next morning the Typhoon was tossed about like a cork. The lead keel was all that saved the boat from going down. The storm was made more interesting by the fact that we had been living on hardtack and water for three days as the provisions had run short.

"Two days later, when the weather was calm, we obtained provisions from a Spanish steamship, the W. Solava."

The Captain said they had been kindly received everywhere in England and had ovations in France and Spain.

RUMELY MOVES A DISMISSAL

Attacks Indictment After Government Closes Its Case.

When the Government closed its case yesterday against Dr. Edward R. Rumely, S. Walter Kaufman and Norvin D. Lindheim, charged with concealing German ownership of The Evening Mail in 1917, counsel for the defendants requested Judge Grubb to dismiss the indictment. Judge Grubb took the motion under advisement, and a decision is expected at noon today.

Morton Hogan, a deputy assistant to the Alien Enemy Property Custodian, was the last witness called by the Government. He identified a report sent to the Alien Enemy Property Custodian in 1917 by Hays, Kaufman and Lindheim. He said the report was sent on behalf of the S. S. McClure Newspaper Corporation, which controlled The Evening Mail during Mr. Rumely's régime.

No. 1 Hoffman Air Valve—the watchman of the coal pile. It is for use in ordinary one-pipe steam systems. Scientifically tested at the factory, it is guaranteed in writing for five years. Heating contractors everywhere sell and install Hoffmans, but if your dealer should not have them, send $2.15 to New York office for a sample valve and descriptive booklet.

Is coal costly and scarce?

Are your bins only partly filled?

You can still have economical, efficient steam heat

Do you know that the air valves on radiators control steam heat efficiency?

Do you know that experts have placed the indictment for coal wastage and cold radiators where it belongs—on the faulty air valve? It's true. This small, insignificant object—perched on one end of the radiator is responsible for big coal bills and no heat—or small bills and real heat. This winter you must obtain more heat for less coal. You should have Hoffman Valves.

Hoffman Valves permit maximum heat from lowest steam pressure—hence smaller coal bills. They do it by remaining open until all the air is vented from pipes and radiators—giving the steam a clear road to deliver heat at express speed into the radiator. Hoffman Valves never close prematurely and bottle up air in the radiator, thereby decreasing its efficiency.

Hoffman Valves—while open wide as long as air is being discharged, shut tightly against escape of steam or spouting water. What's more—they're automatic. They never need adjustment. No fiddling with penknife or screw driver on icy cold mornings.

And they are guaranteed in writing for five long years. No risk in buying Hoffmans.

Equip your radiators today. Your heating contractor has Hoffmans for sale. He'll install them throughout in a few hours.

HAITIAN PRESIDENT ATTACKS CIVIL RULE

ASSAILS FINANCIAL ADVISER

Charges No Aid to Develop Resources and No Measures to Put Finances on Solid Basis.

URGES FULL CO-OPERATION

Says Haitian People Would Forget Humiliations if Treaty Provisions Were Carried Out.

PORT AU PRINCE, Nov. 13 (Associated Press).—The American civil administration in Haiti is "more oppressive than the military," President Dartiguenave declared in a 3,000-word statement today attacking the public service of Minister Blanchard and John McIlhenny, financial adviser of the Black Republic.

The President charged that since American occupation no effective aid had been given Haiti for development of its agricultural and industrial resources, as stipulated in the treaty, and that no serious measure had been proposed with a view to "placing Haiti's finances on a truly solid basis."

Calling attention to the fact that the financial adviser, as named by him on the proposal of President Wilson, is in effect a Haitian official who is paid $10,000 a year from Haitian funds, the President said:

"In reality, the financial adviser does not report to the Haitian Government; it is the Haitian Government that he pretends to submit to his sovereign will. The facts are numerous which show the omnipotence which the financial adviser attributes to himself.

Says Salaries Were Held Up.

"Nothing can give a more striking idea of this omnipotence than the confiscation by the financial adviser, aided by the American Minister, of the salaries of the President of the republic, the Secretaries of State, members of the Legislative Council, because the Government refused to insert in the contract of the National Bank of Haiti, an establishment controlled by the National City Bank of New York, a clause prohibiting the importation into Haiti of foreign gold, which the adviser wished to impose. This (adviser) equally prevented a vote of the budget, contrary to the voice of the Haitian Constitution."

The financial adviser, the President asserted, has made no inquiry into the validity of Haitian debts, has recommended no perfected method of banking the revenues, and made no recommendation for the welfare and prosperity of the republic. In the face of "the inertia of the financial adviser," the Government multiplied its efforts, according to the President, who charged:

"The numerous financial projects, agricultural, educational, administrative and rural organization, meet the opposition of the American officials or lie without response, in the archives of the American Legation."

Admitting that his own proposals were not perfect, the President complained because the civil functionaries failed to propose modifications or substitutes. After his plans had been turned down the President said this happened:

"And it is in the name of the Government of the United States that the American Minister comes each time to impose on the Government and the Haitian people the requirements least commendable of the American officials, paid for with Haitian money. If the Government refuses, the worst humiliations are inflicted."

Wants Co-operation Assured.

The President said that loyal co-operation, promised by the treaty, should be assured; that peace must be maintained by a national force assuring public respect and conscious of its responsibilities; that American military forces must not intervene in administrative and judicial affairs; that the American Minister remain within his diplomatic functions and not serve to aid the treaty officials in conflict with the Government; that the United States give efficacious aid to develop Haitian resources and put Haitian finances on a solid and durable basis.

"If this program is applied with loyalty," he added, "the Haitian people will forget the humiliation brought to all proud people by foreign intervention, will accord their confidence, friendship and all their thanks to the great American people."

One of the charges made by the President was that a single "operation" by the financial adviser had cost the people of Haiti the loss of several million francs.

The functions of the adviser, said the President, required great financial experience, which "seems not to have been considered in the choice," and he added:

"The proof is the unhappy operation which he conducted last year for the accounts of the republic, despite contrary instructions by the Haitian Government, he having converted into francs three million American dollars 'for the best interest of Haiti,' he explained in conversation, in October, 1919, just at the moment when the tendency of the franc to fall was the most marked, at the exchange rate of 9 francs and a fraction for $1, while shortly afterward the dollar was valued at about 17 francs. This caused us a loss of several million francs."

Instead of devising "an adequate system of public accountability as defined in the treaty, the President charged that the adviser brought about the suppression of the Chamber of Accounts, an old Haitian institution.

"Despite all efforts of the Government to reconstitute it in accordance with the new Constitution," he said, "this organ of control has been constantly refused by the adviser. Consequently there is no means for the Haitian people to control their finances, taken over entirely by the American treaty officials."

Points to Rat-Killing Experts.

A rat-killing incident was mentioned by the President, to show how Haitian money was sepnt. After the discovery of two cases of plague at New Orleans the financial adviser, in Washington, employed two rat catchers at $250 a month each for Port-au-Prince, said the President, "which city has never known the malady."

Outside of customs the President said there were no other budget resources left under the treaty to Haiti for free disposition toward expenses. The financial adviser, aided by the Minister, and the military authorities, "which on this occasion invoked martial law, decided that these funds must be remitted to him." In this fashion, he added, the Government was completely "at the mercy of the caprices and absolute arbitrariness of the financial adviser.

"The State Department, absorbed no doubt by more important questions of exterior politics or badly informed by its official agents, closes its ears to our protestations or simply gives right (approval?) to the American officials."

After his expression of willingness by the Haitians to co-operate loyally under the terms of the treaty if the American officials kept to their part of the compact the President concluded by saying:

"The Haitian Government is under humiliating guardianship for lack of co-operation. Its effort to collaborate with good-will are in vain—disdained and repulsed. It seems that there does not exist between the two Governments an analogous contract that the two parties are obligated to respect. The civil administration is more oppressive than the military administration."

Court of Inquiry Orders Recess.

Because of the absence of witnesses the court of inquiry which is investigating the activities of the American marines in Haiti ordered a recess today of several days.

At today's session Freeman Lang, a former corporal in the Marine Corps and a Lieutenant in the gendarmerie, charged with having killed three Haitian prisoners at Hinchy in 1917, presented a formal statement reiterating his denial of guilt. The Hinchy jail Sergeant, a native, was recalled to the stand and testified that Lang shot nobody. In answer to Admiral Henry T. Mayo, President of the court, a gendarme testified to seeing bodies piled before the jail after a bandit attack and said Lang had shot them.

Louis Gilles, a Haitian physician, testified that Lieutenant Lafayette Barrett, accused of killing a native, shot the Haitian after being assaulted in the street and was exonerated by a Haitian court.

GLENDO, Wyo., Nov. 22.—It took the combined efforts of the Spaulding family today to save 8-year-old Walter Spaulding from being carried away by a giant eagle at their ranch near here.

When the huge bird attacked Walter in the ranch yard, the boy grasped it by the neck and screamed for help. John, his 7-year-old brother, came to the rescue, and a third boy ran for help. Mrs. Spaulding beat off the bird with a stick and the eagle attacked her. She was saved when Mr. Spaulding came with a shotgun and dispatched the bird. It had a spread of eight feet.

The two boys were severely lacerated by the eagle's claws.

DENIES THAT PESQUEIRA CAN BAR SENATOR FALL

Mexican Under-Secretary Says Agent in This Country Acted Without Authority.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 22.—Roberto V. Pesqueira, Mexican confidential agent in the United States, acted without authority in orering Mexican Consular agents on the international frontier not to visé the passports of United States Senator Albert B. Fall of New Mexico, who proposed to visit Mexico City and attend the inauguration of General Alvaro Obregon as President on Dec. 1.

This statement was made to the newspaper El Universal yesterday by Dr. Cutberto Hidalgo, Under Secretary of Foreign Affairs, who pointed out that Pesqueira's attitude in no way reflected the sentiments of the Mexican Foreign Office.

It was pointed out by Dr. Hidalgo that the President of the Republic alone has the power to expel foreigners or issue orders prohibiting them from entering the country. He declared that Pesqueira's duties as confidentiay agent in Washington comprehended no such powers. He said no decision had been reached as to what should be done officially to rectify the action of Pesqueira.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 22.—An American aviator, George Pufiea, making a flying trip from El Paso to Mexico City, flew from Torreon to Monterey in two hours today, carrying three passengers in an American-made plane. Pufiea will continue his trip by way of Saltillo and San Luis Potosi, arriving in Mexico City on Wednesday.

Pufiea's is the first long-distance flight attempted in Mexico. No maps of such a route exist, and the aviator so far has trusted to luck in finding landing places.

EAST AFRICAN BABIES DOCTORED TO DEATH

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The Daily Mail publishes further details this morning of the Rev. John Roscoe's expedition among East African tribes. Mr. Roscoe found that among the best tribes infant fortality was terrible, and that this was almost wholly due to the use of drugs. Out of sheer kindness babies were dosed with drug after drug, most of them prepared from crushed herbs given in water or mil. Although the people are for the most part monogamous, certain temporary exceptions are approved. A wife is separated from her husband before the birth of a child, and for a period of three years thereafter, during which she is expected to nurse the child. During this period the husband shares his brother's wife, and the custom leads to no ill feeling.

Scientifically, the central achievement of Mr. Roscoe has been to prove that the Swahili, a people of Semitic origin, migrated up the Nile and reached as far south, perhaps, as the Zulus. They live on milk, and Mr. Roscoe has a complete collection of the utensils, instruments and other paraphernalia relating to milk customs. These tribes are handsome, though brown in color. They have kept themselves separate from other tribes, and what connection they have had has been to use their weaker and less civilized neighbors as slaves.

Mr. Roscoe found prevailing among some of these tribes many customs that students of Egyptology write of as extinct thousands of years ago. Indeed, he saw and photographed some of the customs hitherto regarded as almost mythological.

Many of the things which he saw and some of which he photographed cannot be described. The cannibal tribes on the highlands near Albert Nyanza have habits of incredible degradation. For example, they flavor their bread by dipping it into living flesh. Laws of old standing and good sense and considerable complexity have been handed down, dealing with morality, with marriage regulations, with fines for adultery, with reasons for divorce and the methods of it, and with land tenure of many sorts. In all Mr. Roscoe made a complete survey of the customs of five tribes, and one, only less nearly complete, of two others.

D'ANNUNZIO SAYS HE WILL STILL FIGHT

GOVERNMENT ENDS PARLEYS

Cavaglia Breaks Off Negotiations With Him—Serbian Regent Ratifies Treaty.

FIUME, Nov. 21 (Associated Press).—Gabriele d'Annunzio, insurgent commander at Fiume, declared today that he was unalterably opposed to accepting the Treaty of Rapallo, settling the Adriatic dispute between Italy and Jugoslavia, and that he would continue fighting until the just claims of Italy were met.

"I will not yield; I will cede nothing," d'Annunzio said to the correspondent. "The fruits of victory belong to Italy. Friends of mine, generals in the army, officials of the Government, implore me to accept the Treaty of Rapallo, but I will not recede. Italy's just claims must be satisfied.

"I am fighting a just fight, and I will continue until the Italian aspiration is fulfilled. Friends may abandon me; I will stand firm. I am Gideon. Let those who lack courage desert me. Let those retire who fail in resisting with iron will. There remain the brave with Gideon, and Gideon's brave will conquer."

Deplores Millo's Defection.

"I am alone. Even those nearest to me show signs of weakness. I must lift up their hands and guide them. Through all this anguish of fourteen months I have stood the test. I have resisted in the face of seemingly unconquerable obstacles all intrigues, threats and pressure. Now, when the final test comes to Italy to reject or accept this unjust treaty, I find so few strong men, strong enough to stand out for Italy's rights. Even my friend Millo, overcome by the entreaties of Rome, now vacillates and does not stand firmly by our sworn word.

"The Italian Government is sending representatives here daily to treat with me. They come with their promises and offers in an effort to make me yield. I laugh at such corruption as this. The Italian Government is full of corruption, cunnningly conceived. It is worse than tears.

"These envoys entreat me to leave Fiume and desert Dalmatia. They say: 'To you is triumph; to you is honor. You are the hero of the hour. You will be received in Rome in triumphant celebration as savior and liberator.'

"I am deaf to their flatteries. They have come with offers of all the honors the Government is capable of bestowing.

"I have lived and worked here under an intolerable blockade for fourteen months. It is a life of sacrifice; it is a beautiful life—a life full of magnificence and nobility. I live for that, a life of sacrifice.

"Honors, positions and decorations are nothing to me. They cannot weaken me with these empty entreaties. They may say that I am receiving money for staying. A franc a day is all that I receive. There is documentary proof of it. I am Commander and Foreign Minister. For these two positions I do not receive one cent. All that I relieve is 1 franc daily as a private soldier in the grenadiers. Every six days the paymaster brings me my 6 francs. Thirty francs a month—not a cent more do I receive.

"I meet my personal expenses by the sale of manuscripts, for which I am glad to say my agents are able to get good prices. But even my income from these now is decreasing, because I have so little time in which to write. I live a magnificent, noble life, unpolluted by corruption, chastened by sacrifice.

Admits Italians Are Against Him.

"So many people in Italy have been advising me to yield that it seems as if Italy at this moment wants to accept these proposals of Rapallo. I receive immense numbers of requests asking me to bend before the public demands, but I stand fast, I am strong enough to do it. I am alone, but I will stand. There is no fear in me. I fear nothing. I have challenged the world. It cannot threaten me. Sickness, pain, prison, death—all are now dead to me. I dare them all. I will stand.

"The Italian people today are perplexed and confused because of the intrigues and corruption which their leaders have been working upon them. In two months you will see that the Italian people will return to my standard. You have noticed even in Fiume some indifference, some perplexity. It will all pass away when the people begin to think. In two months the people will be glad that I have resisted and stood out against the tricks of the Government.

"I foresee these events. I can discern what is going to happen. I foresaw the downfall of the British dominions in the Near East, the defeat of Wrangel, the repudiation of Venizelos by the Greeks and the complete overthrow of President Wilson and his policies in the United States. I foresaw them all.

"You remember in December of last year, when Premier Nitti asked me to accept certain of his proposals, I refused, and how the people for a time condemned me for it? But I was right. Had we accepted Nitti's proposals we should now have had only the Wilson line as a boundary. We have received that guaranteed by the Treaty of London. We should wait still longer. The situation in Jugoslavia is unsettled. The new Government will overthrow Vesnitch and Trumbitch and there will be a big schism in that country from which Italy will profit and obtain all her just demands."

D'Annunzio held two conferences Saturday with General Caviglia, former Italian Minister of War, at both of which he manifested a determination to stay in Fiume until all his claims had been satisfied. General Caviglia held another conference later with representatives of d'Annunzio, at which the poet's stand was again maintained. General Caviglia has broken off the negotiations and will now await the decision of the Italian Government. D'Annunzio still occupies Arbe and Veglia.

Two transports carrying bersaglieri were leaving Fiume for an unknown destination yesterday. While the fate of the city is being decided, Fiume remains tranquil.

BELGRADE, Nov. 22.—Prince Regent Alexander of Jugoslavia has ratified the Treaty of Rapallo, settling the Adriatic question between Italy and Jugoslavia, according to an announcement made here today. The royal assent to the treaty was given Sunday.

Whitney Warren, recently appointed representative of Gabriele d'Annunzio and the State of Fiume in the United States, received this cablegram yesterday from d'Annunzio:

"The misleading and falsifying campaign of the European press continues. The interview of an officious newspaper reporter with General Peppino Garibaldi, affirming that Commander d'Annunzio will abide by the Treaty of Rapallo, is false.

"The Italian Regency of Quarnero does not recognize the Treaty of Rapallo. D'Annunzio will resist against everybody and everything in order not to betray his oath sworn to victorious Italy, and he never will permit the consummation of such betrayal against his brethren of Fiume and Dalmatia."

Crimmins Boys Get $4,500 a Year.

Surrogate Cohalan directed the payment yesterday of $4,500 a year each to John D. Crimmins 3d, and Holmes Crimmins, 16 and 12 years old, respectively, sons of John D. Crimmins Jr. The latter was divorced by Mrs. Lillian Crimmins, who then married Charles L. Hoffmann. The boys inherited a trust fund of $367,000 from their grandfather, the principal of which they will receive when they are 30 years of age.

Turkey Prices Rise 5c and 6c Over Last Year; Are Unreasonable, Says Market Commissioner

The turkey market was established yesterday at 52 to 54 cents a pound wholesale, it was announced by Mrs. Louis Reed Welzmiller, Deputy Commissioner of Public Markets.

Last year the same grade turkeys sold for 47 and 48 cents a pound, she said.

The retail price of dressed turkeys in the Washington Market ranged from 65 to 68 cents a pound, while in other markets in different parts of the city there was a greater variation in prices. One market was reported by Mrs. Welzmiller to be selling turkeys at 48 cents a pound. She said it was a new market, and the management had probably made this low price for advertising purposes.

Mrs. Welzmiller considered the established price as unreasonable, especially as the reports to her indicated that turkeys were more plentiful in this market than last year.

The retail price of cranberries, she said, is excessive. The wholesale price is 12 to 13 cents a pound and retail for 20 cents a pound.

Herbert Frankel of Frankel Brothers, wholesale dealers in live poultry, said that the wholesale price for live turkeys was 55 cents a pound. At retail live turkeys are selling as high as 75 cents a pound. Mr. Frankel said the demand for live turkeys was much greater than last year. He denied that live turkeys were plentiful in this market this year. On the other hand, he said, poultry other than turkeys was very plentiful. Roasting chickens were selling at 28 cents wholesale yesterday, while fowls brought 30 cents. Mr. Frankel said he expected a drop in these prices today or tomorrow because of the heavy supply. He remarked that despite the big demand for turkeys, the demand for chickens had increased over last year.

BERLIN SMUGGLER HAS BRITISH RECORD

FORTUNE PUT AT $10,000,000

One of His Devices Was to Take Teddy Bears Stuffed With Jewels to Holland.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—I have obtained some additional details of Grusser, the bank clerk, bucket shop keeper and millionaire who has carried out the smuggling of hundreds of millions of marks. For some years before the war he ran a bucket-shop in London. He came under the notice of the authorities on account of some highly suspicious transactions and for a little while he disappeared. Soon, however, he resumed his activities, operating with another German named Kuehne. Their firm was known under another name.

Two days before the war broke out Grusser fled to Holland, but Kuehne delayed his departure and was interned. For a time Grusser was employed by Wigmann's Bank in Holland as a clerk at a salary of about $35 a week, but later he joined the German army and served for some time on the West front as an officer of artillery. Here he came into contact with royalties and members of noble families whom he provided with numerous moneymaking tips.

So it was that in 1916, although still an officer on the active list, he obtained permission to go to Holland. There he carried out many business coups from which his highly placed friends doubtless benefited. As Grusser & Co. of Amsterdam, he went in for business of all sorts, mostly of shady character, such as food smuggling and profiteering. Later a Dutchman joined him as partner, and the firm became Grusser, Philipson & Co.

When the revolution broke out in Germany Grusser was wealthy enough to take into his employ numerous lackeys, chauffeurs and servants discharged at a week's notice, and without pensions, from royal households. His fortune was now reckoned at close upon $10,000,000.

"You needn't think so much of it," replied Grusser. "We have already saved her family 60,000,000 marks; so she can easily give you something."

Grusser's smuggling methods were exceedingly clever. With the money placed at his disposal by his distinguished clients he bought articles for which there was a demand abroad, obtained export permits from the Government for them and sold them in Holland. He then placed to the credit of his clients a sum corresponding to the amount which had been given him, and he also pocketed the handsome profits made on such transactions.

He used to go to Holland in a large automobile laden with trunks. In these trunks he would have such things as toys, Teddy bears and dolls, which would be stuffed with jewels, paper money and share certificates. Having a diplomatic passport and being well commended to the indulgence of the frontier authorities, he always got his luggage through practically without examination.

It was undoubtedly Grusser who smuggled most of the royal jewels out of Germany. Jewels and such valuable possessions are regarded in the same light as money and shares.

In this connection the Freiheit, the organ of the Independent Socialists, declares that there is another smuggling bank in existence. It is appropriately, though quite unintentionally, named Sinner & Co. This journal says that Ludendorff and a number of his former staff officers and many prominent industrial magnates are behind it, among them Hans Hirschler, known as the Hand Grenade King.

EX-KAISERIN'S FAMILY PAYING LAST VISITS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 22.—Prince Oscar and his wife arrived at Doorn today to visit the bedside of the ex-Kaiserin. Prince Eitel Frederick is expected soon and the ex-Crown Prince is coming from Wieringen again this evening.

It appears that the entire Hohenzollern family is making what may be their last visits to the ex-Empress, whose condition continues grave. She passed a good night, but was very weak and feverish, with a temperature this morning of 39 centigrade.

Princes Adalbert and Furstenburg returned to Germany today after greeting Oscar, as the physicians think it best not to disturb the patient by too many visitors at one time.

The Paris report that the ex-Kaiser is going to reside at Corfu at the invitation of Tino is received with much doubt here in Dutch official circles. While it is quite possible that the ex-Crown Prince, for whom no guarantees were given to the Allies, and who apparently is free to leave Holland at any time he wishes, could go to Corfu, so far as the Kaiser is concrned the Dutch Government has promised the Allies to guard Wilhelm in the prescribed area of Doorn, and he could leave Holland only after Holland had negotiatd with the Allies and gained their consent to this move. No negotiations along these lines have been taken, and so far as The Times is able to learn nothing is known in official circles of the reported invitation.

ARMENIANS TAKE ALEXANDROPOL

FRENCH ALSO DEFEAT TURKS

They Are Moving on Aintab, Where the Population Is Reported to Be Starving.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 20.—Hostilities have been resumed between Armenia and the followers of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader, says a dispatch received here from Angora.

A report from an Armenian source is to the effect that the Armenians launched a counter-offensive against the Turks and recaptured the town of Alexandropol, the Turkish commander, General Kiazim Kara Bekir, retiring toward Kars.

French troops have repulsed the Turks who attacked them in considerable force northeast of Tarsus. The French are moving from Osmanieh toward Aintab, where the population is reported to be nearly starved.

ATHENS, Nov. 20.—General Papoulas has been named by the Greek Government successor to General Paraskevopoulos, commander of Greek forces on the Smyrna front.

Lord Granville, British representative here, accompanied by George Rhallis, the new Greek Premier, today went on board the battleship Iron Duke, flagship of the British squadron which is anchored off Piraeus.

REDS AND NATIONALISTS BATTLE IN BOLOGNA

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Nov. 22.—Bologna, the headgaurters of the Italian Socialists, has had its Red Sunday in a frightful massacre which disgraced yesterday's inauguration of the new Bolshevist Town Council.

Seven men and a girl of 18 years were killed and sevenuty other persons, including eight soldiers of the Royal Guards wewre dangerously injured by bullets and bombs.

The trouble resulted from a counter-demonstration, organized by a Nationalist group of "Fascisti," or ex-Soldiers' League, ho, in spite of police veto, deluged the city with inflammatory handbills, proclaiming a day of open battle with the Bolsheviki and warning all prudent citizens who valued their lives to keep indoors.

Several thousand Socialists had gathered in Town Hall Square and about 400 more were inside witnessing the election of a railway Syndicalist, named Guidi, to the mayoralty. Peals from the city churches were clanging the traditional salute and a flock of carrier pigeons, decked with red ribbons had been dispatched with their messages from the upper windows of the Municipal Palace, when firing was heard in adjacent parts of the city, followed by news that Nationalists had stormed the historic Asinelli Tower and torn down the revolutionary flag from its lofty steeple.

Soon afterward the excited bands broke through the military cordon which had been drawn to prevent their march toward the Municipal Square. Within a few minutes bullets were whizzing on all sides and spectators began to fall amidst a rain of hand grenades.

The battle spread quickly to the Council Hall where two Councillors, Giordani and Colliva, belonging to the Minority, whose breasts were ablaze with medals won in the war, dropped dead with five bullets in each of their bodies. A third Councillor named Depiagi was killed by a bomb.

The assassins then fled, flinging away their weapons in the courtyard.

Meanwhile the firemen were busy picking up the many wounded outside, but the fury of the populace was such that police and soldiers were fired upon, even while conveying victims to the hospital.

When the Town Hall was finally surrounded, all the occupants were arrested. Staircases, courtyards and corridors were found littered with pistols, hand bombs and daggers, some of the latter having blades nine inches long.

Many captures of suspects have since been made. The right of holding public meetings has been suspended and every kind of motor traffic is forbidden.

Delays the Arnstein Trial.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Trial of Jules W. (Nicky) Arnstein and others held in connection with the $5,000,000 bond thefts in New York was postponed today until next Monday by Justice Gould of the District of Columbia Supreme Court. The delay was ordered to give counsel for the defendants an opportunity to examine documents obtained in the raids on the office of David W. Sullivan, Washington broker, who is among the accused.

FRENCH WON'T USE FORCE WITH GREECE

PLANS ECONOMIC PRESSURE

Paris Paper Says Allies Will Annul Sevres Treaty if the Ex-King Is Restored.

PARIS, Nov. 22.—The French Government will not oppose by physical force the return of Constantine to the Greek throne, which the Foreign Office now regards as inevitable, according to information given The Associated Press today.

The French policy which Premier Leygues would advocate at his meeting with Premier Lloyd George, it was stated, would be that a joint note be sent to the Greek people pointing out to them very strongly the consequences of Constantine's restoration, prominent among which would be the withdrawal of all financial and economic support.

The Foreign Office is convinced that the plebiscite to be held on the question of Constantine's return will be overwhelmingly in favor of that proposition, and this has caused a change in the French attitude. Incidentally it was said that the Foreign Office had no information of any postponement of the date for the plebiscite, set for next Sunday, as had been reported.

France and Great Britain, the Petit Parisien will say tomorrow, "will refuse to recognize Constantine if he reascends the throne" of Greece.

The two countries, says the Petit Parisien, very probably will reach an understanding to issue an identical declaration regarding Constantine's return, and "this declaration will be made before the interview Premiers Lloyd George and Leygues are expected to have in London."

The refusal to recognize Constantine, the Petit Parisien declares, "would mean that all the acts of the monarch and the Government he will direct will be considered null and void by France and Great Britain."

"It would be notably so for the ratification of the Treaty of Sèvres," the newspaper continues. "It is vain that the brother-in-law of William II. seeks to retain the advantages gained by Venizelos through a loyal alliance and faithful co-operation with the Western Powers. The friends of our enemies are not our friends.

Nation United, Says Gounaris.

ATHENS, Nov. 21 (Associated Press).—A semi-official statement issued today says the Chamber, which will meet next Saturday, will have the character of a Constituent Assembly, and that the Government will ask M. Stratos, the National Conservative Party leader, to take the Presidency of the Chamber.

In announcing the restoration to duty of officers who were dismissed from the army because of political opinions, the Government says that other officers will not be affected.

"Please call the attention of Americans to the fact that the nation is now united," said Demetrios Gounaris to The Associated Press today. "This is shown by the joy over the nation's deliverance during the last few days. We are no longer trying to assassinate others, as M. Venizelos predicted, because of his non-election."

Turks Make Demands on the Allies.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 20 (Associated Press).—The defeat of M. Venizelos, the Greek Premier, in the recent elections in Greece, has resulted in the Turkish Government formulating demands which are equivalent to a request for a revision of the Treaty of Sèvres.

The Stamboul Cabinet, through the Italian High Commissioner, has requested the Allies to suppress the inter-allied police on the ground that their maintenance is incompatible with Turkish sovereignty. It has also asked for the abolition of the allied control commission and noninterference by the Allies in Turkish internal affairs.

Constantine Quotes Lincoln.

Constantine, exiled King of Greece, in a cable message to the editor of Atlantis, a Greek language newspaper, received here yesterday, expressed appreciation to Greeks in America for their "cordial support in the cause of truth and justice." Constantine's message follows:

"I want, through you, to thank the Greeks in the United States of America for their cordial support in the cause of truth and justice. I also want to thank them for the numerous telegrams I have received from them.

"I cannot express my feelings better than in the words of Abraham Lincoln: 'With malice toward none, with charity for all, with firmness in the right as God gives us to see the right, let us strive on to finish the work we are here to do.'

"All of which may achieve and cherish just, lasting peace among ourselves and with all the nations.

GERMANS REJOICING IN VENIZELOS'S FALL

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 22.—The possibility of Constantine's return to Athens is giving great satisfaction in German reactionary circles, his Queen being the sister of the ex-Kaiser, and the ex-King himself being regarded as sufficiently imbued with what was once called "the spirit of Potsdam."

However, it seems that Potsdam has learned something from the events of the last two years, for it passed the word around the editorial rooms of the reactionary papers not to display too much enthusiasm regarding the return of Constantine, as that might endanger his chances with the Entente. Consequently, such papers as the Lokal-Anzeiger, the Kreuz-Zeitung and the Deutsche Tageszeitung content themselves with printing telegrams from Athens and Paris making it appear that Constantine's restoration is already assured, and that neither England nor France will object.

The same newspapers rejoice over the downfall of Venizelos, and the Democratic and Socialist press concurs, if for different reasons, the latter contending that the Greek people resented Venizelos's arbitrary and despotic methods as the Americans did those of Wilson, the French those of Clemenceau, and they say the Hungarians will depose Horthy in a very short time for the same reasons.

This morning the Potsdam propaganda organizations are circulating the following prophecy, which is said to be nearly a thousand years old and known throughout the Orient:

"When once again the Greek throne is occupied by one whose name is Constantinos and whose Queen is named Sophia, Constantinople will return to the Greek sceptre, and the crescent on the mosque of Hagia Sophia will make room for the cross."

Advances Newberry Case.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The Supreme Court today advanced to next Jan. 3 arguments in the case of Senator Truman Newberry, of Michigan, and others convicted of violation of the Corrupt Practices act.

16 Villa Men in New Mexico Are Pardoned by Governor

SANTA FE, N. M., Nov. 22.—Sixteen followers of the Mexican leader, Francisco Villa, who were sentenced to the New Mexico Penitentiary for life for participation in the historic raid across the border on Columbus, N. M., were pardoned today by Governor Larrazolo. All save one had pleaded guilty to second-degree murder, the other getting a commuted sentence for first-degree murder.

The Governor stated he believed the men were ignorant and not criminally responsible, and emphatically denied the report that the pardons were "to further friendly relations with Mexico." The Governor deeclared the raiders acted under duress, as they would have been killed for disobedience to Villa's orders, and says they told him they thought they were going to attack a Carranzista garrison at Palomas.

POLICE ARREST TWO IN STATE RUM DRIVE

O'Connor Says Owner May Not Take Liquor From Warehouse for Personal Use.

The police made two more arrests yesterday for violation of the State liquor tax law, which is the form of co-operation the Police Department, through Acting Commissioner Leach, has announced will be given the Federal authorities in enforcing prohibition in this city. This makes three arrests by the police under the State law, and it was reported yesterday that a vigorous campaign against illegal traffic in liquor was being planned.

Thomas J. Flanagan of 195 South Ninth Street, Brooklyn, was held in $250 bail for examination Dec. 6 by Magistrate Jesse Silberman, in Tombs Court. Flanagan was arrested by two patrolmen assigned to detective duty, who alleged that they entered a saloon at 82 Church Street and bought two glasses of whisky from Flanagan for $1.20.

John J. Amarmor of 308 West 108th Street, cashier in a café at 392 Sixth Avenue, was held in $500 bail for examination on Nov. 25 by Magistrate Schwab, in Jefferson Market Court. Detective Sheehan of the Second Inspection District, who made the arrest, alleged that he and another detective each bought a glass of whisky from Amarmor.

Ending an all-night cruise about the harbor in search of small craft carrying contraband liquor, Sergeant John J. Smith of the Marine Police, in charge of Launch No. 7, and Engineer John Cochrane, sighted a 20-foot motor boat off Quarantine shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning. The motorboat increased its speed when hailed by Sergeant Smith and was chased for nine miles before being overhauled by the police boat off Governor's Island.

Going aboard the motorboat, after the two men aboard it had surrendered, Sergeant Smith reported that he found twenty quarts of brandy. The men in the boat said they were Frank Susine and Michael Perroni, both of 242 Hamilton Avenue, Brooklyn. Charged with violating the Volstead act by transporting liquor, they were later arraigned before Commissioner Hitchcock, waived a hearing and furnished bail of $500 each.

Supervising Agent Boyd announced the seizure yesterday afternoon of thirty-five barrels of wine at 164 Allen Street and the arrest of Joseph Feldstein, who holds a permit to sell wine for sacramental purposes, charged with violating the Volstead act. Mr. Boyd said that Feldstein had just made application for the recovery of fifteen barrels of wine seized in a former raid.

Charles R. O'Connor, State Federal Prohibition Director, upon his return yesterday from Washington, gave his interpretation of the United States Supreme Court's decision in the William G. Street case relative to the possession and transportation of intoxicating liquors for private use.

"My interpretation," Mr. O'Connor said, "is that, to warrant the Prohibition Director in issuing a permit for the transportation and possession of liquors, such liquors must in truth and fact be in existence in private ownership and intended for consumption by the owner, his family or bona fide guests at the time the Federal prohibition amendment and Federal prohibition act took effect, and said liquors must also be and remain in the exclusive possession, custody and control of such owner from the time the constitutional amendment went into effect to the present time, and the tax must have been paid thereon.

"This interpretation will obtain in the New York office and in the State of New York until such time as a different interpretation, if any, is made by the Washington authorities. It is apparent under this interpretation that a person owning certificates for liquor in bond prior to the time the Federal prohibition amendment and act went into effect, which said liquor is under the custody and control of a bonded warehouse, is not entitled to withdraw said liquors for personal consumption because the act contemplates that only liquors in the exclusive custody, possession and control of an individual at the time same went into effect can be legally used for beverage purposes."

Wayne B. Wheeler, General Counsel of the Anti-Saloon League of America, who was in this city yesterday, declared that "every law-abiding citizen in the country will commend the New York police force in its effort to enforce the prohibition law."

William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, yesterday denied that the league wants a special State enforcement department to enforce the prohibition amendment. "The Anti-Saloon League in the recent campaign stated that Judge Miller's replies to its questions were satisfactory although the Judge had previously explicitly stated that he is opposed to a special State enforcement department and favors the execution of a State enforcement law by the duly constituted local officials," the statement said.

In Federal Court in Brooklyn yesterday, David De Joungh, Secretary-Treasurer of the Bacardi Corporation, entered a plea of nolo contendere to a charge of violating the Volstead act, and was fined $200 by Judge Garvin. The action against the defendant followed the seizure last June of $40,000 worth of rum belonging to the company while it was being taken to John E. Tench, proprietor of Holliswood Hall, a roadhouse at Hollis, L. I. De Joungh asserted that the rum was being distributed to stockholders in lieu of cash. The right of the concern to distribute liquor in that manner is yet undecided.

Gen. Townshend Elected to Commons

LONDON, Nov. 22.—Major Gen. Sir Charles Townshend, defender of Kut-el-Amara, was today declared elected to the House of Commons for Wrekin in the bye-election, made necessary by the death of Charles Palmer. General Townshend ran as an independent. His only opponent was Charles Duncan, Laborite.

WORK IS STARTED ON SUPPLY BILLS

House Appropriations Committee Plans Big Cut in Federal Clerks.

HOPES TO SAVE $100,000,000

Reductions Also Are Expected in Expenditures by War and Navy Departments.

PROMISES RIGID ECONOMY

Chairman Good Says Legislation Will Be Enacted to Check Reckless Expenditures.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The House Appropriations Committee, which will become part of the new Budget Committee, began today consideration of the sundry, civil and legislative, executive and judicial annual appropriation bills in the determination, according to Representative J. W. Good, Chairman of the committee, to cut the number of Government employes in the District of Columbia by at least 20,000 and reduce estimates of expenditures to the lowest possible figures.

Reorganization of bureaus, reductions and elimination of duplications are expected to result from the investigations now in progress by this committee. Mr. Good said that the only way the taxes could be reduced for some years to come would be by economies and he felt that it was the duty of this Congress to bring about a wholesale dismissal of unnecessary employes. It is estimated that fully $100,000,000 can be saved in dismissal of employes and consolidations of bureaus.

In the absence of the budget system this work will be conducted by the Appropriations Committee, but Chairman Good hopes to report a bill that will show the taxpayer that the reorganization has been made solely for the good of the service and with due regard to the present high taxes.

Big reductions in the army and navy appropriation bills are also expected from this inquiry. Members of these committees say that the election returned a verdict against heavy expenditures for war purposes and that only the things deemed absolutely necessary to these branches of the service will be allowed.

It has been figured out that in the present fiscal year 80 cents of every dollar collected in taxes went to pay for past wars or prepare for future ones. This includes pensions, rehabilitation, vocational training, war risk and the budgets necessary to the maintenance of the army and navy. The amount will be gradually reduced, it is said, and, if possible, the percentage cut to 70 and the other expenses curtailed so that there will be a Treasury surplus in the next fiscal year.

"I suppose that rigid legislation will have to be enacted to restrict reckless expenditures," said Mr. Good. "Take the War Department for example. They are spending hundreds of thousands of dollars for advertising for enlisted men, while they already have 25,000 more than the size of the army authorized by Congress. The War Department is headed toward a deficit of $50,000 to $100,000 if its present rate of expenditures is not checked."

Mr. Good said that he hoped to see the budget bill a law before March 4 so that President-elect Harding could appoint a budget force without delay. In his opinion it will be necessary to have this force go to work in April so that it can send budget estimates to Congress in December next year.

HUNGARIAN UNITARIANS EXPECT $1,000,000 HERE

PARIS, Nov. 22.—A Budapest dispatch to the Hungarian Agency says that special agents of the Unitarian Church of Hungary will be sent to New York to bring back $1,000,000, which the Budapest papers assert the Unitarian Church in America will lend.

The Rev. Dr. Walter Reid Hunt of Orange, N. J., when the dispatch from Paris was read to him last evening, said that there must be a mistake, as no such loan could have been arranged for without his knowledge. Dr. Hunt is Secretary of the New York area for the $3,000,000 campaign which the American Unitarian Association is now conducting, and in which $1,600,000 has been pledged. He is pastor of the Unitarian Church in Orange. As Campaign Secretary, his offices are in the parish house of All Souls' Unitarian Church, Fourth Avenue and Twentieth Street, in this city. Dr. Hunt said that none of the $3,000,000 could be sent to Hungary, because the agreement governing its collection distinctly stated that it was to be used for Unitarian work in this country.

FIRM FAILS, OFFICIAL HELD.

J. Filmore Cox, 36, of 36 Edwards Court, Bayonne, President of the Cox Auto Pipe Bending Company, was arraigned before Recorder William J. Cain in Bayonne yesterday charged with failure to account for $1,269 sent to his company by the Sun Shipbuilding Company of Chester, Pa., and $4,039 remitted by the American International Shipbuilding Company at Hog Island. Cox pleaded not guilty and was remanded to jail following failure to furnish $10,000 bail.

Matthew T. Cronin, former Mayor of Bayonne and Treasurer of the Cox company, which is in the hands of a receiver, filed the complaint. Cox asserted he was being persecuted and not prosecuted. Cronin said the charges were in no way connected with irregularities disclosed through the hearings of the Congressional Committee on Shipping Board Operations.

Admiral Packenham Here.

Vice Admiral Sir William C. Pakenham, Commander-in-Chief of the British North Atlantic and West Indies Fleet, arrived yesterday from Bermuda on the steamship Fort Hamilton on his way to Washington to pay an official call upon the British Ambassador, Sir Auckland Geddes. Sir William, who was commander of the British battle cruiser squadron after Admiral Beatty took command of the Grand Fleet, is accompanied by Flag Lieutenant Leicester Curzon Howe.

Before returning to Bermuda the Admiral will visit Ottawa to pay his respects to the Governor General.

POLICE THREATEN; CROOKS KEEP BUSY

$20,000 BOND THEFT LATEST

While Acting Police Commissioner Leach was issuing a warning yesterday to Chicago crooks to stay away from this city, his subordinates were having a lively day with New York's own crooks. While the Commissioner was pointing to the large number of vacant cells in this city, detectives trying to solve the Palmer gem theft mystery were reporting that they had not been able to fill any of the cells or recover any part of the stolen gems and furs, which were valued by Mrs. Charlotte King Palmer at $767,000.

The biggest theft reported yesterday was that of nearly $20,000 in bonds and securities from the Union Sulphur Company in the Whitehall Building, but scores of smaller robberies came to light.

Speaking of the recent police sweep-up of criminals in Chicago, Commissioner Leach outlined his plans for receiving lawless fugitives who get the idea that this city would be a nice place to spend the Winter.

"We will meet them and put them in jail," he said. "There are still many vacancies in our jails, and I wish to serve notice in advance on all Chicago crooks and those from other cities to keep away from New York. We have enough policemen and detectives to meet and adequately cope with any situation that may arise in the wake of the Chicago raids. So the best thing for crooks who value their liberty is to stay away from this city."

Disregarding police "deadlines," thieves some time Saturday night or Sunday stole about $20,000 in bonds, cash and securities from the safe of the Union Sulphur Company on the twenty-eighth floor of the Whitehall Building at 117 Battery Place. This is within the police zone where no ex-convict or criminal with a record is supposed to venture.

Within the office building is another "deadline," maintained at night and on Sundays by special watchmen. Every person entering the building is supposed to register his name and address and the office he intends to visit. This list shows no suspicious visitors on Sunday, and one theory is that the robbers might have secreted themselves in the building during business hours on Saturday, when all persons are free to enter and leave at their pleasure. It is believed they obtained the combination of the safe from a book in the office. They overlooked about $2,000 worth of securities in a separate drawer, but got away with nearly $20,000 worth of bonds.

Forty picked detectives under Detective Sergeant James Bresnan are to keep an eye out for crooks in the Christmas season in the district bounded by Twenty-third and Fifty-ninth Streets on the south and north and Madison and Seventh Avenues on the east and west. They will start work immediately and keep at it until Jan. 10.

Two men walked into the home of Henry Fettel, a retired insurance man, at 187 Linden Avenue, Flatbush, beat him severely and looted the house of $5,000 worth of jewelry. Policeman Edward Lawler gave chase to one of the men as he left the house and caught him. The prisoner confessed. He described himself as Walter Phiney, ex-soldier, of Boston, who has been living lately in West Sixty-first Street, Manhattan.

Mr. Fettel was at breakfast when the thieves rang the front-door bell. They seized him, beat him and took a five-carat diamond ring from his finger, as well as other jewels. Hearing the commotion, Mrs. Fettel and a maid ran up from the basement laundry, and the robbers ran out of the house.

It became known yesterday that burglars entered the home of Dr. E. Florence Gair, daughter of Robert Gair, at 1,143 Bergen Street, Brooklyn, last Tuesday, and stole $3,000 worth of jewelry, including some antique gems. Other places robbed in Brooklyn lately were the gift shop of Miss L. C. Winter at 1,077 Bergen Street, the grocery of K. H. Muller at Bergen Street and Nostrand Avenue, and the apartment of Mrs. Emily Platte at 1,250 Bedford Avenue.

Detectives trying to solve the mystery of the robbery of Mrs. Charlotte King Palmer have so far run against stone walls in all directions in following their meagre clues. Captain Duane and other detectives visited Mrs. Palmer again yesterday in her home, at 59 East Ninetieth Street, to get additional information from her, and Mrs. Palmer still insisted on her theory that the robbery was planned in a nearby garage.

According to detectives, the knife found in Mrs. Palmer's house on Sunday, at first believed to have been the property of one of the thieves who used it to cut cords to bind the servants, belonged to a member of the Police Department who visited the house after the robbery. But it has not yet been returned to its alleged owner. Mrs. Palmer also turned over to the detectives a small tin box which she said had been found on the floor of an upstairs bedroom. She said it did not belong to her, and the detectives are trying to find out where it came from. Mrs. Palmer yesterday offered a reward of $10,000 for the return of her jewels.

A man describing himself as Waino Anderson was arrested by police yesterday as he ran out of the drug store of Egidro Caracciolo at Madison Avenue and 125th Street with a handful of money. The proprietor said the man had snatched it from the cash register. Anderson admitted it and was taken to the West 125th Street Station. A man who called himself Frank Hill of Maywood, N. J., was arrested on suspicion of aiding Anderson.

Four men were arrested by the police of Montclair, N. J., yesterday as they were trying to break open a safe taken from the store of the National Beef Company at East Orange. Policemen heard the men hammering on the combination of the safe in a thicket near the estate of Edmund B. Osborne, and, with revolvers ready, crawled up on the party. The men tried to buy off the policemen with $300.

ARMY REBOUGHT AT A LOSS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Immediate revision of the present method of disposing of surplus Government stores to prevent speculators from buying Federal property from one department, and reselling to another branch of the Government at a higher figure, is recommended in the annual report of Major Gen. J. L. Chamberlain, Inspector General of the army, to the Secretary of War, made public today.

The necessity for the proposed action is indicated by a recent investigation which disclosed that one department of the Government sold surplus cement for $1 per ton to a civilian who immediately resold the same cement to a branch of the War Department for $6 a ton, the report states.

Concerning hazing at the Military Academy at West Point, General Chamberlain said that while the practice had not yet been entirely eliminated, considerable favorable progress had been made to that end.

Criticism of the hospital facilities at Camp Benning, Georgia, is voiced in the report, the equipment there being characterized as "entirely inadequate."

Prompt measures to check abuse of the army uniform are recommended, the report declaring that "civilian authorities have not always co-operated to stop such abuse."

Other recommendations of the Inspector General include:

More care with regard to promises made to recruits, particularly with regard to the army's educational courses, in order that all pre-enlistment promises may be fully complied with.

Abandonment of civilian instructors at army schools.

Renewal of the clothing allowance system for enlisted men, a change in the type of collar on the service coat and more care in seeing that each recruit has one new, well-fitting uniform.

Revision of the post exchange system.

Replacement of temporary buildings with permanent structures at all permanent camps.

Consolidation of air service units as far as possible and replacement of civilian employes in this branch with enlisted personnel.

Adoption of suitable headgear for service in the tropics.

Revision of the property accountability system.

Favorable progress is being made in building up army morale after the depression incident to the demobilization of the emergency forces, the report says, and discipline has greatly improved owing to the eradication of unsatisfactory conditions.

A clean bill of health is given to the forces in Germany by the Inspector General with the exception of proficiency at target practice. The defect is due, he says, to the large percentage of new men and the lack of experienced officers to supervise their training.

SEEKS TO ENJOIN SECRETARY DANIELS

HE FORBADE INSTALLATION

War and State Departments Are Co-operating With Him, the Secretary Says.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22. — Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, was made defendant in a petition filed today by the Western Union Telegraph Company in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in connection with the efforts of the telegraph company to land a telegraph cable between Miami and Miami Beach, Fla. The company seeks an injunction restraining the Secretary of the Navy from intrfring with the construction of the cable, and instructing the Secretary and subordinate officers and officials of the navy to cease threats to destroy the cable.

In its petition the company asserts that this cable is distinct from its Barbados cable, whose construction was prevented by a United States warship this month. The Miami cable, it is contended, is merely the replacment of an existing cable that has been in operation since 1899. The company asserts that $100,000 already spent on the cable will be lost unless the Secretary of the Navy is enjoined from interference.

It is set forth by the Western Union Company that permission to construct the Miami cable was granted by the Secretary of War under acts of Congress of 1866 and 1899, and that the line was subjected to a detour in 1917 to permit dredging in Miami Bay. When the causeway between Miami and Miami Beach was completed, last February, the company laid its cable in a conduit within the causeway, but was prevented by Rear Admiral Anderson from completing the connection. The War Department, the company asserts, had approved the plans permitting the connection on the causeway.

Admiral Anderson refused to recognize the permit of the Wa Department, the Court was told, and when an appeal was made to the Secretary of the Navy he upheld Admiral Anderson's action and recently notified the company that if the lines were connected they would be cut.

As a result of the war between the State Department and the Western Union, the department has stopped sending cable messages through that company.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22 (Associated Press).—Secretary Daniels said today that he had turned the matter of the Western Union's injunction proceedings over to the Solicitor of the Navy Depatment for investigation, with instructions to report tomorrow. He added that he was working with the State Department in the cable case and had issued instructions to naval forces in the vicinity of Miami to prevent the landing of any cable, either to Barbados or elsewhere, in that vicinity.

Secretary Baker said he had withdrawn permission previously granted to the Western Union Company for the laying of a cable between Miami and Miami Beach, Florida. This action had been taken, he said, in an effort to help get the entire cable situation cleared up.

WOULD RUN YALE COMMONS.

Private Interests Offer to Take Them Over If 1,000 Students Sign.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 22.—The problem of feeding undergraduate Yale which developed unexpectedly last week with the announcement that Commons would close tomorrow seemed likely to be solved today. Private parties now offer to take over Commons beginning next week, provided 1,000 men sign up by Saturday.

The university is closing Commons because only about 750 have patronized the place, while the equipment and staff could have handled twice that number without additional outlay. Rather than face a deficit the corporation decided that Commons should close.

As several hundred students would find it difficult to obtain meals except at great inconvenience, an appeal was made to have Commons reopened. Table runners canvassed, and with assurances that 1,000 would regularly eat there, and upon suggestion of the student council, managers of a private dining place offer to take the hall over for an experiment.

MUST PREPAY IN OUR MONEY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today approved an order requiring the payment in United States money and prepayment of charges on shipments between Canada and the United States.

The effect of the action would be to require shippers to prepay in American money charges for interstate transportation wholly within the United States. American railroads would thus be protected against loss by reason of depreciation in Canadian money.

Rhode Island Plant Suspends.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., Nov. 22.—The American Wringer Works here has closed its wringer department until Dec. 6 because of general business depression and market conditions, according to the official notice. Six hundred employes are affected. The mechanical roll department will remain in operation.

THE BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday. 8 per cent. for the best names
Saturday..7¾ to 8 per cent. for the best names
The quotations are for six months' paper.

Gray Goods a Bit More Active.

Gray goods, more particularly printcloths, were a bit more active in this market yesterday than they have been of late. The sales were all for shipment during the remainder of this month, and they included 39-inch 80 squares at 11 cents, 72-76s at 10½ cents and 68-72s at 9½ cents. For 38½-inch 64-60s buyers again paid 7½ cents. Sheetings did not show much snap. Transactions in 6.15-yard goods were made for November shipment at 5½ cents. Fine yarn cloths and specialties were also quiet.

Gift Orders Favored.

In view of the pronounced tendency toward thrift on the part of the public, it is thought probable that gift orders or certificates will find a wider use this year during the holiday buying than in previous seasons. Stores that featured such gifts last year are understood to be preparing a more intensive application of the idea for the coming holidays. The orders are neatly engraved certificates made out in specified sums, thus enabling the recipient to make purchase of anything within the amount noted.

Late Start for Garment Lines.

Sentiment among leading garment wholesalers seems opposed to making an early start on the showing of Spring lines. While these have been prepared, no definite date has been fixed by the larger houses for sending out salesmen. The principal desire of the retailers at present is to pick up job lots for sales to be held during January. New lines appear to get scant consideration, as it is felt that the results of the coming sales will in a large way determine the plans for the Spring season. Price remains the chief consideration, and new style features do not receive a very appreciative hearing.

Do Not Expect It to Last.

The increase in buying of unfinished cotton fabrics here yesterday was not regarded by experienced men in the trade as anything more than a flash in the pan. They were of the opinion that neither buyers nor sellers are yet certain enough of the future to trade in a large way. That the buyers are unwilling to gamble on the future trend of the market, it was asserted, is shown by their refusal to lay down orders for goods wanted for delivery later than the next three or four weeks. In many cases, buyers will not trade beyond delivery dates, which practically amount to spots. As long as such restrictions on deliveries remain, it is contended that restrictions on quantities will also continue.

Discussing an Auction.

Opinion is divided among garment and clothing manufacturers concerning the advisability of a large woolen auction at which buyers could make their own prices. It seems to be the impression in these trades that the values on new goods would suffer by comparison with the prices obtained for spot merchandise. On the other hand, the woolen buyers believe there is urgent need of some action toward stabilizing values in the materials they purchase. In all sincerity a mill agent, they explain, can make a bottom price one day only to make a further reduction the next in order to save business from going to a competitor. While this condition exists, buyers cannot see their way clear toward operating on a normal scale.

A Choice of Evils.

According to a retail executive, the stores are at present faced with a double problem, which makes necessary a choice between two evils. Buyers are anxious for even lower prices than have appeared, and yet they realize that to demand further reductions means striking at the purchasing power of the country. "To get lower prices," said the man referred to, "the manufacturers tell us wages must be reduced, and continued liquidation means, of course, more idle workers. The stores know they face a reduced volume of sales if they keep insisting upon lower prices. Some believe lower prices are the answer, and others are in favor of a more gradual liquidation that will not hurt labor and interfere with the consuming power."

Use of Ribbons Is Broadening.

The use of ribbons in the local millinery trade is broadening and manufacturers are bringing out new things with which to fill the demand. Narrow ribbon is most in vogue at the present time, being used to cover the front of off-the-face brims. It is either laid in parallel rows, with dangling ends at the side of the brim, or is appliquéd in loops. Bands of narrow ribbon are also used to circle crowns, as well as to make rosettes and other trimmings.

Among the favored ribbons is a grosgrain effect with a picot edge. It is embroidered in a floral design in contrasting colors. Among the wider ribbons is shown a moiré effect striped with flowered satin. It is used for all-ribbon hats, as well as for sashes and bows.

Buying Spring Clothing.

The advice of a large clothing concern to its retail customers urging them to withhold their purchases for Spring was one of the principal topics of discussion yesterday in the local wholesale market. It was felt that, regardless of any counsel of the sort, the retailers have shown that they are not ready to operate. The retail sentiment at the moment is to await the outcome of the sales of surplus merchandise now being conducted by the manufacturers. Their interest is held by these sales to the exclusion of Spring orders. An early Easter makes possible the purchase of Fall suits for supplying the consumer demand at that time, and some retail buyers have already decided to limit their purchases for the new season to goods that can be picked up now, with an occasional small order for new garments to serve as "sweeteners."

Suppose They Can't Pay?

One of the principal topics of discussion yesterday in the downtown dry goods trade, which lately has taken on the aspect of a debating society in the continued absence of business, was the statement of Secretary Houston of the Treasury Department that final instalments of the 1919 taxes will have to be paid on Dec. 15. Out of the various arguments on the matter one vital question arose: what will happen to the firm that absolutely cannot make its last payment? With many concerns unable to obtain additional money from their banks, with accounts receivable being settled slowly, with many orders canceled or goods rejected, and with adequate reserves lacking, it was asserted that more than one house is likely to find itself in an unenviable position. Selling the concern out with the market in its present state would, it was said, not only be difficult for the Government, but none too profitable.

Going Slowly With Hosiery.

Although cotton hosiery for Spring, as far as first hands are concerned, has apparently reached bottom and it is possible to buy certain qualities of women's silk hose here as cheaply as $7 a dozen for immediate delivery, makers of the finer grades of the latter goods are still inclined to make haste slowly in regard to making Spring prices. Ordinarily, leading houses would not only have made Spring prices long ago, but by this time they would have had the great bulk of their advance business on their books. This year, due to the marked uncertainty of conditions, none of the high-grade stuff has yet been priced. Just how high the new quotations will be is a question. Skilled labor costs remain up, and the best kinds of raw silks, while cheaper than they have been, may make up at least some of the drop as a result of the closing of the Japanese filatures.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

For yesterday's rather emphatic recovery on the Stock Exchange, the further lowering of the call money rate was only in part responsible. In the later hours of business the rate declined to 5 per cent., which as it happens, is actually a lower figure than any hitherto touched in 1920. As may be supposed, most of the day's business was done at a rate nearer to the 7 per cent. opening quotation than to the 5 per cent. closing; but the quotation stands. So far as it had any special significance, it reflected on the one hand the undoubtedly favorable Reserve Bank statements published after Saturday's market had closed, and on the other hand the natural effect on the demand loan market of last week's extensive Stock Exchange liquidation. Even if it were to be continued, a 5 per cent. rate on that class of loans would naturally not indicate the general condition of credit. Merchants' paper and time loans on Stock Exchange collateral continued yesterday to bring 8 per cent. or more, and loans are occasionally being made at that rate with maturities running well into next year.

The recovery in stocks began before the call money rate declined; in fact, a considerable part of the day's advance in many stocks was scored on the opening transactions. Half a dozen industrial shares and three or four of the railways were quoted a point or more above last week's closing on the first transaction. Reactions from these initial advances occurred, but very few stocks went back to Saturday's figures, and in all of them the advance was resumed afterward. The day's gains ranged from 3 to 9 points in many active stocks; most of the market closed at or near the best figures of the day. Possibly the news of the transfer of a large block of General Motors into strong hands, after its recent decline in price, had some influence in reassuring dealers in such stocks. But the day's recovery had other and larger causes; perhaps it was best explained by the simple fact that a day spent away from Wall Street sometimes makes it possible for people to see things in less distorted perspective. Business on the Stock Exchange again exceeded a million shares, making, with two exceptions, the ninth consecutive five-hour day which has reached that total.

Sterling exchange advanced 6¾ cents, to $3.53¼, marking a total recovery of 20⅝ cents from the rate of two weeks ago today. Yesterday's rate was the highest quoted since the third week of September, when it may be said that the Autumn decline in both the stock market and the foreign exchange market began. It is a matter of some significance that the beginning of that fall in sterling coincided precisely with the tightening of call money, the establishment of the 10 per cent. rate and the downward turn in the Federal Reserve system's reserve percentage; that the season's low level for sterling was reached when call money was tightest and the reserve ratio at the season's lowest, and that the subsequent recovery in sterling has closely accompanied the lowering of call money rates and the rising of the reserve percentage; both of which also began two weeks ago.

It would hardly be necessary to refer to this evidence of Wall Street money stringency as the cause for the recent break in sterling, but for the fact that so many other incidents in the situation have been so persistently alleged as the actual cause. If the state of our own export trade had been the paramount influence, sterling would not have declined at all, for the decrease in outbound traffic has been very great. How far that decrease was effective in the October foreign trade, the forthcoming official statement of that month's total exports and imports will presently inform us.

Other European exchanges followed sterling upward and closed at the best of the day. The silver bullion market again moved differently; its price declined 1¼ penny per ounce at London and 1 cent at New York. Foreign silver sold in our market at 74 cents, very much the lowest price since early in 1917. This present decline may now be said to measure not only the breakdown of one of the many ill-judged speculations of the day, but the progressive reaction of trade in the Far East.

MONEY.

MONDAY, NOV. 22, 1920.

Money on call on the Stock Exchange Monday, opened, renewed and was high at 7 per cent., low and last 5 per cent. This is the lowest rate for call funds since Dec. 19, 1919. There was an easement in time money as well, 4, 5 and 6 months' funds, mixed collateral, was quoted 7½, 7¾ per cent., a shading of ¼ of 1 per cent. On all industrial collateral, same periods, rate quoted was 7¾@8 per cent. against 8@8¼ per cent. Rate on commercial paper obtains at 8 per cent. on very choice names, 8¼ per cent. on others. Borrowing has fallen off limiting to some extent sales. New paper is obtainable only in fair amounts.

STERLING POINTS WAY FOR EXCHANGE RALLY

Rise of 6 3-4 Cents in London Rate Brings Best Level Since Sept. 20.

Foreign exchange quotations advanced briskly yesterday, reflecting the declining tendency of money rates. Sterling sight drafts rose from 3.46½ to 3.53¼, closing at the top with a net gain of 6¾ cents. The rate was the highest since Sept. 20. Francs also left off at the best quotation of the day, this being 6.24, compared with 6.09 on Saturday. The quotation was the highest since Nov. 3 and marks at 1.58 were at the highest level since Oct. 9. The Continental exchanges gained ground generally.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

An Over-Sold Market.

The display of yesterday in the stock market, with prices going forward by leaps and bounds, was sufficient evidence of that which Wall Street has been talking about for a long time—an over-sold condition. It was inconceivable that the decline, which has been in progress for more than two weeks, could continue indefinitely. The very fact, however, that the market failed to rally probably gave more than customary assurance to those who were selling stocks, hence there was a decidedly sharp rebound from the low point when the market after long delay, began to advance. Any decline in the stock market is carried far beyond the realms of reason by those operating for the decline and in the present instance it has been the belief of the financial district for a number of days that actual values were being too little considered in the continued outpouring of stock. The usual fate that befalls the bears who overstay their position came to pass yesterday and when covering began on an extensive scale it was discovered that many issues were not to be had without bidding for them.

Sharp Rally in Industrials.

It was natural to expect that the most pronounced demonstration on the forward side would originate in the industrials. This is the group of stocks which has been under the most severe pressure both because of liquidation of actual long stock and persistent short selling. As has been pointed out, it is rather a dangerous experiment to sell stocks to the point where one is actually selling dollars short and this was exactly the case in a number of issues. In other words there were not a few companies that had placed earnings back in the company since 1914 that exceeded or equaled the selling price of the stock a few days ago. If recent prices were a true measure of worth it was to be assumed that prior to 1914 the companies would liquidate nothing at all on sale. This of course was a ridiculous premise, but it shows to what extremes a stock market reaction may be carried at a time when rumors of impending trouble are whispered on every hand.

Scale and Odd Lot Buying.

During the last week at any rate there has been a steady depletion of the floating supply of stocks through scale buying. Added to this there has been the odd lot buying, not usually of the scale variety, but large in the aggregate. Those who have been doing the buying are of the bargain hunting type and judging by the advances which took place yesterday some handsome profits have rolled up.

Consolidation Rumors.

Reports from Washington which reached the financial district yesterday to the effect that the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing on the Chicago, Burligton & Quincy's application for authority to increase its capital was apparently enough to start in motion another crop of railroad rumors. These were not so prevalent in stock market circles as they were in railroad quarters and one or two of them were of more than passing interest as they were new. The latest one was to the effect that Union Pacific may take over the Chicago Great Western and Chicago & Alton as an Eastern outlet for its traffic. And the story yesterday went even further, the suggestion being made that Union Pacific might do well to get Erie and so complete its transcontinental line. In conservative quarters the chance that either Erie or Chicago Great Western would be absorbed by the Union Pacific was not considered probable, but with regard to Chicago & Alton which is closely related to Union Pacific, now the majority opinion was that such a consolidation would be a good one. The drawback to this, according to some railroad men yesterday would be that Chicago & Alton runs to Kansas City where its Western terminal is situated while the Union Pacific's Eastern terminal is several hundred miles North and West at Omaha.

Rail Shares Recover.

Southern Pacific gained more than three points over the Saturday closing price and a part of the gain was made in the last hour of trading it being apparent that some of the shorts were buying stock rather than to continue short of it over night. But the recovery was not confined to Southern Pacific alone in the railroad group. The recovery was quite general, such issues as St. Paul common and preferred gaining 2 and more than 3 points respectively while Baltimore & Ohio, Rock Island, Lehigh Valley, Pennsylvania, Reading, and Union Pacific were all in better demand and moved into higher ground easily.

October Railroad Earnings.

Speculation as to the showing the railroads will make in their earnings reports for October, the second month of operation under the increased freight and passenger rate schedules, announced some time ago, has already started. But opinions differ as to what the result will be. In the case of many of the roads which have disposed of the troublesome expense item of back pay, and where traffic has not fallen off appreciably, the figures will be better, but it is still evident that the October reports will fail to show a true picture of returns under the new rates. While the Interstate Commerce Commission has ruled regarding the New York State rates and has ordered that rates be advanced to meet the level of interstate rates, no reflection of this will be shown in the reports for October, and just how soon there will be a reflection of improvement due to this remains entirely upon the final settlement of the authority of the I. C. C. in the matter of rates. This may be a long drawn out affair as the opposing State regulating bodies may take the matter up separately, especially if the final decision with regard to the New York State ruling is long delayed. It had been hoped that the matter would be cleared up before the end of 1920 but it now appears that it will not be settled until the turn of the year.

Silver at New Low.

Bar silver at 74 cents a fine ounce yesterday was at the lowest price since April 28, 1917, when it was quoted at the same price. On March 27, 1917, the price was down to 71¾ cents a fine ounce. The London price yesterday was 47⅝d., which still is above the low for the current year. Far Eastern exchanges yesterday also broke sharply. Bullion dealers seem to think that the price now is pointed definitely downward and say that all that is sustaining it is the fact that the United States Mint is taking all "American" silver at the dollar-an-ounce fixed price. If this were to be eliminated, the dealers say, silver probably would break under 50 cents an ounce.

The Cuban Situation.

Private advices from Cuba say that it has been virtually agreed by Government officials and leading financial and commercial interests to have the moratorium extended, but here it is not known how long the extension will run. It also was reported yesterday that some form of emergency currency either is in use or shortly will be put into service in the island. The grinding season, which usually starts about Dec. 1, is expected to be delayed this year, partly for the reason that a good deal of machinery which is needed for the rehabilitation of the mills has not been made available as yet.

Mark Exchange.

The indications are that a new speculation of rather large proportions has started up in German exchange. Yesterday there was a very active market and at times quotations around the Street were not at all uniform, different dealers quoting marks several points apart at the same time. On the day the rate was up about 12½ points net. Those who specialize in German exchange say that the new speculation is being directed almost entirely into straight bills of exchange, with no side play in German municipal or other bonds, as was the case a year ago when a big volume of mark business was moving.

Low Prices for Bonds

Bond prices are low. No one disputes it. That they will eventually reach higher levels is also true. It may take longer for prices to approach normal than some authorities believe, but a good long term bond purchased now is the best kind of investment for the average individual.

NEWENGLAND ROADS SEEK FURTHER AID

REPORT INCREASING DEFICIT

They Suggest New Freight Adjustments as One Immediate Means of Relief.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Unless immediate financial relief is afforded the New England railroads, "all or most of them will very shortly be driven into receiverships," the Interstate Commerce Commission was told today by Charles F. Choate Jr. and Wilbur La Roe Jr. counsel for the lines.

Counsel for the roads said that for the eight months ended last Aug. 31 the actual deficit in the net railway operating income of the roads, excluding the Boston & Albany, a part of the New York Central system, was $23,674,676, and that estimates for next year showed a net railway operating income of about $10,000,000, or $40,000,000 less than the net railway operating income required by the Transportation act to show 6 per cent. on the fair value of the property.

The commission was told that the actual returns to the roads in September and the estimated returns for October under the increased rates granted under the Transportation act confirmed that the income received by the roads was not sufficient to meet their requirements.

As one means of relief the roads asked for a readjustment of the division of freight rates on through traffic between roads west of the Hudson River and those east of that river. In this request the roads were joined by R. T. Higgins, Chairman of the Connecticut Public Utilities Commission and Henry C. Atwell, of the Massachusetts Public Utilities Commission.

It was stated that this would be $22,000,000 less than the amount required to meet fixed charges. The book cost of the lines was placed at more than $838,247,769 and it was pointed out that an annual return of 6 per cent. on this amount would be $50,296,485.

"The fixed charges of the New England roads as of August, 1920," said counsel for the lines, "are $37,641,465, against which there is available non-operating income of $5,853,404, leaving what may be called 'net' fixed charges of $31,788,061, or nearly $22,000,000 in excess of their net railway operating income.

"Fixed charges must be met or receiverships will inevitably follow. And receiverships would be disastrous from every point of view, for outstanding bonds and debentures now bearing interest from 3½ per cent. to 5 per cent. would have to be refunded at much higher rates. New capital would be unobtainable from private sources. The Government is vitally interested, for it has already loaned the New England roads $100,000,000."

Counsel said the New York, New Haven & Hartford road had paid no dividends since October, 1915, a loss to stockholders of $60,000,000.

"The Boston & Maine," counsel continued, "has paid no dividends on its own stock since 1913, a loss to stockholders of $14,000,000. By its reorganization effected Dec. 1, 1919, the Boston & Maine converted about $2,500,000 annual leased line rentals from fixed charges to preferred dividends and the holders agreed to a 20 per cent. reduction in dividends for five years. If these dividends are not met, the bonds of the Boston & Maine will cease to be legal investments for Massachusetts savings banks."

The attention of the commission was directed to the commission's statement in the general freight rate increase case in which it stated that "the evidence as to the disproportionate needs of the New England lines makes it desirable that the carriers give careful consideration to the divisions of joint rates accruing to these lines. Argument then was offered in favor of a more equitable allotment of the division of rates east and west of the Hudson River.

United Railways Company of St. Louis

Receiver's Three Year 7% Certificates of Indebtedness

To be dated October 1, 1920 To mature October 1, 1923

Series A, Authorized and presently to be issued, $4,200,000. Coupon Certificates in $1,000 denomination. Interest payable April 1 and October 1. Principal and interest payable in New York at Guaranty Trust Company of New York and in St. Louis at First National Bank in St. Louis. Redeemable at the option of the Receiver on any interest date, upon four weeks' notice, at 101½ and interest on or before April 1, 1922; at 101 and interest on October 1, 1922; and at 100½ and interest on April 1, 1923.

APPROVED BY THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION OF MISSOURI AND THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

PURPOSE OF ISSUE

The proceeds of this issue will be applied toward the payment of $1,900,000 St. Louis Railroad Company First Mortgage 4½% Bonds, due May 1, 1920, and to reimburse the Receiver for funds used to retire $2,300,000 United Railways Company of St. Louis Receiver's One Year 6% Certificates of Indebtedness, paid September 2, 1920.

SECURITY

These Certificates are to have a first and prior lien on 277 miles of street railroad, of which 79 miles were formerly mortgaged by St. Louis Railroad Company and Union Depot Railroad Company.

This lien covers more than 60% of the mileage of the system, including some of the most productive lines and such important trunk lines as the Olive Street, Broadway, Bellefontaine, Laclede Avenue, Grand Avenue, Fourth Street, Jefferson Avenue, and Wellston routes.

They are also to have a lien, subject to $10,600,000 divisional bonds all maturing before this issue, on the remaining property and franchises of United Railways Company of St. Louis, including 184 additional miles of track.

EQUITY

These Certificates rank prior to $30,300,000 United Railways Company of St. Louis First General Mortgage 4% Bonds and $9,790,000 junior bonds, upon which interest has always been paid.

ADDITIONAL ISSUES

The Court, in authorizing these Series A Certificates, reserves the right to authorize additional certificates for the purpose of retiring three issues of the above mentioned divisional bonds, aggregating $4,100,000 principal amount. These additional certificates will have a prior lien upon the properties described in the respective mortgages securing the bonds so retired, and will have the same lien and rights as these Series A Certificates upon all the remaining property and franchises of United Railways Company of St. Louis, except the property of St. Louis Railroad Company and Union Depot Railroad Company above mentioned, upon which these Series A Certificates are always to have a prior and paramount lien.

1916	12,551,029	9,223,762	3,327,267
1917	13,209,471	9,876,590	3,332,881

The annual interest charges on the $10,600,000 divisional bonds remaining outstanding and on these Certificates will be $808,430, an amount earned 3.71 times in the average of the seven years ended October 31, 1920, and 4.56 times in the year ended October 31, 1920.

Price 97.48 and interest, to yield about 8%

When, as and if issued and received by us, and subject to approval of counsel. It is expected that Certificates will be available for delivery about November 30. Legality of the proceedings in connection with the issuance of these Certificates will be passed upon by Messrs. Bryan, Williams and Cave for the undersigned, and Mr. Charles W. Bates as Counsel for the Receiver.

United Light and Railways Company

Ten-Year 8% Bond Secured Gold Notes

Dated November 1, 1920 Due November 1, 1930

We summarize as follows from a letter signed by Mr. Frank T. Hulswit, President of the Company:

Business: Company operates 19 Public-Utility properties (mainly electric and gas) which it owns or controls, supplying without competition of like service 55 prosperous manufacturing and agricultural communities, located in the heart of the Middle West.

Security: These Notes will be the direct obligation of the Company and will be secured by First and Refunding Mortgage 5% Bonds of the Company, due June 1, 1932, in the ratio of 133⅓% of Bonds to each 100% of Notes outstanding, or by cash equal to the face amount of the Notes.

Earnings: Earnings available for interest charges on First and Refunding Mortgage 5% Bonds and Bond Secured Notes outstanding (including this issue) exceed 2.78 times the annual requirements. Consolidated Net Earnings for the year ended September 30, 1920, exceed 1.89 times the sum of all prior charges and interest on First and Refunding Mortgage 5% Bonds and Bond Secured Notes, including this issue.

General: Conditions in all the territories served indicate continued expansion of business, for which the Company is well prepared by having ample central station capacity. The present management has been identified with the properties since their inception. The Company has been highly commended by public service commissions when ordering increases in rates.

All legal matters in connection with the issue of these Notes will be passed upon by Messrs. Humes, Buck, Smith & Tweed of New York. The accounts of the Company are audited annually by Messrs. Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Company, Chartered Accountants.

HEPBURN SAYS BASIS OF CREDIT IS SOUND

Asserts We Must Drop Pessimism and Realize Strength of Our Resources.

"What we now must need is to recover from the spirit of pessimism and realize the great strength in the resources of our country," said A. Barton Hepburn of the Chase National Bank in analyzing the credit situation. He said that deflation may be carried entirely too far, and expressed the belief that the credit structure of the country was sound. Mr. Hepburn said in part:

"It has been the aim, I may say struggle, of the business and banking interests to steady the deflation, the inevitable reaction from the wild inflation we have experienced, and enable business to reach a lower and safer level without disaster. There is danger that curtailment of business may be carried to an extreme, as unwise expansion was in the months following the armistice.

"We have more than a hundred million people who must be fed, clothed, housed, and who have other imperative needs. Manufacturers should continue to make goods from raw material at the reduced cost in volume sufficient to meet public requirements. Wholesalers should buy these goods and pass them on to retailers, as the public surely will require them in large volume.

"The credit fabric of the country I believe to be fundamentally sound. The commercial banks and Federal Reserve Bank are quite able to care for public needs. We may have a year or more of slow business, in which the shadow of the war and its inevitable readjustments will cloud the horizon, but eventually prosperity is sure.

"A recent practice in our business activities is very wrong. People order goods freely to meet their needs, and then refuse to accept and pay for the same if inconvenient; and if prices fall off it is usually inconvient. The wholesale welching of contracts to purchase goods is mainly responsible for the embarrassments in commercial business today."

A NEW YORK TIMES EDITORIAL
of Nov. 20 said:

The United Hospital Fund

"The United Hospitals of New York treated more than 178,000 persons in 1919. Half of them were free patients. One-half of the work of the hospitals was for the sick poor. Their number is increasing. The cost of caring for them has increased nearly double since 1919. The public must help the hospitals. These fifty-seven institutions make no distinction of nationality or religion. They are carefully conducted and don't allow themselves to be imposed on by persons pretending to be too poor to pay. To deny them proper support is impossible. * * *"

AMSTERDAM, the chief city in Holland is one of the oldest and best known in Europe. Its population is 640,000 and its funded debt $76,053,540 (per capita $119). Its annual revenue for 1921 is estimated at $20,000,000.

The per capita debt of Holland is $150 compared with $236 for United States, $825 for Great Britain and $1114 for France. The Bank of Netherlands gold reserve to circulation on September 6, 1920 amounted to 63% compared with 40% for United States and smaller ratios for other leading countries.

Subject to withdrawal and change in price, we offer the above bonds at $315 per 1000 guilder bond, to yield at current rate of exchange 6.67%, with possible additional income from appreciation in Dutch exchange towards its normal parity of 40.2c.

We are advised that non-resident holders of these bonds are not subject to present Dutch taxes

Republic of France
SUBSCRIPTIONS CLOSE NOVEMBER 30TH

These bonds are redeemable at par at the option of the French Government after January 1, 1931, and are a direct obligation of the Republic of France.

Price today $62.40 per 1,000 Franc Bond

Before the opening day of the loan, October 25th last, banks and business houses of Paris had already subscribed four billions of francs.

The recuperative power of France since the war is shown by a recent statement of the President of the French Council to the effect that in the industrial regions of Northern France three-fourths of the destroyed factories have resumed work entirely or in part.

The three most important factors to be considered in the selection of an investment are

YIELD,
MARKETABILITY.

Bonds which comply with these requirements may still be purchased at unusually attractive levels.

Upon request we shall be glad to submit a list of bonds of the above character, which we recommend for investment.

What a Big Detroit Bank Thinks of Credit Insurance—

A well-known bank of Detroit, Mich., has just written the American Credit-Indemnity Co. as follows:

"In our judgment, the matter of insuring open credits by business men has been a subject of growing importance for some years, and particularly at this time when there are so many problems confronting the country, the solution of which is difficult.

"The more conservative houses are taking every precaution to keep their affairs in a liquid shape, and the conditions under which the better grade of credit insurance policies are written, we believe constitute a contingent asset to any business man, the advantages of which should not be overlooked."

Bankers appreciate that it takes more skill to do business successfully when prices are falling, as now, than when prices were increasing. And they therefore endorse precautions that prevent, else pay, bad debt losses beyond the normal, which the American's "Unlimited-Interim-Payment" Policy does.

WOULD UPSET ROAD'S SALE

Dutch Syndicate Reported Among Those Hard Hit if Denver Stock Is Wiped Out.

While the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Company has been sold to the Western Pacific Railway for $5,000,000, counsel for the Denver & Rio Grande Stockholders' Protective Committee indicated yesterday that efforts would be made to have the $38,000,000 judgment obtained by the Western Pacific declared void. It was to satisfy the remainder of this judgment that the Western courts ordered the Denver properties sold last Saturday.

According to information in the financial district yesterday, a Dutch syndicate will be among those hard hit if the Denver stock is wiped out as the result of the sale. This syndicate owns 100,000 shares of the preferred stock, which was purchased many years ago for $80 a share.

Another of the big holders of Denver stock is the Missouri Pacific, which in its last report shows some $17,295,000 par value of the stock owned. In 1919 the Missouri Pacific disposed of more than $9,000,000 of the Denver preferred stock.

Until Dec. 18, the date which has been set for confirmation of the sale of the road by the court, there will be some measure of uncertainty regarding the final settlement of the matter. In the meantime, the Stockholders' Protective Committee is pushing its effort to show that the original $38,000,000 Western Pacific judgment should be declared void. If this contention is upheld, the Denver property will revert to the road.

CHINO PROFITS DECREASE.

For the quarter ended with Sept. 30 the Chino Copper Company yesterday reported a profit of $108,783. This was equivalent to 12 cents a share on the $4,349,900 ($5 par value) capital stock, as against 37 cents a share in the preceding quarter and 80 cents a share in the corresponding 1919 period. For the nine months ended with September total profits were $1,248,662, or $1.43 a share. In the corresponding period a year ago $1.03 a share was earned.

After the payment of $326,242 in dividends the September quarter showed a deficit of $217,459. In the same 1919 quarter $652,485 was paid in dividends and a surplus of $49,899 remained. For the nine months of 1920 the report showed a surplus of $269,935, as compared with a $1,058,067 deficit in the corresponding 1919 period.

Amsterdam Loan Offered Americans

J. S. Bache & Co., in conjunction with their Amsterdam correspondents, H. Oyens & Zonen, are offering in this country part of an issue of 15,000 000 guilders 7 per cent. internal loan of the City of Amsterdam at $315 per 1,000 guilder bond. At the offering price the bonds yield 6.67 per cent. at the current rate of exchange. Non-resident holders of the bonds are not subject to current Dutch taxes.

Honors Guaranty Trust Officers.

LEADS IN TRUST CONCERNS.

Resources of Companies in the State Are $3,600,000,000.

The eighteenth annual edition of "Trust Companies of the United States," which has just been issued by the United States Mortgage and Trust Company, contains a review by John W. Platten, President, in which he says:

"The total resources of the 2,241 trust companies reporting show the impressive total of over $12,450,000,000, an increase of $1,300,000 000 over last year's figures, and $6,100,000,000 greater than five years ago. In total resources New York State leads with $3,600,000,000, or 28 per cent. of the trust company resources of the country."

PRICE RESISTANCE LAID TO RETAILERS

Labor Federation Accused of Opposing Changed Conditions as Open Shop Idea.

One of the outstanding factors in the downward movement of prices is the failure of reductions to find their way proportionately through the retail channels. The Guaranty Trust Company, in a survey of conditions, points out this feature of the situation.

"The movement of prices toward lower levels," says the bank, "has gained momentum during the last two weeks. An increasing number of commodities are being affected, and the whole spirit of trading indicates a growing acceptance of the idea that readjustment must come eventually and that the sooner it is over the better off the country will be.

"The outstanding feature of the present movement is the resistance of the retail dealer to the forces which have brought manufacturers, wholesalers and jobbers to an admission that business can no longer be done on the basis of war prices. While wholesale prices of wheat, corn, beef, sugar, coffee, cotton, wool, leather, rubber, copper, lead, steel and other commodities have come down, the consumer is still paying more for flour than he did last year, the retail price of corn is still up to last year's level, beef prices continue higher than last year, coffee follows the same example, and in the case of sugar, cotton goods, woolens, shoes, rubbers and household utensils the reductions do not in general reflect faithfully the cuts which manufacturers and wholesalers have accepted.

"If there is any force comparable to this resistance of the retailer, it is the determination of buyers to refrain from purchasing anything except necessities. As described by A. W. Douglas, Chairman of the Committee on Statistics, in the monthly report of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, 'demand in all lines is slackening,' it is everywhere 'a case of most conservative buying rather than any great increase in supply,' and 'we are having a vivid illustration of how our usual volume of business is made up largely of things people do not really need.'

"In many sections of the country labor is showing a disposition to contribute to the support of readjusting business to conditions. New England textile workers have accepted reductions in wages rather than see the mills closed. Forty thousand New York truckmen have voted to work an additional hour per day at the same wage. There has been a great improvement in the efficiency of workers, prompted by the desire to forestall wage reductions and to hold jobs against the return of workmen from war industries.

"This tendency toward lower wages and greater efficiency is being opposed by the American Federation of Labor on the ground that it presages a strengthening of the open shop idea, and an appeal has been sent out to all union workers for contributions to be used for closed shop propaganda. The economic fact with which such propaganda must collide is that there are more men today than there are jobs, and that there will be still more men as war-time activities are gradually brought to an end and the full tide of immigration sweeps westward from Europe."

OF THE
Mason City and Fort Dodge Railroad Co.

Notice has been received from the Chicago Great Western Railroad Company, which owns all of the capital stock of the Mason City and Fort Dodge Railroad Company, stating that interest on the bonds of the above-named issue has not been earned for several years, that during this period the Chicago Great Western Railroad Company has advanced funds with which to make up the deficiency, that the Chicago Great Western Railroad Company has determined that it will no longer make such advances, and that as a result of this decision the interest due on the bonds of the above-named issue on December 1, 1920, will not be paid.

The undersigned have been asked and have agreed to act as a Bondholders' Committee to represent and protect the interests of the holders of the above described bonds. A Deposit Agreement, under which The New York Trust Company will act as Depositary and the Illinois Trust & Savings Bank as Sub-Depositary, is in process of preparation and copies thereof will be furnished upon completion to those applying to the office of either of said depositaries.

The situation is one which requires prompt and concerted action by the bondholders, who are therefore URGED TO DEPOSIT THEIR BONDS, together with the December 1st, 1920, and subsequent coupons attached, with The New York Trust Company, 26 Broad Street, New York City, or The Illinois Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago, Illinois, under said Deposit Agreement in order that the Committee may act in their behalf.

Temporary Certificates of Deposit will be issued by the Depositary or Sub-Depositary, exchangeable for engraved bearer certificates when ready for delivery.

GREAT IRREGULARITY IN COTTON MARKET

Prices Move Over Wide Range, Finally Closing 5 to 31 Points Up.

There was a decidedly mixed complexion to yesterday's cotton market, which was more or less natural considering the very considerable decline of last week and the extensive liquidation which took place then and the fact that the trade still is holding off and not buying even at present levels. First prices were down 25 points for December and 5 to 13 for the rest of the list, but on covering around the ring the market rose speedily until it was up to 25 to 45 points. Then, at the high levels, there was fresh selling from the South, especially from New Orleans where both spots and futures were down.

In the late trading the market turned again and advanced from the day's lows to not far from the early highs. This late turn was due mainly to the sympathetic influence of other markets, where stocks were strong, exchanges were moving up and money was coming down. The South, however, continued a persistent seller throughout the session, and this, in the opinion of most observers, was distinctly a bad indication. Final prices showed December up 5 points from Saturday's closing and the rest of the list up 18 to 31 points, with January enjoying the greatest gain.

After such a break as was witnessed last week it would be natural for the market to experience some recovery, and if it had gone up a great deal more than it did yesterday there would have been nothing startling about it. That it was so irregular argues for no great amount of confidence, either in the trade or in speculative circles, and late yesterday there were as many bears around as ever.

Spots here went to a new low of 17.10 for middling. In the South the Galveston market showed a recovery of 25 points, but the others were all down, Dallas going under 15 cents to 14.90 for the first time. Liverpool spots also were down to a new low of 12.21d., off 0 points from Friday.

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Previous Day.
Dec.	16.00	16.50	15.56	16.30@16.35	16.25
Jan.	15.75	16.25	15.48	16.19@16.20	15.88
March	15.75	16.20	15.35	16.05@16.10	15.83
May	15.75	16.16	15.30	15.98@16.00	15.80
July	15.60	16.00	15.15	15.75	15.55
Sept.	....	....	....	15.60	15.40

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, 15 points lower, at 17.10c. for middling upland; no sales.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 16.75c., up .25; New Orleans, 16c., down .25; Savannah, 16.25c., unchanged; Augusta, 15.75c., down .25; Memphis, 16.50c., unchanged; Houston, 16.25c., unchanged; Little Rock, 16.50c., down .50.

Yesterday's cotton statistics were:

	Yesterday.	Last Wk.	Last Yr.
Port receipts	30,731	31,175	30,793

COMMODITY PRICES

Tone of Wholesale Markets Still Weak—Price Recessions Are Again Made in Foodstuffs.

For the most part cash prices in the wholesale market yesterday declined further, wheat dropping 7 cents a bushel, oats ½ cent per bushel, and flour 50 cents per barrel. New low levels were touched for the year on this movement. Corn regained ¼ cent per bushel of its recent price loss.

WHEAT MARKET COLLAPSES.

Lack of Confidence and Paralyzed Buying Causes Decrease of 11½c.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Paralysis of general buying led to a collapse of 11½ cents a bushel today in the price of wheat. The market afterward rallied a little, but the close was semi-demoralized 2½c to 9c net lower, with Dec. $1.60 to $1.60½ and March $1.55 to $1.56. Corn gained ¼ to 2½ and oats lost ¼c to 1½c. In provisions there was a setback ranging from 57c to $1.50.

Almost complete lack of confidence in the bull side of the wheat market was shown by a majority of traders. Some of the more adventurous spirits in the pit evinced a disposition at the outset to act on opinions that a decided reaction was due after the drastic liquidation which of late had been forced on speculative holders. Increased selling pressure that quickly developed, however, made would-be purchasers take fright and appeared to centre attention more than ever on bearish aspects of the economic situation. Downward swings of wheat prices thereupon increased in violence, despite word of export business totaling 1,000,000 bushels and notwithstanding a big decrease in the visible supply total. The sole important exception was that shorts in March delivery covered actively at the last.

Corn and Oats, in sympathy with the weakness of wheat, dragged below any records since 1915, but then corn became firmer. It was said that a leading bear speculator in corn was reducing his commitments. Acute depression in the hog market sent provisions down grade.

HEARS CENTRAL ON FARE.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 22.—The appeal of the New York Central Railroad from the decision of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court that the two-cents-a-mile passenger rate between Albany and Buffalo be restored was argued in the Court of Appeals today.

R. E. Whalen, counsel for the railroad, contended that the rate of 3 cents a mile fixed by the Director General of Railroads during the war remained in full force and effect. He claimed the two-cent rate no longer is effective, nor could it become effective, unless and until restored by the authority which originally fixed the rate. The order of the Public Service Commission directing the restoration of the two-cent rate, which was a stipulation in the charter granted to the railroad in 1853, was, he said, predicated upon a statute which is null and void because it is no longer in effect.

Counsel for the Public Service Commission argued that the section of the railroad law fixing the rate was merely suspended during the war and was not destroyed by Federal control of the roads during that time.

A Baltimore investment house with a rather exceptional sales organization, with clientele Baltimore proper as well as the South, would be interested in forming a connection with some good reliable house to handle their securities on a part expense basis. We would not be interested in any oil or promotions. Splendid opportunity for house without representation or distribution in territory named. X 2279 Times Annex.

HEARING IS CLOSED ON RELIGIOUS HOUR

School Committee Will Consider Arguments For and Against Time for Instruction.

FORM OF PLAN CRITICISED

Contended That Children Should Be Dismissed Without Statement of Purpose.

The final hearing by the special committee of the Board of Education on the question of dismissing pupils in the public schools at 2 o'clock on Wednesday afternoons to receive religious instruction was concluded last night at the Board of Education Hall, Park Avenue and Fifty-ninth Street. In spite of the rain the hall, both on the floor and in the gallery, was crowded to excess, mostly by women.

Chairman Ryan announced that he would hear persons favoring and opposing the resolution of the Interdenominational Committee, which has asked the Board of Education to release pupils at the hour named. The first speaker was Mrs. J. A. Seidman of the Local Board of Public School 152, Manhattan, who said she had been opposed to the resolution, but at the first meeting of the committee the opponents of the measure showed such anger and bitterness that she had changed her opinion.

Attending last Monday's meeting, when the churchmen spoke, she was puzzled at the numerous bodies that would have to care for the children when they were turned out of school. Mrs. Seidman said it seemed a difficult matter to attend to the very large number of children.

Bernard Rosenberg said that he was born in this city and was graduated from the public schools and was a former teacher in them. As a boy he attended a religious school for eight years. He replied to Bishop Burch's remarks and quoted from Huxley to show his views on the educator-scientist on the subject of Bishops. He declared that the Bishop had expounded the Constitution, and a Judge the same evening had held forth upon the moral mode; temporarily, at least, they exchanged functions.

"One little hour, only a little hour, of the children's time they asked for," he said. "One of the members told us with great self-abnegation that they might have asked for this and for that, but they didn't. But presently another member told us that they had asked for more elsewhere and gotten it, though, Lord love you, not here. Here we love the Constitution."

Wants to Know About Odd Hours.

Mrs. Dora T. Rositt of the Centralized Local School Boards was another speaker against the resolution. She wanted to know why the children could not be taught religion in the 7,000-odd hours not included in the school year.

Arthur Craig of the Equity Congress Club said he had taught in the Protestant schools and that teaching there was more or less of a failure. The Catholics and the rabbis, he declared, who were not asking this favor, taught children better in their schools than did the Protestants.

A. H. Reggio, who said he had come to America not from the Pilgrim Fathers but through Ellis Island, spoke of his efforts to care for the children of the foreign born. There was ample time, he thought, for the church people to take hold of the children after school hours and teach them whatever they thought was needed.

Mrs. Ellen A. O'Grady, Fifth Deputy Police Commissioner, spoke about the "terrible" increase in vice and crime noticeable among children, and declared that something ought to be done to check it. She was in favor of having the ten commandments taught the children at an early age. There was nothing in those commandments that a member of any religious faith could object to, she said.

Sara L. Rhodes, Principal of Public School 28, Brooklyn, said it was impracticable to carry out the resolution, and its operation would cause a great amount of strife, religious and otherwise.

The Rev. William M. Hess, for the second time in the course of the hearing, denounced the resolution, pointing out that it meant a union of Church and State.

Ministers Favor Plan.

On the side of the resolution, the Rev. Harry Webb Parrington, in the absence of the Rev. Dr. Luther D. Wilson, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, read letters from the Congregationalist and Baptist Associations, stating that they favored the resolution. He received these communications, he explained, as a member of the Interdenominational Committee.

Mgr. M. J. Lavelle, rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, said: "All the men in the movement for closing the schools on Wednesday an hour earlier are honest men. They are hoping that their view will be indorsed by the Board of Education, but whether it is or is not they would take the result in a purely American spirit."

Mgr. Lavelle said that in the beginning in America the schools were taught by theologians. The church was very close to it. But, as the country expanded and the religions began to differentiate, a movement began that resulted in the public school system of today. It was designed, he said, not to drive religion out, but to let all the children into the schools.

The work of the committee, he said, had been to supplement and not take the place of secular education, and this without in any manner involving the schools or those directing them. The fact that the men and women of the committee could meet and had come to be of the same mind, was evidence the rest of the people could do the same. He hoped the measure would receive the favorable consideration of the committee.

O. Ellery Edwards, a Unitarian, said that his church was in favor of the resolution. The Rev. Charles H. Sears, Secretary of the Protestant Week-Day Religious Association, expressed a similar sentiment.

Rabbi Joseph J. Silverman of Temple Emanu-El, Fifth Avenue and Forty-third Street, said he would express himself in a way which probably would not be satisfactory to either side. He said the way in which the resolution was drawn was faulty, and the Interdenominational Committee was to blame for it.

The resolution asked, Dr. Silverman said, that the Board of Education should discharge the pupils for the purpose of religious instruction. This, he declared, was contrary to the spirit of true Americanism, and the people would resent any such action on the part of the board.

The Jews, he declared, had not asked for the resolution, but would not oppose it if it was passed in a different form. This was for the Board of Education to dismiss the children on Wednesdays at 2 o'clock as a weekday ending of the school day.

W. Bourke Cockran, recently elected to Congress, read from an editorial in THE NEW YORK TIMES of Nov. 10 against the resolution. There was no intention, he declared, on the part of any of the supporters of the resolution to promote a union between the Church and the State. He added that the Ten Commandments formed a sound basis upon which to instruct children in public schools.

"'Thou shalt not kill. Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor. Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's wife' are statements which apply to all men, and to the truth of them every one will accede," Mr. Cockran declared.

"The world is threatened with famine," he added, referring to the consequences of the war. "The principles of profit taught by materialists as a basis of the prosperity of a people has failed and religion only can save humanity."

FEARS EFFECT ON SCHOOLS.

"I foresee the break-up of our great school democracy" was the keynote of an address given by Anning S. Prall, President of the Board of Education, to 2,000 old students of Grove Street Grammar School No. 8, at its 103d anniversary last night in the Southerland Auditorium, Grove and Hudson Streets.

"The question of religious instruction in the public schools is the most serious that the board has to face," said Mr. Prall. "Here is the proposition we are asked to turn into an actuality: Close every school in New York City at 2 o'clock on Wednesdays and dismiss the children in order that they may go to the places of worship named by their parents; there they will receive an hour's instruction.

"Very well. That is an excellent plan—on the surface. But see what will happen. The children will begin to compare their respective religions. Tommy notices that his friend George goes to one church, while he goes to another. He may think his church the best, and then he will think that George is not quite so good as he is. The same thing will happen with Mary and her friend Anne; a million children will begin to say: 'I am better than So-and-So.' All sorts of religions will look down on one another, because of the youth and childish ideas of the students.

"The great spirit of 'rub-shoulders,' which means so much to our country and has made our democracy a real and lasting democracy, because it was fostered and grew in our school days, will change to snobbery. We shall lose the good-fellowship born of a wonderful intermingling. We shall throw away the tradition of friendship which our public schools have handed down to us, and I myself do not think that we can afford to throw it away."

ASK FOR FINANCE BOARD.

Bankers Declare Revival Is Needed, Says Eugene Meyer, Jr.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—Eugene Meyer Jr., former managing director of the War Finance Corporation, issued a statement here today saying that hundreds of bankers with whom he had talked on a trip through the Central West with the Calder Senate Committee on Reconstruction, have with one exception endorsed a proposal to revive the Finance Corporation.

Business conditions throughout the territory visited by the committee are serious, Mr. Meyer said, and action is urgently needed to restore sound financing. His statement says in part:

"I have been all over the Central West as far as Denver and south to New Orleans. The Calder committee has met thousands of the foremost representatives of agriculture, mining, manufacturing and banking in Cleveland, Chicago, Des Moines, Omaha, Denver, Kansas City, St. Louis and New Orleans. There is a complete agreement everywhere on the deplorable state of business. Commerce is halting and for many of our most important products there is little, if any, market. The assistance of the War Finance Corporation in connection with export trade is looked upon everywhere as the most important immediate practical step that could be brought forward for the improvement of the situation."

AUSTRALIA'S WHEAT CROP.

Melbourne Estimates Surplus of 100,000,000 Bushels for Export.

MELBOURNE, Nov. 22.—Australia will have 100,000,000 bushels of high-grade wheat to export from her present season's crop, it has been announced. The new wheat will begin to move abroad in January.

Figures available for the first four months of the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1920, show that 12,000,000 bushels of last year's wheat crop were exported during that period.

The Bronx Market.

Ernest J. Cuozzo sold for William L. Phelan to Major Fiorello La Guardia, President of the Board of Aldermen, for his own occupancy, the stucco dwelling on University Avenue, between Tremont and Burnside Avenues, West Bronx.

Nicholas Lopard resold for Joseph Warshaw, the three-story and basement brick dwelling, 1,552 Bryant Avenue, on a lot 20 by 100, to Mrs. Grazia Ferrigno. Also resold for Mrs. Kate Sommers, the three-story detached two-family frame dwelling, 803 East 163d Street, Bronx, to R. Haness, who will alter for store and business purposes.

William Schacht sold for Thomas P. Howley 1,951-1,953-1,955 Hunt Avenue, Bronx, three two-family houses on a plot 50 by 100, to an investor.

J. Clarence Davies sold to Lottie Elliott the vacant plot, 50 by 70, on the west side of Broadway, 300 feet north of 246th Street.

Private Dwelling Buyers.

The three-story dwelling, 2,350 Seventh Avenue, on a plot 35 by 78, has been sold by the Tener Company to Albert A. Thomas.

Ryan & Co. sold for William F. Mulcahy, the four-story dwelling, 139 West 122d Street, on a lot 16.8 by 100, to a client who will occupy.

Slawson & Hobbs sold for K. Y. Remer to S. L. Pakas, 165 West Seventy-sixth Street a three and one-half story dwelling, on a lot 20 by 102.2.

Louis Schrag, sold for Oliver A. McMahon the three-story dwelling, 312 West Twenty-second Street, on lot 20 by 98.9, located opposite St. Paul's German Lutheran Church, to be used as a parsonage in connection with the church.

L. J. Phillips & Co., sold for Mrs. Clara Gergau, the four-story dwelling, 146 West 75th Street, on a lot 20 by 102, located between Columbus and Amsterdam Avenues. The purchaser will occupy the premises. Mrs. Gergau purchased the property some years ago through L. J. Phillips & Co.

GOOD BIDDING FOR QUEENS PROPERTY

AVERAGE EXCEEDED $1,500

Remainder of the Tract, 340 Lots, Will Be Sold in the Vesey Street Room Today.

The increasing demand by small investors and home site buyers for property within easy reach of Manhattan in anticipation of the predicted building boom next year was evident last Saturday when 300 lots in the Thomson Hill section of Long Island City were sold at public auction in the course of a few hours for a total of $461,000 by Joseph P. Day.

The average price for the lots was a trifle more than $1,500 a lot, which is the best price obtained for lots in that vicinity since 1914. Mr. Day announced last evening that the sale would be continued today in the Vesey Street Salesroom when the balance of the property, about 340 lots, will be disposed of. One of the features of Saturday's session was the sale of the entire block bounded by Queens Boulevard, Nelson Avenue, Honeywell and Buckley Streets at the Rawson Street subway station. It was purchased by interests identified with the Selznick motion picture concern. Mr. Selznick owns the block to the west. The corners of Queens Boulevard and Honeywell and Buckley Streets, 20 by 100, each brought $7,200 and inside lots on the Boulevard were sold for $4,500 each. The Nelson Avenue corners brought $2,600 each and as high as $3,000 was paid for inside lots in the block. Eight lots on Nelson Avenue brought $1,700 each.

The southeast corner of Queens Boulevard and Hulst Street sold for $7,000, as did the southwest corner of Van Pelt Street. Frederick S. Segfried was the buyer and he also took the two lots adjoining the corners for $4,500 each. The other inside lots on the block brought the same price. Lots adjoining to the south on Hulst and Van Pelt Streets brought $2,900 each. On Nelson Avenue $2,400 was paid for corners and $1,500 for inside lots.

Greenpoint Avenue lots brought $1,500 for corners and $800 for inside ones. Brooklyn builders were very much in evidence. Joseph F. Caufield, building contractor, bought forty lots on both sides of Bragaw Street, south of Nelson Avenue, paying $900 each and P. Trainer acquired ten lots for improvement. G. N. Mathews and associates bought a large plot of lots which will be improved. Among some of the other buyers were Peter P. Campbell, Cyrille Carreau, real estate broker, representing a client; J. Johnson, M. H. Blau, Jacob Schneider, J. Temple and R. R. Karick, representing the American Taximeter Company.

At the close of the sale Mr. Day said: "We are now in the middle of the readjustment. The papers are full of lowering prices for commodities. In spite of this condition there is ample evidence that the lot market in Long Island City is better today than for many years, and I firmly believe that this can mean nothing but increased building activity next Spring."

There are a number of corners and inside lots on Queens Boulevard to be sold today, also corners and inside lots on Nelson and Greenpoint Avenues, and Bragaw, Lowery, Van Buren and Madden Streets and Laurel Hill Avenue.

Tenement Investments.

Jennie Cohen sold to Barnet Maukes the five-story flat, 32.6 by 100.11, at 61 East 117th Street.

Eugene C. Wolff sold to Michel Heler the six-story tenement, 25 by 100.5, at 227 East Sixty-third Street.

Sale of Bronx Dwellings Today.

The I. Lincoln Seide Company will sell at noon today at the Exchange Salesroom in Vesey Street, sixteen West Bronx dwellings on Creston, Bainbridge and Briggs Avenues, also a business or theatre building near the junction of Kingsbridge Road. At the same time they will also offer three East Bronx dwellings, at 1,066 Tiffany Street, 864 East 165th Street, 737 and 737½ Forest Avenue and one dwelling at 196 Buena Vista Avenue, Yonkers. The sale is to liquidate the Creston Realty Corporation.

Operators Buy on West Side.

The three four-story dwellings at 316 to 320 West Eighty-ninth Street, covering a plot 62 by 104.8 feet, have been purchased by Victor Cerebone from the estate of Marie L. and William Degeuer. The property is between West End Avenue and Broadway. It will be held for improvement in the near future when building conditions are more favorable with an apartment house. Pease & Elliman were the brokers in the transactions.

BIG WESTBURY SALE.

William J. Roome & Co. have sold for the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, as trustee for the estate of William G. Park, a large property at Westbury, L. I., to Harry Payne Bingham. It formerly belonged to the Perry Tiffanys and was purchased by the late William G. Park in 1902, when Park made extensive improvements to the house and stable. The property has been held at $420,000.

The estate adjoins the property of the late Robert L. Bacon, formerly United States Ambassador to France, and the Norman Whitehouse property, now owned by George J. Whalan, President of the United Cigar Stores Corporation, and the estate of John S. Phipps. Besides a large brick house, stables, garage and two separate lodges at the entrances there are about forty acres of ground. Mr. Bingham has plans drawn to make extensive alterations.

Mr. Bingham recently moved to New York after having sold his home in Cleveland, Ohio, to Daniel A. Hanna. Last Spring Mr. Bingham leased through the same brokers the I. Townsend Burden property at Roslyn to May 1, 1921, which he now occupies. S. A. Warner Baltazzi represented Mrs. William G. Park in the recent transaction.

Realty Notes.

Plans have been filed for a six-story apartment house to be erected by the Melrose Avenue Real Estate Corporation on a plot 99.11 by 72.8 feet on the northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 148th Street. G. F. Pelham, the architect, places the cost at $250,000. The owners have stated that work will not begin until building conditions improve.

Walter F. Sherwood has leased to the Postal Telegraph-Cable Company the corner store, 145 Washington Street, also the store 910 Seventh Avenue, both for a term of years.

The Jere Johnson Jr. Company will sell at auction next Saturday on the premises a large frame dwelling and semi-bungalow, with several vacant plots on Manor Road, north of Richmond Turnpike, Castleton Four Corners, S. I.

Lower Second Avenue Sale.

The two four-story tenements and three-story building, on plot 48 by 65 by 20 by 80, at 63 and 65 Second Avenue and 80 East Fourth Street, have been sold by the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, as trustee, to Harry Henick. The buildings, which form an "L" around the southwest corner of these thoroughfares, were sold for $64,000.

MEETINGS AND ELECTIONS.

NOTICE OF SPECIAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS.

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that a Special Meeting of the Stockholders of PACIFIC DEVELOPMENT CORPORATION will be held at the office of the Company, No. 80 Wall Street, New York, N. Y., on the 8th day of December, 1920, at 10:30 o'clock A.M., for the following purposes, to wit:

(1) Of reorganizing the Corporation pursuant to Section 24 of the Stock Corporation Law so as to permit the issuance of shares without par value, the terms upon which the outstanding shares of stock are to be exchanged for the new shares being one share of the outstanding stock of the par value of $50 for one new share without nominal or par value, and the Certificate of Reorganization further providing that the Corporation shall be authorized to issue 500,000 shares of stock all of one class, without nominal or par value, that the stated capital shall be $2,500,000, and that the Board of Directors shall be authorized to issue and sell the remaining authorized shares, from time to time, for such consideration as shall be the fair market value of said shares; and

(2) In the event of such reorganization, of authorizing and consenting to the offering to the stockholders of the right to subscribe for additional shares of the new stock in the ratio of one share for each four shares held or subscribed for, at Twenty-five Dollars ($25) per share; and approving an underwriting agreement for the underwriting of the shares so to be offered to the stockholders; and

(3) Of considering and acting on any and all other matters connected with the aforesaid reorganization, the offering of additional shares to the stockholders, and said underwriting agreement, that may come before the meeting.

For the purposes of this meeting, the stock transfer books of the Corporation will be closed at three o'clock P. M. on December 1, 1920, and will remain closed until ten o'clock A. M. on December 9, 1920.

By order of the Board of Directors.
EDWARD B. BRUCE, President.
H. M. BILLINGSLEY, Asst. Secy.

Notice is hereby given of a special meeting of stockholders of No More Key Manufacturing Company, Inc., to be held at Stuyvesant Casino, 140 Second Avenue, New York City, at 6:30 o'clock in the evening of the 29th day of November, 1920, for the following purposes:

1. To elect directors to fill vacancies caused by resignations.
2. To secure the approval, by vote of holders of at least two-thirds of the stock of said corporation of an agreement for the consolidation of this corporation and No More Key Sales Company, Inc., submitted by the boards of directors of said corporations to the stockholders of their respective corporations.

Dated, New York, November 9th, 1920.

LEGAL ADVERTISEMENTS.

To all claimants against New York Railways Company:

Please take notice that in accordance with the terms of an order made by the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York in the above entitled consolidated cause, dated November 10, 1920, all persons, who have heretofore in accordance with the orders of the said Court filed claims against New York Railways Company, may present on or before December 31, 1920, to Job E. Hedges, as Receiver of New York Railways Company, at his office, 165 Broadway, in the Borough of Manhattan, City of New York, State of New York, a statement setting forth all claims and demands for preferential payment, specifying therein to what extent such preferential payment is claimed over any other class of claims, secured or unsecured, and the grounds upon which said claim for preferential payment is based. The said order, dated November 10th, 1920, further provides as follows: A claim or claims for preferential payment may be filed on or before said day by Samuel Seabury, John V. Bouvier, Robert H. Ernest and Charles Steckler, as a Committee of Tort Creditors on behalf of the tort claimants against said New York Railways Company represented by them, and such claim for preference, when so filed, shall be considered as having been filed on behalf of all other tort claimants, whose claims are similarly situated; but any tort claimant may, if he so elects, file a claim on his own behalf. All persons having filed claims against the said New York Railways Company, who shall fail to present to the said Receiver their claims for preferential payment as provided in said order, on or before the said 31st day of December, 1920, shall be barred from thereafter claiming or asserting any claim for preferential payment over any other claims, secured or unsecured, unless the claim of any such person is entitled to a preference under the decisions of the Court upon some claim for preference filed as provided in said order. If the claim of any such person, who has not filed a claim for preference as provided in said order, is entitled to a preference under the decisions of the Court, such person shall be allowed to avail himself of such decisions only upon such terms as the Court may hereafter prescribe.

Dated, New York, November 11, 1920.
JOB E. HEDGES,
As Receiver of New York Railways Company.

JAMES STOLLWORTHY VS. ANNIE C. Stollworthy—Order of Notice—State of Connecticut, Fairfield County, Superior Court, ss. Bridgeport, November 19, A. D. 1920.

Upon the complaint of James Stollworthy, praying, for the reasons therein set forth, for a divorce, returnable to the Superior Court of Fairfield County, to be held on the first Tuesday of December, 1920, it appearing to and being found by the subscribing authority that the said defendant is not a resident of this State, and that her whereabouts are unknown, it is, therefore,

Ordered that notice of the pendency of said complaint be given to the said defendant, Annie C. Stollworthy, by publishing this order of notice in three issues of The New York Times, a daily newspaper published in the City and State of New York, commencing on or before the 24th day of November, 1920.

FRED W. TRACY,
Clerk of the Superior Court for Fairfield County.

DISTRICT COURT OF THE UNITED STATES, SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK.—ARCHER DANIELS LINSEED COMPANY, against BOLLE WATSON COMPANY, INCORPORATED.—IN EQUITY NO. 19-252.

Pursuant to the terms of an order made in the foregoing suit on the 6th day of November, 1920, notice is hereby given to all creditors of the defendant, Bolle Watson Co., Inc., and to other parties in interest, to show cause at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of the 30th day of November, 1920, at the Chambers of Judge Augustus N. Hand, in the Woolworth Building, No. 233 Broadway, New York City, why the temporary receivership of the defendant should not be continued during the pendency of said suit.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

TRADE MARK REGISTERED NOTICE. State of New York, Office of the Secretary of State, ss.—It is hereby certified that the trade mark "Shell Briar" of M. M. Importing Co., was this day placed on file in this office. The principal place of business of said company is located at 6 East Forty-fifth Street, in the Borough of Manhattan, City, County and State of New York.

JURORS IN BONNETS CONVICT QUICKLY

EDITH COLBY IS FOREMAN

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 22.—Hats are being worn by women jurors in New Jersey this term. The precedent of the learned Judge in Chicago who fined two women spectators for remaining covered in his presence was ignored yesterday by Judge Daniel A. Dugan in the Essex County District Court.

There was in fact a brilliant exhibition of millinery when Judge Dugan called the court to order for the first trial of a criminal case by a jury of women in New Jersey.

According to J. G. Galagher, Sergeant-at-Arms, it was the smartest show of the kind ever seen in the Essex County District Court. Judge Dugan surveyed the colorful rows of benches before him without any appearance of hostility or chagrin.

The first woman called as a juror was Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, but she had been excused by telephone on her explanation that her husband was sick. The inventor, it was said later at his home, had a cold, but his condition was not serious.

Mrs. Colby Made Foreman.

Mrs. Edith Colby, wife of the former State Senator and noted Bull Moose, Everett Colby, was then called, questioned briefly, accepted and made foreman. The names of a number of prominent women were then called, and the other eleven selected were Mrs. Jennie C. Van Ness, Assemblyman-elect of East Orange; Mrs. Addie Schoenthal, wife of City Commissioner Isaac Schoenthal of East Orange; Mrs. Hannah Coughtry, wife of Frank Coughtry, the Orange City Controller; Mrs. Catherine Henneke of 204 Elizabeth Avenue, Newark; Mrs. Augusta H. Smith, wife of W. Bradford Smith, an Orange lawyer; Mrs. Catherine R. Gasnes; Mrs. Lillian Lethbridge, wife of former Speaker Edgar Lethbridge of the New Jersey Assembly; Mrs. Josephine Moriarity, wife of James D. Moriarity, Postmaster of Orange; Mrs. Hannah Fell, widow of L. T. Fell, a former Democratic leader of Orange; Mrs. Daisy Naulty of West Orange, wife of a hat manufacturer.

When the jury box was filled, Judge Dugan delayed the trial long enough for the new feature of trial procedure as practiced when there are women juries. Tremendous flashes and roars followed, as six flashlights went off at intervals, to show the world what a modern jury looks like in its silks and furs. For a minute the courtroom was noisier and smokier than the late Buffalo Bill's main tent during the reproduction of Custer's Last Fight.

Found Guilty in Seventeen Minutes.

At the first explosion, the jurors blinked and looked at one another in surprise, as if admitting that jury duty was not the simple matter they expected and that citizenship imposed unexpected responsibilities. When they were dazed by repeated bangs of flashlight powder, operators began to grind motion picture machine at them at close range.

One of the operators then explained politely that he thought fifty or sixty million people would like to see a little more action in these films. Mrs. Colby was then pictured handing up a sealed verdict, while the other jurors looked grave.

All the ancient forms of the common law having been accomplished, then came the trial. The charge was that of practicing dentistry without a license. The defendant, a nice-looking youth of 21 years, was alleged to have pulled teeth illegally in the office of his brother Sylvan, a qualified dentist. Despite his youth and good looks, the jury, seventeen minutes after their retirement, returned a verdict of guilty. Judge Dugan postponed sentence and thanked the jury, adding:

"Now that women have been admitted to citizenship, they must assume its responsibilities. You have sacrificed your household duties and hereafter, if you present evidence that you are being inconvenienced, I shall excuse you."

Service

WHETHER a business be large or small; whether it be individually owned, or jointly owned as a partnership or a corporation; whether it be engaged in selling merchandise, service or ideas, accountancy service is invaluable.

Accountancy service may start with organizations when they are small and demonstrate its effectiveness as the business enlarges by giving continually the guidance, vision and system necessary to provide for constant growth.

This organization has been privileged to serve clients from their modest beginning and is continuing to serve them effectively now in their present leadership.
